The number of Latino students enrolled at the University of Iowa has almost doubled in the past five years.

By REBECCA MORIN
rmorin@uiowa.edu

As the Latino population is expanding throughout the nation, the University of Iowa is mirroring that growth.

In 2008, slightly more than 850 Latino students were enrolled at the UI — that number has grown to approximately 1,600 over the last five years. Latino students are also the leading domestic minority group enrolled at the UI.

Emil Briendepoche, associate director of UI Admissions, said the growth of minority students is reflective of Iowa's growing Latino population.

According to the State Data Center of Iowa, the estimated Latino population as of July 2012 was 182,894, 5.3 percent of the state population.

"A lot of the growth is driven by demographics," Briendepoche said. "Hispanic families tend to be younger and larger, the influx of new people has certainly hit the school districts, and I think that's the reason to continue to grow minority enrollment." John Moser, senior vice president and chief operating officer for University of Iowa College and University, said the Latino population is one of the fastest growing in the nation and the trend of more Latino students at universities and colleges is becoming more common in many states.

"This is being replicated in a lot of parts of the country," Moser said. "While traditionally they congregated in the Southwestern parts of the country, you see Hispanic population growth in states we don't really think (would) most are in the Deep South or even states in the Midwest.

The UI employs a number of strategies when recruiting minority students, including those who live outside of Iowa, Briendepoche said.

"The university has been working over the past 10 years and has a person in charge of minority recruitment," he said. "We do recruitment in Texas and in the Valley. We promote a combination of things such as scholarships — we've created Advantage Iowa, and we have a person in charge of minority recruitment." John Moser, senior vice president and chief operating officer for University of Iowa College and University, said the Latino population is one of the fastest growing in the nation and the trend of more Latino students at universities and colleges is becoming more common in many states.

"This is being replicated in a lot of parts of the country," Moser said. "While traditionally they congregated in the Southwestern parts of the country, you see Hispanic population growth in states we don't really think (would) most are in the Deep South or even states in the Midwest.

The UI employs a number of strategies when recruiting minority students, including those who live outside of Iowa, Briendepoche said.

"The university has been working over the past 10 years and has a person in charge of minority recruitment," he said. "We do recruitment in Texas and in the Valley. We promote a combination of things such as scholarships — we've created Advantage Iowa, and we have a person in charge of minority recruitment." John Moser, senior vice president and chief operating officer for University of Iowa College and University, said the Latino population is one of the fastest growing in the nation and the trend of more Latino students at universities and colleges is becoming more common in many states.

"This is being replicated in a lot of parts of the country," Moser said. "While traditionally they congregated in the Southwestern parts of the country, you see Hispanic population growth in states we don't really think (would) most are in the Deep South or even states in the Midwest.

The UI employs a number of strategies when recruiting minority students, including those who live outside of Iowa, Briendepoche said.

"The university has been working over the past 10 years and has a person in charge of minority recruitment," he said. "We do recruitment in Texas and in the Valley. We promote a combination of things such as scholarships — we've created Advantage Iowa, and we have a person in charge of minority recruitment." John Moser, senior vice president and chief operating officer for University of Iowa College and University, said the Latino population is one of the fastest growing in the nation and the trend of more Latino students at universities and colleges is becoming more common in many states.

"This is being replicated in a lot of parts of the country," Moser said. "While traditionally they congregated in the Southwestern parts of the country, you see Hispanic population growth in states we don't really think (would) most are in the Deep South or even states in the Midwest.

The UI employs a number of strategies when recruiting minority students, including those who live outside of Iowa, Briendepoche said.

"The university has been working over the past 10 years and has a person in charge of minority recruitment," he said. "We do recruitment in Texas and in the Valley. We promote a combination of things such as scholarships — we've created Advantage Iowa, and we have a person in charge of minority recruitment." John Moser, senior vice president and chief operating officer for University of Iowa College and University, said the Latino population is one of the fastest growing in the nation and the trend of more Latino students at universities and colleges is becoming more common in many states.

"This is being replicated in a lot of parts of the country," Moser said. "While traditionally they congregated in the Southwestern parts of the country, you see Hispanic population growth in states we don't really think (would) most are in the Deep South or even states in the Midwest.

The UI employs a number of strategies when recruiting minority students, including those who live outside of Iowa, Briendepoche said.

"The university has been working over the past 10 years and has a person in charge of minority recruitment," he said. "We do recruitment in Texas and in the Valley. We promote a combination of things such as scholarships — we've created Advantage Iowa, and we have a person in charge of minority recruitment." John Moser, senior vice president and chief operating officer for University of Iowa College and University, said the Latino population is one of the fastest growing in the nation and the trend of more Latino students at universities and colleges is becoming more common in many states.

"This is being replicated in a lot of parts of the country," Moser said. "While traditionally they congregated in the Southwestern parts of the country, you see Hispanic population growth in states we don't really think (would) most are in the Deep South or even states in the Midwest.

The UI employs a number of strategies when recruiting minority students, including those who live outside of Iowa, Briendepoche said.

"The university has been working over the past 10 years and has a person in charge of minority recruitment," he said. "We do recruitment in Texas and in the Valley. We promote a combination of things such as scholarships — we've created Advantage Iowa, and we have a person in charge of minority recruitment."
Great White Narcs members Jeff Lehman and Kylie Jansen get used as mannequins for one of their games during the improv show “Janice and Friends: A Night of Comedy and Linn St. event at the Iowa City ago, but the first event ed nationwide a month,” Davis said. “Women’s said the Iowa chapter’s its nationwide Stand equality for women with tion is trying to increase women in the state and Daniel-Seidl@uiowa.edu. Health issues in rural areas are wonderful plac- communities and to en- to the public. We are our daughters, our wives, our sisters, our moth- ours,” he said. “We really feel that it’s important to get individual’s sto- our arms are rich resources that are available to the public. We are our mothers, our daughters, our wives, our sisters, our moth- our state, our nation, our world,” he said. “We really feel it’s important to get individual’s sto- their work is very important to the public.”

While attending college in Alabama, Voelka said she was associated with another student. This student, a near-peer voice, she heard about the importance of rural health care and the need to develop a workforce pipeline to support it. She said she has not only an interest in rural health care, but she has a passion for it. This passion motivated her to pursue a career in rural health care. She said she was able to find a position in rural health care through her network of contacts in the rural health care community.

The group is holding an event in Iowa City because the city is historically supportive of women’s rights. The group is part of a larger movement to achieve equality for women. The group’s event is part of a larger movement to achieve equality for women. The group’s event is part of a larger movement to achieve equality for women. The group’s event is part of a larger movement to achieve equality for women.
People say everything in Iowa City, Craig said. “It was already a great facility — now it’s better. It’s been transformed inside and out.”

Susan Craig said this library opened in its current location with the Friends Foundation contributing $200,000 and the Iowa City chipping in $450,000, roughly 75,000 patrons a year, she said. Overall, refurbishments cost $450,000, with Iowa City chipping in $200,000 and the Iowa City Public Library Friends Foundation contributing $250,000.

While the Public Library opened in its current location on June 12, 2004, Iowa City resident John Keeney said he believes the changes are appropriate for today. “It was already a great facility,” he said. “They’ve figured out over the years how to change things and it’s more useful and accessible.” Keeney said, “My children spend a lot of time here, they love the changes.”

Kenyon said the space that was previously used as the teen center, said she likes the changes. “I am most excited for an art wall to display泡.” Kenyon’s children weren’t the only ones with positive reactions. Squeals of excitement rang through the new expanse of the Children’s Room as children rolled through the new space to continue to push early literacy, especially for homework, and now I have a lot more time to study and for homework, and now I have a lot more time to study and

FOR INFORMATION about Mercy Iowa City and its affiliated physicians: CALL Mercy On Call at 319-358-2767 CLICK www.mercyiyowacity.org

News 3

The Cedar Rapids native said he was present at the scene of the shooting at Petsel Place near the intersection of Mormon Trek Boulevard and Melrose Avenue.

Fisher testified that as they described numerous testimonies from witnesses that were inconsistent. Bradle began by describing John County assistant prosecutor Dana Chris- tiansen’s opening statement as “not having all the pieces to the puzzle.” After two and a half days of jury selection, Fisher was the first and only witness called to the stand. The Cedar Rapids

Time for Open Enrollment

3. There are no physician charges or copays for routine annual physicals from most providers.
4. Preventive care may not be subject to coinsurance.
5. Well-child care and immunizations may have no copay and no coinsurance.
6. Family medicine, internal medicine and OB/GYN all provide preventive services.
7. Your out-of-pocket maximum may be the same at different levels of care.
8. Mercy and its affiliated physicians take part in local health plans, including those of the University of Iowa.

For a Better Patient Experience and Lower Overall Costs, Choose Mercy Iowa City and its Affiliated Physicians.

door comparison

When you choose Mercy Iowa City and its affiliated physicians, you can be cared for by your own personal physician and benefit from the quality, continuity and trust of that relationship.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

OPINION POLICY

The Daily Iowan is a multimedia news organization that prides itself on providing a platform for different voices in the community. According to our Editorial Board, our mission is to produce a strong and diverse editorial section that reflects the values and perspectives of our readers and the University of Iowa community.

The Daily Iowan's editorial board is composed of students and staff members who have a passion for writing and publishing. They are responsible for selecting and shaping the content of the editorial section, including letters to the editor,columns, and opinion pieces.

The Daily Iowan's editorial board is committed to providing a platform for a variety of voices and perspectives. They encourage letters to the editor that are well-reasoned, well-written, and representative of the diversity of the University of Iowa community.

Letters to the editor should be no more than two paragraphs (approximately 200 words) and should be submitted at least 48 hours in advance of publication.

The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit letters for clarity and brevity. We also reserve the right to edit for brevity, clarity, and style. Letters will be published in the order in which they are received.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR ONLINE COMMENTS

gGOp Opportunity

It's time for the current editorial committee to step down and allow some new voices to be heard. The current committee has been in place for too long.

The opportunity to shape the editorial page is a privilege, and it's important to ensure that the voices of all members of our community are represented.

By stepping down, the current committee will make room for new ideas and perspectives, and it will allow the Daily Iowan to continue to thrive as a platform for diverse voices.
City mulls lockers for storage

Iowa City searches for a solution to the personal property problem downtown.

By Megan Sanchez

A shopping cart full of blankets. A duffel bag stuffed with clothing, not dealing with a mountain of complaints about the issue. Iowa City police Officer David Schwindt said he thinks the storage area is necessary because of an ongoing plethora of complaints about the issue. He had a number of people approach me with complaints about the issue. He said “People don’t know what’s in these bags.”

Although Schwindt said nothing as set in stone, there has been talk of a plan that would provide video checking out storage spaces such as lockers, for 30 days at no cost. He also said there is a possibility of having a social worker or police officer providing a signature of authorization for those using the lockers. He said this service should only be for those who need it and do not have housing. Schwindt said one downfall of the ordinance is homeless people getting frustrated about where to put their belongings. If we have “personal property” from the Ped Mall, they can stay away, or they can stay, and I didn’t want to put that on private-property owners, he said. “I am also concerned about the violence of a theft occurs, and I want to prevent that as much as I can.”

Although the new ordinance has a large impact on the homeless population, City Council Terry Dickens said the goal of the ordinance does not simply focus on the homeless. “The important thing is the ordinance is not a homeless ordinance,” he said. “It was a behavior ordinance, and there is a big difference between the two. But what came out of it is a lot of homeless people had no place to put belongings, and it’s important to work on that as we have go.”

Fruin said City Council will review the idea at its Dec. 3 meeting. Until then, he said, nothing much will be known. “This is really kind of the first step in reaching out to the community to see if there are interest-ed partners,” Fruin said. “If there is interest, the city could purchase the lockers and maybe the (partnership) agency could operate it. Until we begin that dialogue, we don’t really know what the pro- cess is.”

Schwindt is said he is hoping for the best, because he believes these steps would continue to improve downtown. “I absolutely think it would make things bet- ter because it’s going to help the people who tradi-tionally spend a lot of time here on the Pedes-trian Mall to continue to spend time here without worry of new ordi-nances,” he said.

YESTERDAY’S MOVIE: THE PEACHER’S WIFE

Go to www.dailyiowan.com to enter the name of the movie this scene was taken from.

One semi-finalist* drawn per day
One $100 winner drawn per week thru December 13
*semi-finalists drawn at random from correct entries

Check Us out and STL Win at HERTER and Stockholder Jewelers

101 S. Dubuque, Iowa City • 338-4212

 mejjames@uiowa.edu

Women’s clothing and shoes.

5th Ave

THE DAILY IOWAN • DAILYIOWAN.COM • FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 2013
This column reflects the opinion of Daily Break.

Laser-based weaponry?

Am I also really the on-

Daffy Duck? A daffy little nerdy:

The Jewel Case

Morning Drive

forwards.

— Søren Kierkegaard

today’s events

- English Language Observation Center, 515 Nippert Business Building

- "The Evolution of the First Language," 10 a.m., 152 Chemistry Building

- "Body Language: How to Communicate Effectively," 10 a.m., 152 Chemistry Building

- "Cultural and Environmental Engineering," Juneau-Smith Seminar: "Sustainability of Resources," 10 a.m., 152 Chemistry Building

- "Civil Engineering: How can we use our environment?" 10 a.m., University of Iowa Library

- Biology Seminar: "Research and Scholarship at the Interfaces of Science," 10 a.m., 2229 Seamans Center

- Anthropology Colloquium: "Natural Order in Nature," 10 a.m., 2229 Seamans Center

- Biology Colloquium: "The Molecular Mechanisms of Carotenoid Plant Products," 6 p.m., 2229 Seamans Center

SUBMIT AN EVENT

Rash is common (April 20-May 20): If you are going to rash, then go ahead and do it. Embrace your uniqueness and make sure that you can afford the rash right now. Rash will bring joy to others, but make sure that you can afford the rash right now. Rash will bring joy to others, but make sure that you can afford the rash right now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Keep your stuff about you when dealing with legal, medical, or financial matters. As long as you ask questions and pull in favors, you will surpass any setbacks you may face. Rash will bring joy to others, but make sure that you can afford the rash right now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Take a step back from domestic situations that are troubling. Getting away or going out with friends will help you clear your head and give you a new perspective on what is going on in your life. Avoid impulsive acts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Put time and money into renovations, redecorating, or the connections you have with the people you love. Time is the key to developing a healthy, or even well-balanced life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take the edge off your stress by making time for hobbies or any other activities that are conductions to well-being and entertainment. Inviting someone over to your home will be more costly and effective in terms of your personality. Preparing for a Reader right now will be a waste of time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Ask and you shall receive. You can call in favors and make alterations in your personal life that will add to your happiness and contentment. Let your dreams be heard by everyone’s desires and make sure that you can afford the Reader right now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stick close to home, and avoid any sort of travel or long-distance travel with people who don’t agree with you or need any other type of transportation. Make the changes that improve your life instead of helping someone else get ahead.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Prospects are weak with no much. Negotiate, and you will get the perks you want. Now is the time to make your move and present what you have to offer. Love is in the stars, and romance will seal a deal.

For more news, visit www.dailyiowan.com

For news, visit dailyiowan.com/pages/calendarsubmit.html

11/15/13

2013 The Mutual Group, Inc. Distributed under Agreement. All rights reserved.

SUDOKU

1 2 3

5 6 4

7 8 9

- The Daily Iowan, 2013

We hold these truths to be self-evident (and a little nerdy):

• There are certain aspects of an argument that can be agreed upon by all, even when there are others that may never, but it be resolved that Bigfoot is packing a massive wang.

• Sl Eins, Ferre, and the other guys were able to finish their lunch unimpressed, so it’s not like Ali Pressman even NEKED that reser-

• Miami, Florida, and the other guys were able to finish their lunch unimpressed, so it’s not like Ali Pressman even NEKED that re-

• Miami, Florida, and the other guys were able to finish their lunch unimpressed, so it’s not like Ali Pressman even NEKED that reser-

• Miami, Florida, and the other guys were able to finish their lunch unimpressed, so it’s not like Ali Pressman ever NEKED that reser-

Andrew R. Stahl © 2013 www.stahlarchives.com, all rights reserved.

Andrew R. Stahl © 2013 www.stahlarchives.com, all rights reserved.

Andrew R. Stahl © 2013 www.stahlarchives.com, all rights reserved.

Andrew R. Stahl © 2013 www.stahlarchives.com, all rights reserved.

Andrew R. Stahl © 2013 www.stahlarchives.com, all rights reserved.
Swimmers will face Nebraska, S. Dakota St.

By Jordan Hansen

The Iowa women’s swimming and diving team will participate in two dual meets with Nebraska and South Dakota State in Lincoln, Neb., that are set to begin at 4 p.m. today.

Iowa goes into Lincoln with a dual-meet record of 2-2, following a loss at home to Minnesota on Nov. 1. Nebraska at 0-1-1 after being outscored on a trip to Arkansas and tying with Iowa State. South Dakota State has compiled a 3-3 record on the season and the team is coming off of a win over South Dakota.

If last year’s meet is any indication — a 191-179 victory by Iowa — today’s meet should be intense to the very end.

“I think it’s going to be a really exciting dual meet,” associate head coach Frankie Malone said. “There’s going to be a lot of close matchups. You can really go down the roster and see that there’s going to be great races throughout the competition.”

The women do not take the meet for granted, and they know what they are in for.

“They’re good,” junior Becky Stoughton said. “Even more, they’re close, competition-wise. To be honest, if anyone’s looking for a meet to go to, this might be the one they should want to go to.”

For the Hawkeyes, this also represents the first road trip since an ugly defeat at the hands of Michigan. This Nebraska trip could be a chance to notch that all-important first road win.

“[Nebraska] is another Big Ten team, and a win there is important for confidence,” Malone said. “It’s going to be exciting to see who can get to the wall — it’s going to be a great road trip, and hopefully, we’ll come out with a win.”

The drive to Lincoln isn’t especially long, and the swimmers are familiar with Devaney Natatorium, the home of the Husker swimming teams.

“Nebraska is an environment we’re used to,” senior Emily Hoover, said. “We won’t be thrown off by different blocks or wider lanes. We also don’t have to worry about sleeping in a hotel bed, so that’s different but not in a bad way.”

The little things may end up being the difference in a meet that could potentially come down to the wire.
If you want to do this, you have to try to get better at a team's weaknesses. White, who was试管 to play against the Hawks, commented, "It's nothing based on dis- crimination or anything. It's because of the lopsided na- ture of the game. But Iowa will have a good chance to pull out a win — the final alley-oop of the game.

Wrestling

Clifford, who has done his share to push the Hawks to victory, explained, "We're in Carver Hawkeye Arena against those two teams — it's the final alley-oop of the game.

Basketball

On the court, with the Iowa Hawkeyes playing against their conference rivals, the atmosphere is electric. The gym is packed, and the fans are hyped, cheering for their team as they dominate the competition.

The Hawkeyes, led by assistant coach Chris Fennock, have a record of 8-4 this season and are looking to continue their winning streak against their next opponent.

In a 46-point victory, it seemed like the Hawkeyes had no aspirations of ESPN hyping and that just one match was going to determine the winner. But even if that's the case, we're all confident that Gesell will continue to show his talent on the court.

Iowa will take on Michigan State University on Nov 17 in Carver Tip-off at 7:30 p.m.
The Hawkeyes’ Nov. 10 defeat of the Portland Pilots was one of the biggest questions of the season for the Iowa basketball team. Head coach Fran McCaffery noted how the Hawkeyes would perform in their first NCAA Tournament match in program history today against No. 23 Golden Lions. “Just to work on the perimeter skill, that’s one of the spots that’s normally reserved for the spot that’s normally reserved for the perimeter skill,” said McCaffery. “So we’re going to see if we can use them to get to the basket or have a shot in Carver.”

From the start, it never seemed as if Maryland-Eastern Shore had a shot in Carver-Hawkeye Arena on Thursday night. Iowa, clearly the more talented team, defeated the Hawks, 109-63. The Hawkeyes moved the Black and Gold to 3-0 on the young season, but head coach Fran McCaffery noted how much his team talked in these nonconference games. “These games have incredible value, because you have to prepare the same way,” the fourth-year head coach said. “Every game plays a different character, who are we playing, what are their strengths and weaknesses. You’ve coached a lot in these games, and you look at Maryland-Eastern Shore, and you say, wow, we get them by 40. But it means, you need all your bullets in the gun.”

Aaron White was extremely impressive in his limited time on the court Thursday. The junior had 16 points in the first half and 10 rebounds in 16 minutes. With just under four minutes left to play in the first half, Iowa center Aaron White shoots the ball in Carver-Hawkeye Arena on Tuesday. Iowa defeated Maryland-Eastern Shore, 109-63. (The Daily Iowan/Alyssa Hitchcock)

Iowa guard Sam Logic shoots a free throw in Carver-Hawkeye Arena on Nov. 8 during the game against Cal-Riverside. The Hawkeyes won, 81-55. (The Daily Iowan/Alyssa Hitchcock)

Follow the DI’s football writers and as on their respective club teams.

The 15 wins is a program record. The 15 wins is a program record. The 15 wins is a program record. The 15 wins is a program record. The 15 wins is a program record.