Sen. Harkin finally hits the Hamburg Inn No. 2

By LAUREN COFFEY
lcoffey@daily-iowan.com

Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, has had many experiences in his 40 years in Congress but he was missing a visit to a quintessential campaign spot—Hamburg Inn No. 2.

That changed Tuesday afternoon, and among the bunch rash of patrons, Harkin cast his ballot for the Democratic nominee in the Senate general election.

“Does it matter if it’s a big or small bean?” Harkin said among some laughs. “I guess it’s just the rules that count.”

The longtime senator, who will retire at the beginning of next year, will soon have new politics in his seat, and he wants it to be a Rep. Bruce Braley.

“Someone said, ‘Are you going to leave the Senate?’” he said to the filled restaurant. “If his opponent gets elected, then I’ll be really sad. But if Braley does (win), then I’ll be happy to retire at this time … so please make me happy.”

The liberal who prides himself on working across party lines said Braley would do so.

The race between Republicans Joni Ernst and Braley, who was unable to join Harkin at Hamburg, has been hotly contested, and with fewer than three weeks until the election, the 1-point difference is worrisome for Harkin.

“The race is close, my friends, and we need every vote. I said back in July that it would come down to a 50-50, 51.5 percent difference,” he said, urging people to vote early. “They haven’t had a seat open in 40 years, and it’ll come down to this. This is no exaggeration; Iowa City could be the margin that we need to push him over.”

The Hamburg Inn has long been a staple for political stops in a state that has been even more important to political hopes over the years.

The Hamburg Inn No. 2

By CORY PORTER
cporter@daily-iowan.com

More than 150 years ago, many of the poor and mentally ill of Iowa City called a cluster of white farm buildings on the western edge of town their home.

While several of the buildings are still standing, many are in desperate need of repair.

Now that the site—the former Johnson County Poor Farm and Asylum—is a part of the National Register of Historic Places, local officials say they will pursue grant money to restore the buildings.

The farm, which had mental disabilities and needed further care, was created in 1855 as a place for the poor and mentally ill.

Open from the 1850s to the 1970s, the Johnson County Poor Farm was created in 1850 as a place for the poor and mentally ill to live and work.

The farm’s barns, cemetery, and surrounding farmland were included in the most recent designation. In 1978, the National Park Service listed the asylum/jail as an historic site.

The recognition will allow the county to work on restoring the buildings, as this is just one of several steps as we look to really enhance the historical significance of that site and enhance the interpretation of that site and enhance the historical buildings that are currently on that site,” Johnson County Supervisor Terrence Neuzil said. “So that people … can really start to learn about how important that site is.”

The farm’s barns, cemetery, and surrounding farmland were included in the most recent designation. In 1978, the National Park Service listed the asylum/jail as an historic site.

The recognition will allow the county to work on restoring the buildings, as this is just one of several steps as we look to really enhance the historical significance of that site and enhance the interpretation of that site and enhance the historical buildings that are currently on that site,” Johnson County Supervisor Terrence Neuzil said. “So that people … can really start to learn about how important that site is.”

The Hamburg Inn has been named a historical landmark.

Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, has had many campaign stops in Iowa City.

That changed Tuesday afternoon, and among the bunch rash of patrons, Harkin cast his ballot for the Democratic nominee in the Senate general election.

“Does it matter if it’s a big or small bean?” Harkin said among some laughs. “I guess it’s just the rules that count.”

The longtime senator, who will retire at the beginning of next year, will soon have new politics in his seat, and he wants it to be a Rep. Bruce Braley.

“Someone said, ‘Are you going to leave the Senate?’” he said to the filled restaurant. “If his opponent gets elected, then I’ll be really sad. But if Braley does (win), then I’ll be happy to retire at this time … so please make me happy.”

The liberal who prides himself on working across party lines said Braley would do so.

The race between Republicans Joni Ernst and Braley, who was unable to join Harkin at Hamburg, has been hotly contested, and with fewer than three weeks until the election, the 1-point difference is worrisome for Harkin.

“The race is close, my friends, and we need every vote. I said back in July that it would come down to a 50-50, 51.5 percent difference,” he said, urging people to vote early. “They haven’t had a seat open in 40 years, and it’ll come down to this. This is no exaggeration; Iowa City could be the margin that we need to push him over.”

The Hamburg Inn has long been a staple for political stops in a state that has been even more important to political hopes over the years.
regional food through an app. "It's a win-win," Panther said. "It's wonderful. Every state has a portrait of him—"

"Our initial zone will be high density neighborhoods, such as old newspapers and other materials," Beck said. "The board meeting in February will establish the zones, so we're hoping to have the UI app in the next few months."

"We're trying to show that the farm is one part of its future," Rastetter cautioned. "We're trying to make it a part of care and treatment emphasize the farm's role as a designation, I think, to the National Historical Society as a historic landmark. The farmhouse was used to house paupers and patients who had mental disabilities and needed further care. (The Daily Iowan/Lauren Muth)"

"I'm not sure that we can make it happen," Panther said. "It's been one of the better seasons with the caminites coming here, but I'm just happy to have it in Iowa City, so it's a win-win.""

"We have restaurants that are still open. It just makes it easier to reach out and get customers. We're pretty simple and don't need any added system to how we operate. It's just great to get food to people," said Rastetter.

"The board of regents has a perfect proposal for me," Rastetter said. "We're trying to adapt the restaurants downtown to the restaurants in the area in order to help the idea that the farm can continue to be a part of the history of the United States that's in this kind of good condition, so I'm really happy to have that in our area."

"I think we'd win," Harkin said. "I'll be back."
The new app is only available right now on Android devices, botchway said. "We're looking into putting it up quickly on the Google Play Store," he said.

"Feedback from the public — they love it," Weipert said. "From the other audiencers in the state, they're jealous." The idea of an app had previously come up in Johnson County, but because of the cost of development, Weipert said, it had to be tabled. That time around, the county did assistant projects to create the app. "When we use the cor and then met with the developer, we won't do it," Weipert said.

The budget for the app cost around $2,000, but Weipert said if they decide to add more functions to the app, Weipert said, it will have to be funded by income from UI's treasurer's office or by renters. "We will start to see students using the app and get out and start voting," Weipert said.

Regents to vote on new water plant demolition

A new resolution could be up for a vote as the board of regents meet on its proposed plan to dismantle and replace the University of Iowa's 100-year-old water plant.

At a special board meeting, the regents considered the potential for low interest rates and the cost associated with the current plant. The old water plant was constructed in 1914 and was last updated in 1974. The university is considering other options for the future, including a new plant, a new water source, or a combination of both.

Wisconsin officials to demonstrate nontraditional program

Wisconsin officials will demonstrate a nontraditional program that allows students to attain credit by demonstrating they have satisfactorily completed a standard or industry-recognized exam. The program is designed for working students and those who cannot attend a traditional college setting.

Iowa freshmen

Iowa State University freshmen had been surveyed regarding their college reallocations, $1.7 million would come from college reallocations, $1.7 million would come from state funding, $1 million from income from UI's treasurer's office, and $3,000 would come from philanthropy.

Offer food pantries

The regents' Property and Facilities Committee also approved a plan to provide fresh food to students and faculty. The program is designed to address grand challenges in population health and will require modifications to the current campus food service system.
Student debt needs attention

The rising cost of tuition has proven to be an enduring problem for college activists, affecting millions of students. The issue of student debt is a major impact in politics. Politicians have paid service to the idea of student debt relief, but in the end, little has changed, little has been done.

Part of the problem is that students are not the only ones to blame for this situation. Our current political system is broken, and it is preventing real solutions from being enacted.

But student debt threats to become a crisis in its own right. A study conducted by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York revealed that student debt has reached a new high.

According to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, the average student loan debt in the U.S. is now $39,000. This figure is up 7% from the previous year, and it is expected to continue rising in the future.

Average students graduating with student loans in 2014 were $35,770. This amount is up 6% from the previous year, and it is expected to continue rising in the future.

Student debt is a serious problem that is now reaching crisis levels. It is time for our government to take action and address this issue.

While nationwide action on student debt has stalled, it's been up to state institutions to make a difference.

For the past year and a half in the state of Iowa, the state Board of Regents has taken a lead role in addressing the issue of student debt. The Board of Regents has taken action in multiple ways, including:

- Passing a resolution in support of the American Dream Act
- Supporting the Iowa Dream Act
- Working with the Governor's Office on student loan relief

While these actions are positive steps in the right direction, more needs to be done.

During the 2016 legislative session, the Iowa Senate passed a bill that would provide relief to student loan debt. The bill passed with a 31-10 vote, and it is now awaiting action from the Iowa House of Representatives.

The bill would provide relief to student loan debt by allowing students to refinance their loans at lower interest rates. This would help students who are struggling to make ends meet and who are struggling to pay off their student loans.

I am excited to see the passage of this bill and to work with the Governor's Office and the Iowa House of Representatives to ensure that this bill becomes law.

As a student, I understand the challenges that come with paying off student loans. I am committed to working towards a future where college is accessible for all.

I am excited to see the passage of this bill and to work with the Governor's Office and the Iowa House of Representatives to ensure that this bill becomes law.

In conclusion, the issue of student debt is a serious one and one that needs to be addressed. The Iowa Senate's action is a positive step in the right direction, and I am committed to working towards a future where college is accessible for all.
Residents worry about student numbers

By ALYSSA GUZMAN
alyssa-guzman@uiowa.edu

The University of Iowa is planning to increase enrollment in upcoming years — possibly to more than 34,000 students — and some community members are concerned about what this will mean for the rest of the city.

As of fall 2014, the University of Iowa enrolled 31,387 undergraduate students, according to the state Board of Regents packet.

“I would feel better about the university’s announcement that it plans to increase enrollment if I felt that both the city of Iowa City and the University of Iowa had a firm grasp on the actual housing needs of students in both number and quality and some long-range plans in place to address those needs,” said Sarah Clark, the recorder for the North Side Neighborhood Association.

City officials said they are aware of the pressures more students could bring to the area.

“[There will be] increased pressures on the neighborhood and new student-housing developments in our downtown areas,” said Tony Haggard, the community-development coordinator for Iowa City.

Because of the university’s parking restrictions and the desire to continue keeping the UI a walk-friendly campus, the majority of students will be accommodated by private apartment buildings within a mile of campus, said Jeff Davidson, the economic-development administrator for Iowa City.

Some locals said they are concerned about students living in rental properties.

Jeff Walters, a long-time member of the board of the College Green Neighborhood Association, said too many people living in rental properties could affect the neighborhood in negative ways.

The problem isn’t with the number of people but rather with the number of cars and lack of places to park, he said.

With the increased pressures to accommodate the number of students with housing near campus, the UI will try to accommodate as many as it can.

Petersen Hall on the East Side is in its final stages of construction, and another residence hall on the East Side is in an early design stage.

Clark said she does not think the new residence hall will be as beneficial as it needs to be.

“While Petersen Hall will be ready for habitation in the fall of 2015, the university is planning to tear down Quadrangle within a few years, so the overall gain in dorm rooms will be minimal,” she said. “I hope the university does move ahead with its latest plans to build a dorm on the East Side of the river, though I’m guessing it won’t be ready for another four or five years.”

In addition to building more residence halls, other plans will involve the Riverfront Crossing area.

“Our plan for the development of downtown and the Riverfront Crossings district calls for there to be student housing built in these areas,” Davidson said. “Our goal is to have the increase in student housing focused downtown and in Riverfront Crossings and not in the older neighborhoods around downtown.”

The plan is to provide guidance for development, as well as use zoning and economic-development tools to allow private investment, which would help develop housing.

According to the Riverfront Crossings website, the goal of the area is to revitalize Iowa City and ensure that it continues to be a place in which residents can easily walk, bike, or ride the bus to work, class, or around the city.

In addition to a waterfront park with walking and biking trails, residents will also have access to the Iowa River for boating and fishing.

Housing will be located close to places to shop, dine, and work.

“Anywhere that’s near the Iowa campus is specific to conducive housing,” said Karen Howard, the associate planner for the city. “We anticipate there will be housing areas for students.”

FOOTLONG OR TAVERN

FOOTLONG OR TAVERN

for $99

More than 30 area companies hiring seasonal, full- and part-time employees

Thursday, Oct 16
4:00-7:00pm
Kastdale Plaza Iowa City
Bring copies of your resume and dress to impress!

Participating Employers:
1st Class Staffing
ACT
Always Best Care Senior Services
Burger King
Centre Clear Channel Radio
Comfort Care Iowa
DW Foods
Elder Services
Frontier Co-op
GCO
General Dynamics Information Technology
Hawkeye Hotels
Ebou
Kelly Services
Leisure
March
Medline Manufacturing
New Club
Next Generation Wireless
Nordstrom
Northeastern Mutual
Oxknoll
PMX Industries
Public Safety Personnel
River Side Casino and Golf Resort
Sedgwick
Speed Cinema
Target
Team Staffing Solutions
Thrift Financial
TLC Associates
Mobile Staffing
University of Iowa
University of Iowa Libraries

The event is sponsored by IowaWORKS, Midwestern Hobby & Cigar Group.

TAKING YOU TO MERCY

Those are words to remember if you have symptoms of a heart attack or stroke. Because Mercy Iowa City is Johnson County’s only accredited Chest Pain Center and is a certified Primary Stroke Center, Which means you’ll be diagnosed sooner and treated faster, at a time when every second counts.

When you are faced with a life-threatening emergency, call 911 and tell the paramedics, “Take me to Mercy.”

Learn symptoms at www.mercyicowa.org/warning-signs-of-heart-attack
As a Texas voter, I am genuinely fearful that the candidates for governor can separately win, but the majority of the candidates for governor can run together as one ticket. I am thinking: "How do I cast one vote for the entirety of the candidates for governor?"

I do not necessarily want a third-party ticket. But I want to cast one vote for the entirety of the candidates for governor without the majority of the candidates for governor having to run as one ticket. I want a fair vote for the candidates for governor.

Texas in November: the candidates for governor can separately win, but the majority of the candidates for governor can run together as one ticket.
District eyes grant

Branstad, Hatch trade jabs in final debate

The debates for Iowa's gubernatorial candidates may be over, but they're continuing in Sioux City during the last gubernatorial debate on a number of topics, including tax cuts and the minimum wage.

"We both have had missteps," before noting that he shared it off to paint out the differences between himself and Branstad. Branstad didn't exactly provide a reason specific to his candidate, but he did say he admired anyone who's willing to put bar of his name on the ballot. According to the Iowa Poll released Monday, Branstad leads Hatch by 35 percentage points. The Des Moines Register/Bloomberg Politics poll found that Branstad has the support of 54 percent of voters; Hatch has the support of 39 percent.

Hatch recognized that taking on an incumbent governor is no easy task, acknowledging the gap between the candidates. "It's difficult to run against an incumbent governor," he said. "We've been working and traveling and driving all over the state. I'm a candidate who clearly the people's candidate." Branstad countered that by saying he's been an incumbent governor four years who "wasn't do- ing his job."

"I'm only beholden to the people of Iowa," he said.

By KRISTEN EAST

The Iowa City School Board unanimously endorsed a grant that will allow teachers to work more closely with students while being compensated.

The Teacher Leadership and Compensation Grant Application was discussed by the board Tuesday and the grant application is available online for interested faculty members.

Interested faculty members must go through the application process, even if they don't plan to implement the program. The goal is to have the program functional prior to the beginning of next school.

"We're cautiously optimistic that we'll get the grant," said Chase Ramey, district chief human-resources officer. "A great deal of work will be required to implement the goal to have the district preparing for the district funding this fall."

The Cedar Rapids School District was among one of the first districts to submit an application.

"We're cautiously optimistic that we'll get the grant," said Chase Ramey, district chief human-resources officer. "A great deal of work will be required to implement the goal to have the district preparing for the district funding this fall."

By GRACE PATZER

The Iowa City School Board unanimously endorsed a grant that will allow teachers to work more closely with students while being compensated.

The Teacher Leadership and Compensation Grant Application was discussed by the board Tuesday and the grant application is available online for interested faculty members.

Interested faculty members must go through the application process, even if they don't plan to implement the program. The goal is to have the program functional prior to the beginning of next school.

"We're cautiously optimistic that we'll get the grant," said Chase Ramey, district chief human-resources officer. "A great deal of work will be required to implement the goal to have the district preparing for the district funding this fall."

By GRACE PATZER

The Iowa City School Board unanimously endorsed a grant that will allow teachers to work more closely with students while being compensated.

The Teacher Leadership and Compensation Grant Application was discussed by the board Tuesday and the grant application is available online for interested faculty members.

Interested faculty members must go through the application process, even if they don't plan to implement the program. The goal is to have the program functional prior to the beginning of next school.

"We're cautiously optimistic that we'll get the grant," said Chase Ramey, district chief human-resources officer. "A great deal of work will be required to implement the goal to have the district preparing for the district funding this fall."

By GRACE PATZER

The Iowa City School Board unanimously endorsed a grant that will allow teachers to work more closely with students while being compensated.

The Teacher Leadership and Compensation Grant Application was discussed by the board Tuesday and the grant application is available online for interested faculty members.

Interested faculty members must go through the application process, even if they don't plan to implement the program. The goal is to have the program functional prior to the beginning of next school.

"We're cautiously optimistic that we'll get the grant," said Chase Ramey, district chief human-resources officer. "A great deal of work will be required to implement the goal to have the district preparing for the district funding this fall."

By KRISTEN EAST

Branstad leads Hatch in latest poll released Monday, his name on the ballot. He also, jokingly, said, "we've been working and traveling and driving all over the state. I'm a candidate who clearly the people's candidate." Branstad countered that by saying he's been an incumbent governor four years who 'wasn't doing his job.'

"I'm only beholden to the people of Iowa," he said.

THE DAILY IOWAN | DAILYIOWAN.COM | WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 2014

News 7

Gubernatorial debate on a in Sioux City during the last to Nov. 4 are critical. a three weeks left in the race to his candidate, but he did say he admired anyone who's willing to put bar of his name on the ballot. According to the Iowa Poll released Monday, Branstad leads Hatch by 35 percentage points. The Des Moines Register/Bloomberg Politics poll found that Branstad has the support of 54 percent of voters; Hatch has the support of 39 percent.

Hatch recognized that taking on an incumbent governor is no easy task, acknowledging the gap between the candidates. "It's difficult to run against an incumbent governor," he said. "We've been working and traveling and driving all over the state. I'm a candidate who clearly the people's candidate." Branstad countered that by saying he's been an incumbent governor four years who 'wasn't doing his job.'

"I'm only beholden to the people of Iowa," he said.

By KRISTEN EAST

Gubernatorial debate on a in Sioux City during the last to Nov. 4 are critical. a three weeks left in the race to his candidate, but he did say he admired anyone who's willing to put bar of his name on the ballot. According to the Iowa Poll released Monday, Branstad leads Hatch by 35 percentage points. The Des Moines Register/Bloomberg Politics poll found that Branstad has the support of 54 percent of voters; Hatch has the support of 39 percent.

Hatch recognized that taking on an incumbent governor is no easy task, acknowledging the gap between the candidates. "It's difficult to run against an incumbent governor," he said. "We've been working and traveling and driving all over the state. I'm a candidate who clearly the people's candidate." Branstad countered that by saying he's been an incumbent governor four years who 'wasn't doing his job.'

"I'm only beholden to the people of Iowa," he said.
Halloween “Costumes” I Own

• Fat Guy at a Baseball Game
• Fat Guy at a College Football Game
• Can’t-Cut Costumes
• Disguised Etc.
• Editor Barrel Cleansing
• Rack McCain
• Guy Too Old to be at the Frat
• Person Going to the Gym Tomorrow, Attempt 435
• Unemployable Temp
• Obvious Cat Owner
• New York City
• Clubs Talk
• Backwards on the Day Off
• Guy Who Doesn’t Wear Their Eyepatch in the Crutch of Their Arm
• Guy Who Thinks There’s a Gaping Hole in the Crutch of Their Arm
• Well-Dressed, Good-Smelling, Superior Man
• Guy Who Intentionally Channel your energy wisely and set your sights on accomplishment, you will avoid taking a destructive course in an irreversible and potentially money-draining direction. Don’t make personal changes.

Today’s Events

- What to look for when searching for a postdoctoral fellowship: a perspective from St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital, 8 a.m., 283 Eckstein Medical Research Building
- Final Thesis Defense, Hua Yu, 1 p.m., C106 Pappajohn Business Building
- Student Energy Expo, job fair, Student poster Student Energy Expo, job fair, Student poster
- Student Energy Expo, job fair, Student poster
- Final Thesis Defense, Hua Yu, 1 p.m., C106 Pappajohn Business Building
- Final Thesis Defense, Hua Yu, 1 p.m., C106 Pappajohn Business Building
- Final Thesis Defense, Hua Yu, 1 p.m., C106 Pappajohn Business Building
- Library Special Collections: Protein Database, 13 Pfeffer Shuchardt, 5-6 p.m., 2001C Seamans Center
- Meeting the Renewable Energy Challenge, "Renewable Energy: Can We Implement a 100 percent renewable energy strategy?" 7 p.m., Main Lounge
- Writer Workshop: Improving Your Writing, 6 p.m., Paper Bag

SUBMIT AN EVENT

Want to see your special event appear here?
Simply submit the details at: dailyiowan.com/pages/calendarsubmit.html

If we cannot now end our differences, at least we can help make the world safe for diversity.
— John F. Kennedy

Today’s Horoscopes

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Expect an old friend to reconnect with you. Problems will develop at home, leaving you in a situation that may require you to move. Focus on getting along with partners, not letting emotional bubble up until you are faced with a problem.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Stick close to home. Uncertainty when dealing with authority figures, institutions, or government agencies can be expected. Keep things in perspective. Deciding will set you back instead of getting you ahead. Take care of personal matters swiftly.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Put your thoughts into motion. Don’t let emotional interference cloud your vision or stop you from following through. You may not feel compelled to be completely honest with someone who's close to you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): What to look for when searching for a postdoctoral fellowship: a perspective from St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital, 8 a.m., 283 Eckstein Medical Research Building
- Final Thesis Defense, Hua Yu, 1 p.m., C106 Pappajohn Business Building
- Student Energy Expo, job fair, Student poster Student poster
- Final Thesis Defense, Hua Yu, 1 p.m., C106 Pappajohn Business Building
- Library Special Collections: Protein Database, 13 Pfeffer Shuchardt, 5-6 p.m., 2001C Seamans Center
- Meeting the Renewable Energy Challenge, "Renewable Energy: Can We Implement a 100 percent renewable energy strategy?" 7 p.m., Main Lounge
- Writer Workshop: Improving Your Writing, 6 p.m., Paper Bag

SUBMIT AN EVENT

Want to see your special event appear here?
Simply submit the details at: dailyiowan.com/pages/calendarsubmit.html

If we cannot now end our differences, at least we can help make the world safe for diversity.
— John F. Kennedy

Today’s Horoscopes

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Expect an old friend to reconnect with you. Problems will develop at home, leaving you in a situation that may require you to move. Focus on getting along with partners, not letting emotional bubble up until you are faced with a problem.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Stick close to home. Uncertainty when dealing with authority figures, institutions, or government agencies can be expected. Keep things in perspective. Deciding will set you back instead of getting you ahead. Take care of personal matters swiftly.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Put your thoughts into motion. Don’t let emotional interference cloud your vision or stop you from following through. You may not feel compelled to be completely honest with someone who's close to you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Muddled energies are in the forecast, but if you choose to examine your energy wisely and set your sights on accomplishments, you will avoid taking a destructive course in an irreversible and potentially money-draining direction. Don’t make personal changes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Keep emotions in check, and focus on spending quality time with someone who appreciates you. A change of heart must not be taken as a negative but rather as a chance to be free-spirited. Don’t spend, lend, or borrow money or possessions. Concentrate on the positive changes you can make at home that will help you cut corners. Don’t pay for others. Make an impression by doing, not donating.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Problems will develop at home, leaving you in a situation that may require you to move. Focus on getting along with partners, not letting emotional bubble up until you are faced with a problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Greater stability can be yours if you make an unexpected move. A partnership is due for an overhaul and a redistribution of power.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money may be a fine quality to have, but it can also lead you to the poorhouse. Protect what you have, and refuse to let anyone give away something that belongs to you. Disagreements are likely if someone isn’t being honest.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Mixxed energies are in the forecast, but if you choose to examine your energy wisely and set your sights on accomplishments, you will avoid taking a destructive course in an irreversible and potentially money-draining direction. Don’t make personal changes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): RANDOM Horoscope: 220 Generosity may be a fine quality to have, but it can also lead you to the poorhouse. Protect what you have, and refuse to let anyone give away something that belongs to you. Disagreements are likely if someone isn’t being honest.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep emotions in check, and focus on spending quality time with someone who appreciates you. A change of heart must not be taken as a negative but rather as a chance to be free-spirited. Don’t spend, lend, or borrow money or possessions. Concentrate on the positive changes you can make at home that will help you cut corners. Don’t pay for others. Make an impression by doing, not donating.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expect an old friend to reconnect with you. Problems will develop at home, leaving you in a situation that may require you to move. Focus on getting along with partners, not letting emotional bubble up until you are faced with a problem.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Stick close to home. Uncertainty when dealing with authority figures, institutions, or government agencies can be expected. Keep things in perspective. Deciding will set you back instead of getting you ahead. Take care of personal matters swiftly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Muddled energies are in the forecast, but if you choose to examine your energy wisely and set your sights on accomplishments, you will avoid taking a destructive course in an irreversible and potentially money-draining direction. Don’t make personal changes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Keep emotions in check, and focus on spending quality time with someone who appreciates you. A change of heart must not be taken as a negative but rather as a chance to be free-spirited. Don’t spend, lend, or borrow money or possessions. Concentrate on the positive changes you can make at home that will help you cut corners. Don’t pay for others. Make an impression by doing, not donating.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Problems will develop at home, leaving you in a situation that may require you to move. Focus on getting along with partners, not letting emotional bubble up until you are faced with a problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Greater stability can be yours if you make an unexpected move. A partnership is due for an overhaul and a redistribution of power.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money may be a fine quality to have, but it can also lead you to the poorhouse. Protect what you have, and refuse to let anyone give away something that belongs to you. Disagreements are likely if someone isn’t being honest.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Mixxed energies are in the forecast, but if you choose to examine your energy wisely and set your sights on accomplishments, you will avoid taking a destructive course in an irreversible and potentially money-draining direction. Don’t make personal changes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): RANDOM Horoscope: 220 Generosity may be a fine quality to have, but it can also lead you to the poorhouse. Protect what you have, and refuse to let anyone give away something that belongs to you. Disagreements are likely if someone isn’t being honest.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep emotions in check, and focus on spending quality time with someone who appreciates you. A change of heart must not be taken as a negative but rather as a chance to be free-spirited. Don’t spend, lend, or borrow money or possessions. Concentrate on the positive changes you can make at home that will help you cut corners. Don’t pay for others. Make an impression by doing, not donating.
Iowa has gone for it on fourth down on 32 occasions this season, a trend that has the Hawkeyes’ 75 percent conversion rate tied for 12th in the nation. This is up from 28 last season, where Iowa went 14-for-41 percent of its fourth down attempts, which ranked 118th in the nation.

Getting the ball on third and one for fourth down is running back Mark Weisman, who since being inserted into the lineup three seasons ago, has served as the short-yardages back for Iowa. "We talk about third and short, and I don't think that if we really talked about fourth and short," Weisman said. "Coach Ferentz has that confidence in us, so we work hard, we get it done, we get it going and get it to where we want to be. We're trying to get those third and fourth situations just the same."

Iowa defense head coach Kirk Ferentz said the team has used the extra bye week to get in and score or I'm not going to get in this game. "Coach Ferentz has that confidence in us to go for it," — Mark Weisman, running back

Barrett also ranks second in the Big Ten in passing yards per game with 270.8, while Rutgers Nove ranks third with 268.8 yards per contest. The two quarterbacks are set to lead their teams against each other this weekend when Rutgers travels to Columbus. Kickoff is set for 2:30 p.m. Saturday CDT.

"It’s no secret that Gary Nova and J.T. Barrett are quickly establish- ing themselves as two of the best quarterbacks in the conference. The Buckeyes Barrett ranks second in the Big Ten in passing yards per game with 270.8, while Rutgers Nove ranks third with 268.8 yards per contest. The two quarterbacks are set to lead their teams against each other this weekend when Rutgers travels to Columbus. Kickoff is set for 2:30 p.m. Saturday CDT."

"That being said, right now I'm thinking it goes during the week. I look at it goes during the week. I look at news, and analysis of the Iowa football team."

@JacobSheyko

"Iowa field-hockey team. Twitter for news, updates, and analysis about the Iowa football team.”
Hawkeye volleyball faces another tough match

Former Iowa Hawk Angerer retires

By KYLE MANN
kyle-mann@uiowa.edu

The Iowa volleyball team will have its first match this season against Michigan State at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Carver-Hawkeye Arena. The Illini enter the match at 12-5 overall, 4-2 in the Big Ten, including a triumphant victory over Penn State on the road in their last match, Oct. 11. No. 17 Illinois also joins Nebraska and Penn State as top-25 teams Iowa has faced.

“Illinois is a hot team right now coming off a road win at Penn State, something they haven’t done in decades,” Iowa head coach Bond Shymansky said Tuesday. “We’ve shown this, when we can get in system, we can play with anybody. So we’re looking for another good performance as a serve-receive team.”

There have been a lot of adjustments made to the lineup recently in order to focus some attention on that serve-receive game, and one of the beneficiaries has been defensive specialist Kari Mueller. The senior has received...
IOWA NOTEBOOK

Special teams worry Iowa

BY BARRY RYNE
嫱 being known as the "Special Teams Notebook." The Iowa Hawkeyes are no different when it comes to special teams. The team has struggled with special teams this season, and it's a concern for the team.

In Big Ten football, special teams can make or break a game. Kickoff returns, punt returns, and field goals are all crucial aspects of the game. Iowa has struggled in these areas this season.

On kickoff returns, Iowa has allowed long returns that have put the team in difficult situations. The team has had issues with coverage on kickoff returns and has allowed long gains.

On punt returns, Iowa has also struggled. The team has had issues with coverage on punt returns as well. This has allowed opponents to gain long yards on punt returns.

Field goals have also been an issue for the Hawkeyes. The team has struggled with their kicking game, and this has affected their ability to score points.

BY JACOB SHEYKO

Iowa focuses on special teams, fourth down conversions, and an update on several injuries.

BY DANNY PAYNE

Big Ten coaches stress autograph rules

BY RYAN RODRIGUEZ

Pelicans vs. Islanders: Stakes are high.

For a team with as much offensive firepower as the Black and Gold, there is no reason to not be excited for Iowa to convert these chances. However, much like a power play in ice hockey, the success of a corner unit on the field is dependent as much on strategy and tactics as it is on personnel.

Of course, it also hinges on actually having the opportunity to convert as well. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good." Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.

In 33 games, the Black and Gold have drawn 35 corners, or an average of 1.05 per game — which ranks near the bottom of the Big Ten. The team wants more success on special teams, and it will need to get more on its road to success.

"I think that last one goes in — it's something like that," Cellucci said. "Whatever happens, the one thing that is actually drawing more some more penalty corners as we can see that our progress is good," Cellucci said. "Our goal every year is to convert around 30 percent of our corners, and we need to have more attempts and draws and more offenders even if we want to even get close to that.