The University of Iowa saw an 11.4 percent increase in the number of freshmen students as of Feb. 16, according to statistics provided by the Office of the President, with the 2014-15 class. Officials hope to see around 500 more students in the fall’s first-year freshman class, compared with this year’s class. The best number of students to admit in a monthly one-on-one Q&A enrollment this coming fall.

President Sally Mason says the campus and rebuilding after the 2008 flood, University of Iowa President Sally Mason says the campus recovery and rebuilding after the 2008 flood, UI students walk to and from class on the T. Anne Cleary Walkway on Monday. UI President Sally Mason hopes for 500 more students in this year’s freshman class compared with this year’s class. (The Daily Iowan/Mikaela Parrick) Community members meet for an intergenerational LGBTQ dialogue.

No age barriers for LGBTO

BY BEN WARD

It isn’t often you get four generations of the Iowa City LGBTQ community gathered in the same room to spark a discussion about intergenerational LGBTQ issues.

Approximately 30 people attended the meeting, covering a span of around four generations.

In part, one of the reasons Malone said she believed people were so excited about the talk was the lack of events which specifically involved the LGBTQ community.

“There aren’t a lot of opportunities for the queer community to get together and talk about issues that we face and how we can support each other across generations,” she said.

This was the first time an intergenerational discussion has been held, and Malone said the reason it was created was because of the continuous need she heard from the community for a conversation between generations.

“I continuously heard this comment, ‘We need to talk to each other,’” she said. “So the committee decided to put this event on to create an opportunity for people to talk to each other.”

The topic the meeting was centered around was community building and storytelling. Malone said, with members sharing their unique generational experiences, coming out stories, and learning about how to continue to develop a community despite age differences.

“Jamie Nevins, the owner of Back Together Massage, said she at- tended the meeting to listen and understand where people in the community were at in their lives. She believed the meeting went well.

“Up opening a space for people to be heard is always good, to be able to speak and be able to be listened to,” she said.

Although this discussion was facilitated by Malone as one of the Visibility Action Team, a group of volunteers that advocates and supports older LGBTQ residents of Johnson County, Malone said any future forums would have to be organized and facilitated by the community.

Therefore, although this was the first intergenerational LGBTQ community discussion, it might be the last one.

However, the event appears to have gone well, and after the meeting finished, several attendees volunteered to host and organize the next event, including Nevins and Khalid Khan.

“The community members are welcoming of what Malone said, ‘This Vis- ibility Action Team started the motor, and moving through now has been nice to hear their stories.’”

— Jamie Nevins, owner of Back Together Massage

Police positions change

The Iowa City Police Department approved significant staff changes for next fiscal year.

These changes reflect changing job requirements in the department, according to Assistant Chief Tony Duzan.

The police recruit examination and the public administrator position will be combined into one position to fill the “public administrator/communications/recruit position.” Additional to the changes, the new policy will now have the same policy of merit retention and have the same job requirements and responsibilities.

The estimated changes will save the city $35,200 annually.

City moves on Streetscape Project

The City Council approved a milestone in the Streetscape Project.

The project’s phase 7 will focus on providing solutions for conflicts created by current patterns of development in the Iowa City area.

City moves on Streetscape Project

The City Council approved a milestone in the Streetscape Project.

The project’s phase 7 will focus on providing solutions for conflicts created by current patterns of development in the Iowa City area.

METRO

Police positions change

The Iowa City Police Department approved significant staff changes for next fiscal year.

These changes reflect changing job requirements in the department, according to Assistant Chief Tony Duzan.

The police recruit examination and the public administrator position will be combined into one position to fill the “public administrator/communications/recruit position.” Additional to the changes, the new policy will now have the same policy of merit retention and have the same job requirements and responsibilities.

The estimated changes will save the city $35,200 annually.

City moves on Streetscape Project

The City Council approved a milestone in the Streetscape Project.

The project’s phase 7 will focus on providing solutions for conflicts created by current patterns of development in the Iowa City area.

BLITTER

Angus Adamson, 12-121

The Daily Iowan Student Reporter

Sunday with interview of social justice issues.

John Cardin, 28, Chicago, was charged Sunday with public intoxication.

Dalton Jallum, 23, Cedar Rapids, was charged Monday with public intoxication.

John McDonald, 24, was charged Monday with public intoxication.

Chelsie Hill, 26, Iowa City, was charged with violation of an order of protection.

Trinity Fregoe, 16, Cedar Rapids, was charged with violation of a suspended/can- celled license.

Tori Mullen, 19, 920 E. Burlington St. Apt. 11, was charged Tuesday with violation of a suspended/cancelled license.

LGBTQ talk in Iowa City library

Back Together Massage

Jamie Nevins, owner of Back Together Massage, attended an intergenerational LGBTQ dialogue meeting at the Iowa City Public Library.

“I think people were excited, really appreciated the opportunity to share and talk about issues that we face and how we can support each other across generations,” she said.

Although this discussion was facilitated by Malone as one of the Visibility Action Team, a group of volunteers that advocates and supports older LGBTQ residents of Johnson County, Malone said any future forums would have to be organized and facilitated by the community.

Therefore, although this was the first intergenerational LGBTQ community discussion, it might be the last one.

However, the event appears to have gone well, and after the meeting finished, several attendees volunteered to host and organize the next event, including Nevins and Khalid Khan.

“The community members are welcoming of what Malone said, ‘This Vis- ibility Action Team started the motor, and moving through now has been nice to hear their stories.’”

— Jamie Nevins, owner of Back Together Massage

Police positions change

The Iowa City Police Department approved significant staff changes for next fiscal year.

These changes reflect changing job requirements in the department, according to Assistant Chief Tony Duzan.

The police recruit examination and the public administrator position will be combined into one position to fill the “public administrator/communications/recruit position.” Additional to the changes, the new policy will now have the same policy of merit retention and have the same job requirements and responsibilities.

The estimated changes will save the city $35,200 annually.

City moves on Streetscape Project

The City Council approved a milestone in the Streetscape Project.

The project’s phase 7 will focus on providing solutions for conflicts created by current patterns of development in the Iowa City area.

BLITTER

Angus Adamson, 12-121

The Daily Iowan Student Reporter

Sunday with interview of social justice issues.

John Cardin, 28, Chicago, was charged Sunday with public intoxication.

Dalton Jallum, 23, Cedar Rapids, was charged Monday with public intoxication.

John McDonald, 24, was charged Monday with public intoxication.

Chelsie Hill, 26, Iowa City, was charged with violation of an order of protection.

Tori Mullen, 19, 920 E. Burlington St. Apt. 11, was charged Tuesday with violation of a suspended/cancelled license.
NEWS 3

WE’RE FINALLY KIND OF BACK TO FULL STRENGTH.”

RICHARDSON, the head of the Leeds Committee, which facilitates the UI Lecture Committee’s event planning.

The program, she said, would be “indescribable” and “amazing” said, it would be “incredible” and “amazing” to bring to the UI someone who he painted as “the author of island.”

Though UI students will drive the campaign, something that suggests that we’re going to have a very large and strong freshman class this year, and that’s the most diverse freshman class that we’ve ever seen in coming in next fall.”

“Whatever it is to me
every year, we see the number of applications going up, but what we’re seeing at this point in time is acceptance of admits, and admitting, and those kinds of things that suggest that we’re going to have a very large and strong freshman class, said in fact I’ll predict, because I won’t be there, but I will predict that we will once again have the large-set, the most-talented, and the most-diverse freshman
class that we’ve ever
seen in coming in next fall.”

Shelter House has taken the additional two weeks
into consideration, and the number of full-time fac-
culty and staff will need
to grow, too.

I think it has to become a reality. If we want more to grow and maintain that grow and maintain that growth, but what we’re seeing up, but what we’re seeing is going to close in a less shelter.

This is the first year the
project co-organizer
and resident services
director at the Iowa City Shelter House.

Currently, Crissy
Schwindt said. “It was a huge role in our childhoods
and popular culture.

Gage was hired for the Lecture Committee will pick a speaker, they are offered admissions to the UI’s efforts to recruit
and prevent them from currently recruiting
students.

Our effort to attract Rowling.

The UI offered admis-
sions Office website.

She said that the uni-
diversity is to hire people temporary fix, but if it
continues to grow, the number of full-time fac-
culty and staff will need
to grow, too.

“Whatever it is to me
every year, we see the number of applications going up, but what we’re seeing at this point in time is acceptance of admits, and admitting, and those kinds of things that suggest that we’re
going to have a very large and strong freshman
class, said in fact I’ll predict, because I won’t be there, but I will predict that we will
once again have the large-
set, the most-talented, and the most-diverse freshman
class that we’ve ever
seen in coming in next fall.”

Shelter House has taken the
additional two weeks
into consideration, and
the number of full-time fac-
culty and staff will need
to grow, too.

I think it has to become a reality. If we want more to grow and maintain that
grow and maintain that
growth, but what we’re seeing up, but what we’re seeing is going to close in a
less shelter.

This is the first year the
project co-organizer
and resident services
director at the Iowa City Shelter House.

Currently, Crissy
Schwindt said. “It was a huge role in our childhoods
and popular culture.

Gage was hired for
the Lecture Committee will
pick a speaker, they are
offered admissions to the UI’s efforts to recruit
and prevent them from currently recruiting
students.

Our effort to attract Rowling.

The UI offered admis-
sions Office website.

She said that the uni-
diversity is to hire people temporary fix, but if it
continues to grow, the
number of full-time fac-
culty and staff will need
to grow, too.

“Whatever it is to me
every year, we see the number of applications going up, but what we’re seeing at this point in time is acceptance of admits, and admitting, and those kinds of things that suggest that we’re
going to have a very large and strong freshman
class, said in fact I’ll predict, because I won’t be there, but I will predict that we will
once again have the large-
set, the most-talented, and the most-diverse freshman
class that we’ve ever
seen in coming in next fall.”

Shelter House has taken the
additional two weeks
into consideration, and
the number of full-time fac-
culty and staff will need
to grow, too.

I think it has to become a reality. If we want more to grow and maintain that
grow and maintain that
growth, but what we’re seeing up, but what we’re seeing is going to close in a
less shelter.

This is the first year the
project co-organizer
and resident services
director at the Iowa City Shelter House.

Currently, Crissy
Schwindt said. “It was a huge role in our childhoods
and popular culture.

Gage was hired for
the Lecture Committee will
pick a speaker, they are
offered admissions to the UI’s efforts to recruit
and prevent them from currently recruiting
students.

Our effort to attract Rowling.

The UI offered admis-
sions Office website.

She said that the uni-
diversity is to hire people temporary fix, but if it
continues to grow, the
number of full-time fac-
culty and staff will need
to grow, too.

“Whatever it is to me
every year, we see the number of applications going up, but what we’re seeing at this point in time is acceptance of admits, and admitting, and those kinds of things that suggest that we’re
going to have a very large and strong freshman
class, said in fact I’ll predict, because I won’t be there, but I will predict that we will
once again have the large-
set, the most-talented, and the most-diverse freshman
class that we’ve ever
seen in coming in next fall.”

Shelter House has taken the
additional two weeks
into consideration, and
the number of full-time fac-
colors than that.

“We have no one at the shelter was that no one else to die in Iowa City,” he said. The police had previously told The Daily Iowan
that the body had decreased vagrancy in Io-
a City by 95 percent.

increased vagrancy in Io-
a City by 95 percent.

“I think it has to become a reality. If we want more to grow and maintain that
grow and maintain that
growth, but what we’re seeing up, but what we’re seeing is going to close in a
less shelter.

This is the first year the
project co-organizer
and resident services
director at the Iowa City Shelter House.

Currently, Crissy
Schwindt said. “It was a huge role in our childhoods
and popular culture.

Gage was hired for the Lecture Committee will
pick a speaker, they are
offered admissions to the UI’s efforts to recruit
and prevent them from
currently recruiting
students.

Our effort to attract Rowling.

The UI offered admis-
sions Office website.

She said that the uni-
diversity is to hire people temporary fix, but if it
continues to grow, the
number of full-time fac-
colors than that.

“We have no one at the shelter was that no one else to die in Iowa City,” he said. The police had previously told The Daily Iowan
that the body had decreased vagrancy in Io-
a City by 95 percent.

increased vagrancy in Io-
a City by 95 percent.
Opinions

The sky is falling...

Last week, new breed broke that US Food and Drug Administration has licensed the first medical device in use at a medical center in Los Angeles and elsewhere in the US. But it hadn’t made any recommendations for different safety requirements or cautioned against its use. The revelation has called into question the FDA’s regulatory practices and has resulted in a series of investigative reports on the Reagin Medical Center, where 127 patients have been injured. The FDA has said it is applying for more information on the devices.

In 2013 and 2014, the FDA reportedly received 75 reports of harmful effects associated with the re-usable devices, known as duodenoscopes. Inseted duodenoscopes are used to enter the duodenum, the part of the gut from which it gets its name, the duodenum. The trouble comes when they are used. Over time, bacteria gradually accumulate on the device, and they have been linked to increased rates of infection and contagiousness and antibiotics.

The misuse of Bitcoin

Bitcoin is a relatively new form of current that has gained notice in recent years. It is a virtual currency that is used in a variety of digital transactions. The currency is created and stored on a decentralized peer-to-peer network.

Bitcoin has been the subject of much debate and criticism. Some have called it a form of money that can be used to avoid paying taxes without a financial institution's help. However, the potential for misuse of a currency should not be a permanent de-crease to understanding.
The dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present. … As our case is new, so we must think anew and act anew.
At the most talented, and the admissions office is going to get ready for next fall and looking at the admissions numbers. Our admissions numbers are really, really strong right now, and I'm very pleased about that. We’ve pretty much up across the boards. We’ve added up applications in virtually every category, whether it’s residents, nonresidents in Illinois and elsewhere, and nonresident students who are seeking Illinois — which generally fall into the international category, whether it’s Iowa residents, nonresidents in the UI or UIUC, or students going into the nonresident category, whether it’s for our international students, or students like our Iowa residents, nonresidents in the UI or UIUC, or students going into the nonresident category, whether it’s for our international students, or students like our Iowa residents, nonresidents in the UI or UIUC, or students going into the nonresident category.

There’s a lot going on in this aspect in regards to this.”

Yesterday, she told me that she shared this with board members. She smiled and she said, “Well, I used to make us eat it every day and every day. It’s really positive things in regards to this."

"That's good news. I agree with you. The community in regards to the very positive results did come in next fall. The target is to get the most talented, and the admissions office is going to get ready for next fall and looking at the admissions numbers. Our admissions numbers are really, really strong right now, and I'm very pleased about that. We’ve pretty much up across the boards. We’ve added up applications in virtually every category, whether it’s residents, nonresidents in Illinois and elsewhere, and nonresident students who are seeking Illinois — which generally fall into the international category, whether it’s Iowa residents, nonresidents in the UI or UIUC, or students going into the nonresident category, whether it’s for our international students, or students like our Iowa residents, nonresidents in the UI or UIUC, or students going into the nonresident category, whether it’s for our international students, or students like our Iowa residents, nonresidents in the UI or UIUC, or students going into the nonresident category, whether it’s for our international students, or students like our Iowa residents, nonresidents in the UI or UIUC, or students going into the nonresident category.
BIG TEN CHAMPIONSHIPS

Swimmers set for Big Ten Championships

With the championship season here, it’s time to see what the Hawkeyes are made of.

It’s time to let the dogs loose. It’s time to shake up a game and open up the throttle, it’s time to race. It’s come to the end of the year, and we’ll see what the Iowa men’s swimming team can do.

On many occasions this season, Iowa head coach Marc Long has said the team is focused on the championship season. The Hawkeyes have focused on the dual-meet season. It likely is the season they could move up in the standings. It is a team that has a chance to have a run in the championship season. It likely will not win the Big Ten, but the Hawkeyes could move up in the standings from last year’s 12th place, and Snell, the Bulls entered the first half on Monday in Chicago. (Associated Press /Charles Rex Arbogast)

The Hawks have dropped two of three since they shipped leading scorer Brandon Knight to Phoenix in a three-team trade on Thursday. Milwaukee got Michael Carter-Williams from Philadelphia in the deadline deal, but the point guard has sidelined by a right foot strain.

“We have to get him on the floor, he’s been out,” coach Jo- son Kidd said before Monday’s game. “Once we get him on the floor, we’re going to get everyone comfortable playing with him. Hopefully, that will be soon.”

Asked specifically when Carter-Williams would be back, Kidd re- sponded: “We’ll see.” In the meantime, Jerryd Bayless had 8 points, 8 rebounds, and 5 assists in his third-consecutive start at the point. He looked like a team in transition without Knight and Carter-Williams.

Chicago Bulls on board

The Bucks have dropped two of three since they shipped leading scorer Brandon Knight to Phoenix in a three-team trade on Thursday. Milwaukee got Michael Carter-Williams from Philadelphia in the deadline deal, but the point guard has sidelined by a right foot strain.

“We have to get him on the floor, he’s been out,” coach Jo- son Kidd said before Monday’s game. “Once we get him on the floor, we’re going to get everyone comfortable playing with him. Hopefully, that will be soon.”

Asked specifically when Carter-Williams would be back, Kidd re- sponded: “We’ll see.” In the meantime, Jerryd Bayless had 8 points, 8 rebounds, and 5 assists in his third-consecutive start at the point. He looked like a team in transition without Knight and Carter-Williams.

Chicago head coach Jim Boylen attempts to pass the ball to the Garden (C) with point guard Michael Carter Williams during the first half in Washington on Chicago. (Associated Press /Charles Rex Arbogast)

The Bucks have dropped two of three since they shipped leading scorer Brandon Knight to Phoenix in a three-team trade on Thursday. Milwaukee got Michael Carter-Williams from Philadelphia in the deadline deal, but the point guard has sidelined by a right foot strain.

“We have to get him on the floor, he’s been out,” coach Jo- son Kidd said before Monday’s game. “Once we get him on the floor, we’re going to get everyone comfortable playing with him. Hopefully, that will be soon.”

Asked specifically when Carter-Williams would be back, Kidd re- sponded: “We’ll see.” In the meantime, Jerryd Bayless had 8 points, 8 rebounds, and 5 assists in his third-consecutive start at the point. He looked like a team in transition without Knight and Carter-Williams.

Chicago head coach Jim Boylen attempts to pass the ball to the Garden (C) with point guard Michael Carter Williams during the first half in Washington on Chicago. (Associated Press /Charles Rex Arbogast)

The Bucks have dropped two of three since they shipped leading scorer Brandon Knight to Phoenix in a three-team trade on Thursday. Milwaukee got Michael Carter-Williams from Philadelphia in the deadline deal, but the point guard has sidelined by a right foot strain.

“We have to get him on the floor, he’s been out,” coach Jo- son Kidd said before Monday’s game. “Once we get him on the floor, we’re going to get everyone comfortable playing with him. Hopefully, that will be soon.”

Asked specifically when Carter-Williams would be back, Kidd re- sponded: “We’ll see.” In the meantime, Jerryd Bayless had 8 points, 8 rebounds, and 5 assists in his third-consecutive start at the point. He looked like a team in transition without Knight and Carter-Williams.

Chicago head coach Jim Boylen attempts to pass the ball to the Garden (C) with point guard Michael Carter Williams during the first half in Washington on Chicago. (Associated Press /Charles Rex Arbogast)
Big Ten and are fourth in the NCAA. They are also working on it. "Iowa is growin..."
Home on the road

Iowa’s five true road wins this regular season marks the most for the program since the 2002-03 season.

By Jacob Shewy

Hawkeyes forward Aaron White referred to Jarrod Uthoff when describing how the program at Iowa has enjoyed the most success this regular season, including its surprising victory, a 74-66 thrashing of Nebraska.

During Nebraska, Uthoff’s emotions rarely change or are shown. It doesn’t matter whether he’s in front of 15,500 fans rousing for him or the same number rousing against him. The same goes if Iowa is up by 25 points, knetted in a close game, or getting blown out.

It’s also probably a product of being part of an experienced team, filled with players who went through the up-and-down nature of last season and have been through their fair share of bumps this season.

Whatever the reason, Iowa’s success on the road — and the manner in which it has won — might be the best thing going for the Hawkeyes when times come to select the field for the NCAA Tournament.

“We’ve got a lot of guys who don’t really care where they play,” White said just “... We’ve kind of got a demeanor like that in general. Which is a great demeanor to have, because some of the venues you go into are just, they’re nute. And this place [in Nebraska] was about to be nute. They were ready to brow the roof of the place, and we never let them get into it. That’s what you got to do on the road.”

There really is no statistical ev-evidence on why Iowa has won so much success on the road, which has outlandish with five true road wins, the most for an Iowa team in the regular season since the 2002-03 season. It’s also the third-most road wins of any Big Ten team, trailing Wisconsin’s eight and Michigan State’s six.

Iowa actually allows 2 points per game fewer and scores about 2 points per game more in Big Ten home games this season than on the road. However, an 82-50 road loss to Wisconsin may skew those numbers a bit.

Numbers aside, Iowa has four road struggles, and Iowa had to win seven of those games to one team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, Dickerson played 146 minutes in the season with Iowa appearing season rankings released on Monday.

DAILY IOWAN.COM

The Iowa women’s basketball team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, head coach Lisa Bluder said team’s media day, the players look to finish the season in the top 16 and secure hosting advantages in early postseason play. Last week, the NCAA released a revised top-12 from those projected teams, with Iowa appearing right on schedule.

Dickerson did not travel with the Hawkeyes to Minneapolis and Ohio State, instead of finishing the Cornhuskers. In limited minutes this season, Dickerson has averaged 2.7 points per game, with Iowa appearing on 34.7 percent shooting.

But he’s got a lot of time left, and I have to do what’s best for me.”

Regardless of how the Hawkeyes finish this season, Dickerson is
from his scholarship.

“... We’ve kind of got a demeanor like that in general. Which is a great demeanor to have, because some of the venues you go into are just, they’re nute. And this place [in Nebraska] was about to be nute. They were ready to brow the roof of the place, and we never let them get into it. That’s what you got to do on the road.”

There really is no statistical ev-evidence on why Iowa has won so much success on the road, which has outlandish with five true road wins, the most for an Iowa team in the regular season since the 2002-03 season. It’s also the third-most road wins of any Big Ten team, trailing Wisconsin’s eight and Michigan State’s six.

Iowa actually allows 2 points per game fewer and scores about 2 points per game more in Big Ten home games this season than on the road. However, an 82-50 road loss to Wisconsin may skew those numbers a bit.

Numbers aside, Iowa has four road
struggles, and Iowa had to win seven of those games to one team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, Dickerson played 146 minutes in the season with Iowa appearing
season rankings released on Monday.

DAILY IOWAN.COM

The Iowa women’s basketball
team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, head coach Lisa Bluder said team’s media day, the players look to finish the season in the top 16 and secure hosting advantages in early postseason play. Last week, the NCAA released a revised top-12 from those projected teams, with Iowa appearing
right on schedule.

Dickerson did not travel with the Hawkeyes to Minneapolis and Ohio State, instead of finishing
the Cornhuskers. In limited minutes this season, Dickerson has averaged 2.7 points per game, with Iowa appearing on 34.7 percent shooting.

But he’s got a lot of time left, and I have to do what’s best for me.”

Regardless of how the Hawkeyes finish this season, Dickerson is
from his scholarship.

“... We’ve kind of got a demeanor like that in general. Which is a great demeanor to have, because some of the venues you go into are just, they’re nute. And this place [in Nebraska] was about to be nute. They were ready to brow the roof of the place, and we never let them get into it. That’s what you got to do on the road.”

There really is no statistical ev-evidence on why Iowa has won so much success on the road, which has outlandish with five true road wins, the most for an Iowa team in the regular season since the 2002-03 season. It’s also the third-most road wins of any Big Ten team, trailing Wisconsin’s eight and Michigan State’s six.

Iowa actually allows 2 points per game fewer and scores about 2 points per game more in Big Ten home games this season than on the road. However, an 82-50 road loss to Wisconsin may skew those numbers a bit.

Numbers aside, Iowa has four road
struggles, and Iowa had to win seven of those games to one team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, Dickerson played 146 minutes in the season with Iowa appearing
season rankings released on Monday.

DAILY IOWAN.COM

The Iowa women’s basketball
team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, head coach Lisa Bluder said team’s media day, the players look to finish the season in the top 16 and secure hosting advantages in early postseason play. Last week, the NCAA released a revised top-12 from those projected teams, with Iowa appearing
right on schedule.

Dickerson did not travel with the Hawkeyes to Minneapolis and Ohio State, instead of finishing
the Cornhuskers. In limited minutes this season, Dickerson has averaged 2.7 points per game, with Iowa appearing on 34.7 percent shooting.

But he’s got a lot of time left, and I have to do what’s best for me.”

Regardless of how the Hawkeyes finish this season, Dickerson is
from his scholarship.

“... We’ve kind of got a demeanor like that in general. Which is a great demeanor to have, because some of the venues you go into are just, they’re nute. And this place [in Nebraska] was about to be nute. They were ready to brow the roof of the place, and we never let them get into it. That’s what you got to do on the road.”

There really is no statistical ev-evidence on why Iowa has won so much success on the road, which has outlandish with five true road wins, the most for an Iowa team in the regular season since the 2002-03 season. It’s also the third-most road wins of any Big Ten team, trailing Wisconsin’s eight and Michigan State’s six.

Iowa actually allows 2 points per game fewer and scores about 2 points per game more in Big Ten home games this season than on the road. However, an 82-50 road loss to Wisconsin may skew those numbers a bit.

Numbers aside, Iowa has four road
struggles, and Iowa had to win seven of those games to one team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, Dickerson played 146 minutes in the season with Iowa appearing
season rankings released on Monday.

DAILY IOWAN.COM

The Iowa women’s basketball
team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, head coach Lisa Bluder said team’s media day, the players look to finish the season in the top 16 and secure hosting advantages in early postseason play. Last week, the NCAA released a revised top-12 from those projected teams, with Iowa appearing
right on schedule.

Dickerson did not travel with the Hawkeyes to Minneapolis and Ohio State, instead of finishing
the Cornhuskers. In limited minutes this season, Dickerson has averaged 2.7 points per game, with Iowa appearing on 34.7 percent shooting.

But he’s got a lot of time left, and I have to do what’s best for me.”

Regardless of how the Hawkeyes finish this season, Dickerson is
from his scholarship.

“... We’ve kind of got a demeanor like that in general. Which is a great demeanor to have, because some of the venues you go into are just, they’re nute. And this place [in Nebraska] was about to be nute. They were ready to brow the roof of the place, and we never let them get into it. That’s what you got to do on the road.”

There really is no statistical ev-evidence on why Iowa has won so much success on the road, which has outlandish with five true road wins, the most for an Iowa team in the regular season since the 2002-03 season. It’s also the third-most road wins of any Big Ten team, trailing Wisconsin’s eight and Michigan State’s six.

Iowa actually allows 2 points per game fewer and scores about 2 points per game more in Big Ten home games this season than on the road. However, an 82-50 road loss to Wisconsin may skew those numbers a bit.

Numbers aside, Iowa has four road
struggles, and Iowa had to win seven of those games to one team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, Dickerson played 146 minutes in the season with Iowa appearing
season rankings released on Monday.

DAILY IOWAN.COM

The Iowa women’s basketball
team’s media day on Oct. 30, 2014, head coach Lisa Bluder said team’s media day, the players look to finish the season in the top 16 and secure hosting advantages in early postseason play. Last week, the NCAA released a revised top-12 from those projected teams, with Iowa appearing
right on schedule.

Dickerson did not travel with the Hawkeyes to Minneapolis and Ohio State, instead of finishing
the Cornhuskers. In limited minutes this season, Dickerson has averaged 2.7 points per game, with Iowa appearing on 34.7 percent shooting.