COMMENCEMENT EDITION.

As usual, the Opera House was more densely crowded on Wednesday than on any other day during commencement week. Promptly at half past nine o'clock the procession arrived at its destination, and the exercises began. After music by the band, the invocation was pronounced by Rev. Young, of Des Moines.

The salutatorian of the graduating class, Mr. Charles M. Holman, having been excused, the first speaker on the programme was Mr. William C. Burton, of New York. He delivered a stirring address, which was thoughtful and to the point. Mr. Burton could be distinctly heard in all parts of the house.

Miss Fannie Blaxter, the next speaker, delivered a graceful oration upon the character and public services of Charles Sumner. Mr. William O. Payne, who followed Miss Blaxter, introduced the audience to the "citizen in politics." Mr. Payne had evidently given his subject thorough consideration, and his oration was listened with attention, sense, and well delivered.

The "Civilization of the Mound-Builders" was Mr. Frank K. Van Fossen's theme. His treatment of that subject has evinced a careful study of the prehistoric period in America.

Mr. Charles H. Dayton's subject, "Universal Character," was of a more abstract nature than most that had been selected. It was exceedingly well handled, however, and in manner as well manner as ever known Mr. Dayton to do better.

The next speaker on the programme was Miss Carrie Hutchinson, of Iowa City. Her subject was "Tennyson's 'Princess.'" Miss Hutchinson's production was not only excellent, but admirably delivered. She was consequently rewarded with the closest attention of the audience from first to last.

The "Mistakes of Biblicalists and Scientists" were then considered by Mr. Lorenzo D. Youngkin. His estimate of the claims of each class was eminently fair and just.

Mr. Fred. O. Newcomb's subject, "The Creation of All Classes in Civilization," was well handled. Mr. Newcomb was called upon for an address by Miss Alice V. Wilkinson. Miss Wilkinson presented the subject, "Complexity in Motives." Her oration was carefully composed, and delivered with marked earnestness and distinctness.

Mr. Arthur J. Craven spoke on the subject of "Bondman." He briefly reviewed the consequences of the Norman conquest, and indicated the lessons taught by human slavery. Mr. Craven's delivery was unusually good, even for him.

"Religious Impulses" was the theme of Mr. Thomas D. Hitchcock's oration, which was well thought out.

Calvin H. Forney's production was entitled "A Lesson from History." Historical themes are a favorite with Mr. Forney, and always well presented through the medium of a clear and attractive style.

Miss Julia Cavanagh, although appointed one of the Commencement orators, was, at her request, excused from participating in the exercises.

A poem, entitled "The Fall of Grenada," together with the valedictory address, were delivered by Mrs. Emma W. Gillespie. Both certainly reflected great credit not only upon the scholarship which secured for the lady the position of valedictorian, but also upon the literary talent which enabled her to fill it in such an acceptable manner.

Upon the conclusion of the valedictory address, Mr. Charles E. Patterson pronounced the Master's oration. Mr. Patterson's production bore the somewhat novel title, "The Ability, Confidence, and Activity of Reynard the Fox." It was replete with mingled humor and sound sense.

The degrees were then conferred upon the graduates, and the audience returned to the house for a picnic dined upon the grounds.

CLASS DAY.

As usual, the Class Day exercises were one of the most interesting features of Commencement. They were held at the Opera House, Tuesday, at 4 P.M. After the programme was distributed the audience had an opportunity to brush up their classics, for it was printed in Latin, and the high sounding Roman titles evidently produced not a little impression.

We give the programme as presented:

REVIEW AND PARADE.

Last Friday afternoon were held the closing exercises of the Military department of the University. The companies assembled promptly at ten minutes of four o'clock, and were formed in column near the armory. The line of march was south on Capitol to College street, east on College to Clinton, north on Clinton to Jefferson, thence west on Jefferson to the north gate of the University campus. The battery fired a salute of sixteen guns as the infantry moved out from the armory. On their return, the lines were deployed in column, with an interval for the battery. The guns were then advanced into this interval, and fired six rounds alternately with the infantry. At the conclusion of the firing, the guns were withdrawn, the interval closed, and the battery took its position on the left of the column, in readiness for the parade.

The entire programme was admirably executed, and reflected great credit upon the efficiency of the work done by the department during the last year. The volley firing by the infantry deserves special commendation. The band would deserve it also, had its reputation not been already so well established that commendation is unnecessary.

Governor Sherman, who was expected to be present at the review, did not appear. We believe he is in Washington, and not able to return in time for the opening exercises of commencement week.

The most violent storm of the season prevented a large audience from assembling. This occasion is a prominent feature of Commencement exercises, for it usually draws an appreciable number of people to the university. Notwithstanding the storm, however, the oration was heard by an audience, fair as to numbers, and above the average as to quality and enthusiasm.

The programme was a decided success in every particular. The President of the evening, Prof. Gustavus Hinrichs, was in his happiest mood, and introduced the orator with graceful gestures and easy gait. The audience was pleased, which tended to put it in a good mood and to inspire confidence to the speaker. Much of his success gained on the impression was due to his choice of the Invocation given by Dr. Fellows.

Irving Institute came first, under direction of its President, Mr. Preston S. Sever, who at once introduced the society orator, Mr. Norris Brown. Subject—"Cardinal Wolsey." Mr. Brown evinced the qualities of oratory which won for him in his society the honor of representing it. His oration was characterized by a careful discrimination of thought and an easy natural flow. It was written for delivery, and showed none of the essay stiffness which so frequently hobbs the thought of good thinkers. His manner was earnest, inviting sympathy from his audience, enhanced by graceful gestures and easy gestures. There were seven graduates, for whom Mr. Seaman made a short and appropriate response.

Milton McClure, John D. Holland, and Mira E. Troth of the Hesperian Society introduced their orator Miss Nellie Custer of this city. Miss Custer entered the self-possession of her audience. Her effort proved to be one of the best of the evening. "Political Quicksands" was full of practical ideas, and given in a full rich voice which held the audience in silent admiration till the close. The oration graduated five members. Miss Kelly responded for the graduates, with many thanks and best wishes for the future growth of the society.

J. E. McDowell introduced the Zetgathian orator, Mr. Walter M. Walker, who at once proceeded to do the best he has done this year in the various public occasions in which he has appeared. His oration was characterized by good, honest thought, clothed with just enough of the elements of fiction as to make it forceful and attractive.

The "Emphasis of Want" is the grand level which lifts barbarism up into civilization. History gitters with the splendor of bayonets and armies, but the world owes its progress to the patient toiler, who plows the corn, who feeds the shuttle at the factory, who sweats at the dusty forge. England may well boast of her commerce, poets and statesmen, but the begrimed coal-digger is the man before whom her civilization may rightfully bow. Mr. Walker closed with a plea for the equitable adjustment of labor and took his seat amid hearty applause. Zetgathians graduated ten members. Mr. French made a neat response.

The oration for the Erodophins by Miss Mina B. Selby, was one of the most interesting on the programme, and elicited the highest compliments from the audience.

Her subject, "Dr. Holland," holds a warm place in the hearts of his numerous readers, that the closest attention of the audience was gained at the very outset. His life and works, his influences, were all portrayed with fitting harmony. The speaker gave herself to her theme, spoke in clear, kindly tone, and materially brightened the literary reputation of herself and her society. Miss Gertrude Whetton presented the diplomas to five graduates, and Miss Carrie McClory made a fitting response.

The different societies may well be proud of their showing. The audience retired in peace, realizing that the commencement programme had had a pleasant beginning.

LAW COMMENCEMENT.

The Law Commencement exercises properly began Monday evening by the oration of Col. Clark, of Cedar Rapids. The Opera House was thronged to its utmost capacity; and the address was well received by all present. He spoke in regard to what the true lawyer is and ever should be, and clearly pointed out the line of demarcation between the lawyer and the low shyster.

Tuesday at 9 o'clock a. m., the addresses of those chosen to represent the class were delivered, and the conferring of the degree of Bachelor of Law by the Chancellor upon all those that graduated, and also the awarding of prizes by the committee. The following is the order of the programme as carried out:

II. Address of Members of the Classes.

THE HISTORY OF JOHNSON COUNTY.

The following article speaks volumes in favor of the necessity of a history of Johnson County. We have delayed making editorial reference to the History of Johnson County, and for good reason. The authors, business men of Iowa, ex-officio, in the hands of Mr. D. W. Wood of the Press. The method of the work has been fully indicated in the prospectus already printed, and it is not so comprehensive as to fail to be of the greatest present and future value.

The sketches and more ambitious narratives of our early days herefore publised have been written by our own best pioneers, who were a part of the life pictured, actors in the stirring events incident to those early days, and sons of the pioneers who began in 1831, publishing a primitve village, red walled and windowless, to pass before their eyes a score of years of change. These narratives and sketches have been an important and indispensable feature of several adventures and incidents, and, being a history of our county, its people, and the labors, trials, and achievements incident to the establishment of the County, is a history of the civilization of the age. Now there has come the time for the publication of a history of our county, which will be the actual history of the people who have lived in it, their activities, what it has done for them, and the lessons of history which are to be derived from it.

The History of Johnson County is the history of the Iowa City Press meets of approval from all classes of our best citizens. The time has come, therefore, when a history of Johnson County must be written, and no opposition can prevent it being published. The company will comply with every prompt made in its prospect, and has already made arrangements to do even more than they have promised. After the book is written and published, it will be proper time for criticism, but it is simply fault-finding to condemn it before you see it. We trust that all classes of good citizens will see the importance of their hearty co-operation with us in making the history of Johnson County, and will be glad to assist us in the task of obtaining the facts necessary to acquaint themselves with the facts necessary to understand the value and importance of the work, should call at the office of the Johnson County History Company, Room No. 3, over Allin, Wilson & Co.'s Bookstore, near the St. James Hotel. Parties desiring to order one of our histories, can do so by calling upon or addressing D. W. Wood, Manager, Iowa City.

The officers for the coming Junior class are as follows: F. D. Johnston, President; F. B. Smith, Vice President; T. J. Heysham, Secretary; C. E. Thayer, Treasurer; H. G. Lamson, editor for VEDETTE-REPORTER.

And still the Alumni continue to pour in: J. S. McCrory, of Mitchillville, W. T. Reed, of Ida Grove, W. O. Findling, of Odebolt, also A. E. Chaffant. These last say that W. E. Skinner is getting rich and fat at Odebolt.

The following is an additional list of Commencement visitors: "Pop" Burrows, H. F. Arnold, W. M. Welch, J. J. Jones, Jr., James A. Kerr, J. B. Moul, James Berryhill and wife, Lucy Evans, John A. Picker, George Sherman.

Miss Minnie Kimball, of Hastings, Neb., and Miss Minnie Newcomb, of Shell Rock, Iowa, were the guests of Mrs. Chas. Kimball during Commencement. Miss Kimball will spend most of the summer visiting her many friends in Iowa City and vicinity.

The parties given by Mrs. James Stewart and Miss Jessie Rigg, of Saturday and Monday evenings, were important events of Commencement week. Many visitors, who had also been strangers, were able to partake of the hospitality of the "Athens of Iowa." It is regretted that lack of space prevents a more extended notice.

Owing to the fact that Miss Wright gave an entertainment upon last Saturday evening, Prof. Hinrichs decided not to give the late Sophomore class the usual reception at his home, which has often been always the best part of Physics. The Professor told the class to wait until next year at the close of the term in Chemistry, and then!

Mrs. Parker entertained at her home, Thursday evening, a select gathering of young people in honor of her young friend, Jennie Hurd. The occasion was one of which mirth and pleasure were the predominating features of the evening, and the reception rendered much credit upon the hospitality of the hostess. By those present the affair will long be remembered as the pleasant gatherings during the Commencement of '82.

Last Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Carson gave a large party at their home on College Hill. The occasion honored was the return of the boys. Burke and George Carson from Boston, where they have been attending school. Over one hundred guests were present, many of them from abroad. Among the latter were Misses Fannie Walker of Council Bluffs, Miss Magic of Rock Island, Miss Jones of Des Moines, Miss Tol Hubbard of St. City, Miss Eliza Ainsworth, Miss Lt. Cedar Rapids, and Mr. Ingham of Algona.

Among the many pleasant entertainments of the past week, none were more enjoyable than the reception given by the L. C.'s, at the residence of Mr. James Cochran, in the University. The Officers of the University, Organized Society, but for rent and enterprise, they quite overshadow the older organizations.

The presentations were out for about forty couples, and about all the regrets were that there were not more. The grounds were brilliantly lighted by Chinese lanterns, while hammocks swung from the trees for the repose of weary humanity. The parlors were tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers, and the published monograph of the sisterhood breathed a spirit of good fortune upon the crowd assembled. Music was furnished by some of Iowa City's best talent, among whom were Miss Jessie Smith and Miss Marie Congdon. Last but not least acceptable, was the large assortment of books, which fully exercised any and all demons of unsociability that may have remained. The home-goers pronounced it, on the whole, the affair of the season.

We are, in this issue, able to make to the students and friends of the University the welcome announcement that Prof. Booth, of Chicago, has been elected to the position of Professor of Eloquence and Oratory in the State University of Iowa.

Prof. Booth has long been familiar to us as one of the ablest instructors in elocution to be found in the West. He has heretofore been accustomed to spend a few weeks each year at the University, publishing off the delivery of the Commencement speakers. He will now be enabled to spend all of his time here, and undertake thoroughly systematic course of instruction in the art of speaking.

The opportunity thus afforded the students of the S. U. L. is such as those of no other institution in the State possesses. It will undoubtedly be gladly seized upon and improved by all. We extend to the Regents our hearty thanks for their ready appreciation of our needs, and generous liberality in satisfying them.

We have further to announce that the Library has been made the recipient of an appropriation of $1,500. This will put it on an excellent footing for the succeeding year. A still more gratifying announcement is that Mrs. North's faithfulness and ability as Librarian have received the substantial recognition of an increase in her salary of one hundred dollars per annum:

It is conceded, that, as a class, the present one passed the best examinations of any one that has ever graduated at this institution.

Mrs. W. J. Earhart was in the City the past week, assisting her husband in passing a creditable examination. Her efforts were entirely successful.

John Baldwin, class '77, located at Council Bluffs, stopped in the city a day or two last week. He was en route for Washington, D.
C., on important business.

Mr. Hewitt and wife, Miss Dolly and Mrs. McCafferty, parents, and acquaintances of Ed. Hewitt, spent several days during Commencement exercises in the city.

The little bit of experience with the examiners of the present year will learn future classes that they must study if they wish to reap the rewards of a creditable examination.

Mr. Lister, of last year's class, and a graduate of this year's St.
Louis class, was in the City several days last week. He thinks there is no such a one as the Iowa City Law School.

The S. U. I. boys passed the final examination of the present Law School with high rank, Nevin and Lister standing high in grade and Horner taking the fifty dollar thesis prize. J. M. Nevin returns to his home in Pennsylvania.

Chancellor Ross' farewell address was an able effort, and was listened to attentively by all the students and quite a number of visitors. He took for the subject of his discourse, the great lawyer

STATE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA LAW DEPARTMENT.

The eighteenth annual course will open September 17th, 1882, and close June 19th, 1883. The school year will be divided into three terms, corresponding with those of the Collegiate Department.

Tuition: President - J. L. Pick­ avd, LL.D.; Chancellor - L. W.
Ross, A.M.; Professors - James
M. Love, LL.D. and Emilie
McClin, LL.B. Lecturers - Austin
Adams, A.M.; John N. Rogers,
A.M.; John F. Duncombe, A.M., and George G. West, A.M.

Two Resident Professors devote their entire time to the Department. Tuition for the school year, $50, and for any term $20. Text books, new, and of the latest edition, $65. Living expenses reasonable. No preliminary examinarions required. Graduates of the Department are admitted to the bar without further examination.
The course of study is still so arranged as to be completed in one year. Provision is also made for an advanced course, or second year.
The subjects of study are presented in their natural order.

The methods of study and instruction are those tested by experience.

These call into use books, new,
daily recitations and explanations, lectures, blackboard and printed syllapes, Moot Courts and Quiz Clubs. The opportunity and necessity for study are the distinguishing features of this school.

THE BANQUET.

Without the spice and extrocity good humor of the "University Collations" of former years, the banquet under the management of the Alumni Association, was a quiet happy event to observe successful college exercises. The old dingy college chapel welcomed a host of old students, alumni, University authorities, and friends of the grand old school, and to perhaps the most of them it seemed, even in its homeliness, homelier than ever before. Tables tastefully arranged with palatable viands were seen disarrayed, for the "Great Educator" have appetites that are not as yet fully trained to be satiated with intellectual food alone, and after the feasting came toasting. We have no space to mention in detail or give in extension the flow of repartee, and good things that were said, some at the expense and some to the honor of the institution, its authorities and its children. Suffice it to say that the irrepressible Pickles was there "as usual," and could nog call asleep. Also the familiar face of T. S. Wright, who responded on behalf of the older alumni with a tribute to their enrolled and hearty work for the institution and the State. President Pickard welcomed back the sons and daughters to the family reunion, and bid a happy and yet sad farewell to the class of forty just going out to stand up in the long ranks of representatives of the grand old school, Crosby, on behalf of the Regents, and Theodore S. Parvin, for the city home of the University, were listened to with interest and attention. Mr. H. W. Morrison, of the graduating class, in a neat speech thanked the Faculty and Regents for their kindness, solicitude and fish devotion to the welfare of the college, and particularly the class he represented. Speaking for the girls of the class, he seemed to have won a preponderate share of the plaudits, Miss Carrie W. Hutchinson feeling adrift to the deep interest of each member of the association in the lives and the success of the others, and touchingly expressed the hope and the sentiment that the love for the institution and the principles it has taught and the love for each other, might return all the children of her alma mater many times to join in the annual welcoming and celebration of life commemorations in the years to come.

Mrs. Jas. G. Berryhill (Jennie Slagle) spoke nicely for the married alumni, and in the interest of her sister married, and Governor Sherman closed the public talking with a characteristic speech in commemoration of the work of the University and its importance to the development of the State. All were introduced by Mr. John J. Hamilton in his accustomed vein. On the whole, the banquet was a pleasant success, but we think that the custom of having a whole-dressed hearty reunion of students of all classes and departments together with authorities, dignitaries, alumni, and friends, in the form of a University collation, proved a favor, as extended last year, should be reinstated as an emblem of the good nature, geniality and cordiality which so decisively marks all connected with the University.

COMMENCEMENT ORATION—ALUMNI EXERCISES.

On Thursday afternoon the Commencement oration was delivered by Colonel Chapman, of Council Bluffs. We cannot even outline this eloquent address, as so many other Commencement reports crowd upon us, but we afford us pleasure to say that it was listened to with deep interest and was largely applauded.

Theodore E. Semn, of the class, in a fervent, pleasant speaker, and a close thinker, he wielded a "razor" pen, and has made the "Xenopoli" one of the best diaries in the State.

On Thursday evening were held the Alumni exercises, consisting of a poem by Mr. John M. Helmick, and an oration by Hon. J. D. Glass. Mr. Helmick surprised his friends with an excellent production. We regret that we have not space to publish it in full. It would only be marred by a synopsis.

Hon. John D. Glass, of Mason City, delivered an excellent oration. His subject was "The Ebb and Flow." After the speaking, the President held a reception at his residence on Clinton street.

This was the weekly occasion of the week. The genial President and wife, greeted the hundreds of University friends, students and alumni, with the most generous hospitality.

Space will allow only the brief mention of the occasion which will long be remembered by each of the company.
