The Library.

Do you ever go into the library and wander about totally unable to find what you desire? We believe you have, at least some of you, have. Many who have spent the full twenty-five years here are convinced that they are perfectly pardonable ignorance on the part of the librarian for every book they want and the result is that they go out without any conclusions whatever to the subject of classification which are unread. The result is that they are frustrated in their use of books not because there is any difficulty whatever in finding them but because they are not impelled to consult other libraries.

We venture the assertion that not twenty-five undergraduate students in the university could, if asked by a stranger, give any idea whatever of the methods employed in the arrangement and classification employed in our library. And yet the plan is so simple and logical that there is no excuse whatever for this, as a memorandum glance at the plan will show.

In the book room beginning on the second floor, the title of the book is taken in regular order along the windows in Philosophy, Religion, Sociology, Economics and the Natural Sciences. The second tier contains the Useful Arts, and includes the Fine Arts and Literature. Here, too, is the only departure from the very simple plan; instead of, following the order in which they are numbered, the department of Fine Arts which is known as the "Walter H. Talbot Library" is placed against the east wall. The third and last tier is devoted to Fiction, Travel and Description, Biography and History. The shelves, around the room, being devoted to Periodicals Literature, are now shown to need no notice, as the old categories and other books of periodical reference.

For the benefit of those who desire more definite knowledge of the classification we reprint in an abridged from the Dewey "Decimal Classification" which is in the system followed throughout.

The Board of Regents.

The Executive Committee of the Board of Regents was in session yesterday. Plans for the expenditure of the buildings appropriation were discussed to report to the full Board. The House of delegates have ex-

100 Board of Regents
The Vidette-Reporter.

The new buildings provided for by the local voters in their appropriation law will undoubtedly be erected this summer. Of the two amounts granted, the $5,000 for the Housepeople Building will probably go further to meet the needs of that department than will the $8,000 for the Dental building, to meet the needs of the Dental school.

One of the serious questions to be answered, now that the buildings are assured, is where to put them. In determining this, the board of education has no limited view of the University’s future growth and should lead to a decision that may afterwards be regretted. It has been brought forward as an argument toward moving this institution to Des Moines, that here there is no room for development, no satisfactory sites for the erection of new buildings, nor space for a sufficient campus. The change is true only as the University authorities make it true. A wise policy and foresight will look to such an extension of the campus and a location of the buildings as will be convenient and appropriate not only to the present condition of the University, but also to its future growth.

If this calls for further coasts of land, well and good; but in any event it will necessitate a further building of the present campus.

Of the sites that are available for the two buildings at the present time, the square on which the Chemical building is located seems to be most suitable, and especially so because of convenience to the chemical laboratorv and the hospitals. There have been some propositions to locate the Dental building on the north side of the campus, opposite to and facing the Science hall. So long as we have such a limited area for a campus, and so long as the projects are so good for an inferior building, necessitated by the small appropriation, we hope these counsel will not prevail.

Base Ball.

The first regular game of the season will be played at the Hall Park, at 2:30 P. M., Saturday, An “All Cedar Rapids” team will make the University nine show its full playing qualities. There are many professional ball players in Cedar Rapids, and the visiting team will number a number of them. The best of the Cox talent will also participate.

This game will serve to indicate our chances against Grinnell on the following Saturday. The admission has been placed at twenty-five cents, which ought to secure a good attendance.

The conference which has been in session at the Columbia College for the purpose of organizing an Inter-Collegiate Debating Union concluded its deliberations on Thursday. The colleges represented were: Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Princeton, and the University of Pennsylvania.
