The Kirkwood Memorial.

In response to a call issued by the committee a meeting was held in Close Hall, last Wednesday evening, to consider the question of erecting the memorial to Gov. Kirkwood.

Judge Wright presided, and spoke of Kirkwood from the standpoint of a friend and co-laborer, expressing the belief that the plan would have the endorsement of Gov. Kirkwood himself if he were but present. Judge Wright emphasized the idea that a true memorial of such a man should be useful as well as commemorative.

The principal speech of the evening was made by Judge Wade, who sketched the life and services of the Governor, the plan by which it was proposed to commemorate his memory, and the probability of success. He expressed himself as confident of the ultimate success of the plan, and urged that an active campaign be begun.

Professor McBride spoke on behalf of the Faculty, President Schaeffer for the University, and Kinmonth, '95, for the students, endorsing the plan.

Professor Loos was then called upon and responded with a good discussion of the matter.

Captain Cree spoke from the soldier's standpoint, pledging their earnest support.

Contractor Jayne followed in the same line with definite suggestions as to organization and methods of procedure.

Max Mayer and Mr. Coast spoke from the business man's standpoint, and Editor Cook told how much had already been done and with how much favor the idea was being received throughout the state.

The meeting closed with the appointment of a local committee to get a definite idea of what Iowa City would do towards the movement. If last evening's meeting was any sign the Kirkwood Memorial will be an accomplished fact in two years.

Two of Our Honored Alumni.

Mention has already been made in these columns of the death of two of the alumni, in respect to whom some additional words seem appropriate.

Mr. James I. Gilbert came to the University from Burlington, September, 1880, entering the Sophomore class, and graduated in 1893. The next year he completed the Law course and then spent a year in the Columbia Law School. Returning to Burlington he entered upon the practice of his profession as an associate of Thomas Hedges, Esq. About ten years ago he went to Duluth, Minn., and soon after married his classmate Lidia H. Lewis, daughter of Mayor Lewis of this city. These years of happy home life and professional activity with so much of promise for the future have been rudely ended by death unlooked for and premature. Those who knew him well as a student remember him as a good scholar and a young man of excellent character, genial temper, and pleasing manners, and so take it as a matter of course that he won troops of friends in after life as he did among his University associates.

Rev. Dennis Murphy, of the class of 1874, was an ordained minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and had served in the army as chaplain before he entered upon his University course. As a student he won the respect and esteem of his instructors and classmates by his scholarship and by the sterling qualities of his character. Through his fine sense of propriety, he never failed to maintain the dignity suitable to his age and his clerical position, while yet feeling and showing full comradeship with his fellow students, so far removed from him in age and the practical experience of life. All this applies with equal truth to Mrs. Murphy, who carried on her studies at the same time and graduated with him as the valedictorian of the class. After leaving the University he held important pastorates in Muscatine, Oskaloosa, Ottumwa, Keokuk and other places, showing great ability and winning success. He was an enthusiastic friend and supporter of the University, and at least on one public occasion made an earnest and forcible defense of his Alma Mater when bitterly attacked as irreligious and unworthy of Christian patronage and support. In a visit here a few weeks ago he testified to his continued affection for the University, and hoped to be a frequent visitor on occasions of interest. His end came suddenly, and as he would have chosen, in the midst of abundant labor.

A. N. CURRIER.

Irving.

"Hear ye, hear ye, the District Court of Johnson county is now in session," greeted the audience which assembled in Irving Hall last evening. The occasion was the mock trial of the Freshman class, in which damages were sued for by Irving Institute. Mr. Hendricks presided as judge, Mr. Dakin as clerk, Mr. Patterson as reporter, and after a few minor cases had been disposed of, the case in question was called, and the jury sworn in. This august body consisted of President Schaeffer, Professors Wilcox, Andrews, Veblen and Hale impersonated respectively by Messrs. Davis, Toll, Petersburg, E. C. Smith and Allen. The "make-up" of these gentlemen, and the manner in which they assumed the characters, was one of the most interesting and amusing parts of the program.

The prosecution in opening the case called as witnesses Leamen, C. E. Wood, Rogers, and "Jimmie." Mr. Thompkins, as cross-examiner for the prosecution, conducted the case exceedingly well, and skillfully brought out the testimony of these witnesses. The character of "Jimmie," impersonated by Chas Bowman, was perhaps the most interesting part of the program. Seldom, indeed, has an Iowa City audience been treated to a more true and amusing impersonation. Mr. Bowman is as much at home on the stage as he is in the laboratory.

At the conclusion of "Jimmie's" testimony the prosecution rested, and C. S. Aldrich, for the defense, called Miss Connor and Mr. Swisher. The position of the defendant was clearly brought out through these witnesses, after which defense rested.

Mr. Briggs then opened the argument for the plaintiff and clearly and concisely showed their position. He was followed by Mr. Shorett, in an eloquent and entertaining plea for the defense. Mr. Frailey, third attorney for defendant, then closed their argument in his usual convincing and forcible style. The plaintiff's argument was then resumed by Mr. Lawrence, who presented the case in the most professional manner of any of the speakers. The jury were then instructed and retired, returning shortly and rendering a verdict for the defendant. Sheriff I. N. Van Nice, in stentorian tone, then adjourned the court.

Too much cannot be said in favor of such special programs. They help the society that gives them, the individuals that take part in them, and are interesting to the audience. Each member who appeared on the program last evening deserves commendation for the careful way in which his part was prepared. It was one of the best Irving entertainments of the year.

Zetagathian.

The audience in the south hall was somewhat smaller than usual, probably due to the special program in Irving Hall.

A piano solo, well rendered, opened the program. It was an excellent performance and was heartily encored.

Mr. Keefe followed with a declamation entitled "Thisbe." The selection, which is one of the common sort, was rendered in a very funny manner. The romantic appearance, and the lamentable fate of the heroine and her young man, were related in the most appropriate style.

Mr. McAlvin next delivered a speech on the "Philosophy of History." He pointed out some defects now prevalent in historical instruction in our common schools, and followed by showing that that which is really important is often neglected. The teaching of history is applied to the solution of present problems and adopted as a rule for guidance in the future would be eminently beneficial. Mr. McAlvin is a deliberate and careful speaker. The general effect of his manner and presence is most pleasing. He does not lack for words to express his ideas, and what is somewhat more important he has no lack of ideas to convey themselves in words.

The question discussed was "Resolved, that the signs of the times indicate the downfall of the Republic."

Mr. Kehoe opened for the affirmative, urging the differing and antagonizing interests of sections as a main cause of republican weakness. He was answered by Mr. Burge, who took a more hopeful view of things, claiming the influence of christianity and education would solve existing problems and prevent future ones.

Mr. McKinley closed for the affirmative, substantially affirming the evil tendencies which at present are menacing to the Republic. The speaker found occasion to quote the VIDETTE on some important but not as directly affirming the perilous condition of the government.

Mr. Brockway closed the debate in a very pointed argument, showing how the various matters which had been referred to by the affirmative had been misinterpreted. The debate was decided in favor of the negative.

"Tallyrand and the Americans" was delivered by Mr. Ralph Dunlap. More than once before we have found occasion to compliment Mr. Dunlap on his excellent work, especially in declaiming. The dramatic effect of this effort we think was greater than that of any former occasion.

The rest of the program consisted of three minute speeches by Farwell, Van Law and Merriam. All were good.

College Notes.

There are 119 elective courses open to seniors and juniors at Yale.

One hour a week of debating is required each Amherst senior.

Prizes, representing the income of $6,000, have been offered to those who excel in oratorical exercises of the Senior class at Princeton.

Arthur McDodge, of New York, Yale '54, has presented the Yale Gymnastic Association with three valuable silver loving cups to be given to the college champion in the side horse, the flying rings, and the parallel bars. These prizes will be contested for at the next meeting of the Gymnastic Association.

Yale Gymnastic Association has received from J. E. Heaton, of New Haven, a silver plaque which will be given to the winner of the title of "college gymnast" at the close of the season. The sum of one hundred dollars has been given toward the starting of a gymnastic library.

The proposition of the University of California for a track athletic meeting with the University of Pennsylvania has been accepted. June 8 was suggested as the date for the games, but as that day comes in the middle of Pennsylvania's commencement week, a new one will be selected. The University of California has also applied for admission to the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, and, if admitted, will take part in the intercollegiate meeting of May 26.

A series of weekly indoor athletic meets has been arranged for at the University of Wisconsin. The program includes the following events: 40 yard dash, putting 16 pound shot, standing broad jump, 45 yard high hurdle, hitch and kick, mile run and 1 1/2 mile walk.

At a recent meeting of the Yale football authorities, it seemed to be the prevailing opinion that Yale should not interfere with the game. They claimed that Yale had been unduly charged with violence at the Springfield contest, and that to interfere with the game now would virtually be an admission of the accusation.

At a mass meeting of Princeton undergraduates recently it was voted that the freshman should hereafter have no voice in the election of officers for the various athletic associations. This action was taken by advice of the graduate advisory and executive committee of Princeton.

THE VIDETTE REPORTER,
Iowa City, Iowa.

Entered at the Iowa City Post Office as second class matter.

Now that the military ball is to be given all that remains in order to make it a success is for every member of the battalion to give it his support. This will be a new feature in the social events of the University, and it certainly will be a pleasant one. It is to be hoped that one hundred and fifty at least will subscribe their names when the opportunity comes. The success of the party will depend largely upon the number who attend as it is proposed to charge the members but one dollar and make the party as elaborate as the proceeds will allow. All persons who are at present or who ever have been members of the battalion have the privilege of attending. It is hoped that every one will co-operate with those having the matter in charge, and endeavor to make it a brilliant affair.

The meeting held at Close Hall the other evening to discuss the Kirkwood Memorial Building proved two things; first, the building is going to be built, and second, the citizens of Iowa City are going to take the initiative in the movement with a liberal contribution. The citizens who were at this meeting were representative men of the city, and the deep interest which they manifested in this project is conclusive evidence that it is their intention to make this building such that it will not only be something which the people of this city can take pride in, but the people of the entire state can justly feel that they have rightly honored their old war governor. The University is rapidly becoming the focal point of interest in Iowa City, and as the years go by and new buildings become erected and the enrollment is increased, this town will be known all over the United States, while many another town, although larger in population, will be spoken of scarcely outside the borders of its own state. The people of this county are wise enough to see what a stimulant a great University must necessarily be to a locality, and they are not going to hesitate to improve it whenever the opportunity presents itself.

English History Seminary.

Last week H. G. Plum read a paper the analysis of which we give below, on "Feudalism in England Before the Conquest":

- I. There was no feudal system in England before 1066.
 - A. Introduction.
 1. The elements of feudalism.
 2. Manner of development.
 - B. Elements present in England before 1066.
 1. Personal obligation.
 2. Commendation.
 3. The System of land tenure.
 4. Grants of judicial immunity.
 5. Military service.
 6. The so-called feudal incidents.
 - C. Why these elements did not constitute a feudal system.
 1. The Roman element was absent.
 2. The power of the Eng. Witau was too great.
 - a. By making public law predominant.
 - b. By curtailing the powers of the King.
 3. The Elements were not combined.
- II. The Feudal System would have developed without the aid of the Normans.
 1. It was a necessity—the idea dominated the period.
 2. The Roman Element so-called is present in 1066.
 - a. In grants of land.
 - b. In establishment of private courts.
 3. The growth of the King's power is observed.
 4. The steady development must have resulted in a Feudal System.

In addition to the race with Pennsylvania, Harvard will run a relay race against the B. A. A. at the games on February 9.

A class composed of members of the Yale Faculty meets every morning in the gymnasium.

Cornell will turn out two crews next spring, one to attend the Hanley regatta, and the other to row the U. of P. in the annual race.

This year for the first time there will be open handicap games at Yale.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Some kind hearted individual exercised his ingenious proclivities by removing the canvas sign which advertised Max O'Rell's lecture, on the postoffice corner, and placing it in the north end of town. We cannot give him credit for a very large amount of knowledge if he supposed for one moment that there was an individual in this town who was not aware that that popular lecturer would appear in the Opera House this evening. He is to be commended, however, for his attempts to do some good, even though his extreme ignorance did cause him some physical exertion.

"The Amish Men"

The State Historical Society has just published a neat monograph containing a sketch of the Amish and their settlement together with an appendix containing their creed. The author is Bartholomew A. M., '93, former Fellow in the University of Iowa. He traces very carefully the history of this people, many of whom formed some of the best of this county. The word Amish takes its origin from Amnon, who proclaimed as his principle that the Christian had no right to defend a creed. The Mennonites, however, founded their creed on the peace that the Christian should not take up arms. The Mennonites first made its appearance in the Piedmont, and developed into a creed in the early followers of Amnon came from the Anabaptists, a very prominent religious sect in the Netherlands during the 16th century. The Anabaptists passed on their names in different parts of the world, but the principle, however, was the same. They denied the doctrine of infant baptism, imitated the Apostles in their bare-foot, held gloomy views of the future judgment, etc., which the Anabaptists carried on the reform of their existence as a discipline of a short duration. The word "Mennonite" designate, not the individual, but the religious community, an eminent expounder of the Amish faith. Menno Simon, a village in Freisland, frequently he was contented with Luther, Melancthon, and other noted reformers. Menno Simon renounced the church, and in 1536, eight persecuted followed the first society which came known as the Mennonites. The history of the preceding years is one of the most interesting. In 1632 a synod of this society was held at Dort and adopted a creed which since that time has been recognized as the creed of the church. The Amish or Amis were founded by Jacob Amman, a Swiss, who later settled in Alsace. Amman's followers were reverently spoken of as Amish because they wore hock boots instead of their shoes. At some time previous to the confession of 1632 had Amman adhered to, but with Amman he made it his duty to strictly enforce this principle. Amman, although an intellectual person was, nevertheless, of men. Since the first Mennonite church developed a number of Amish, all of them look upon Amman as the founder of their faith. The Amish being only in regard to their retention of Amish. Their creed has
