COMMENCEMENT.

Thirteenth Annual Commencement of the Dental Department.

Commencement exercises never fail to attract large audiences, and the Dental Commencement, Monday evening, was no exception to the rule. The Dental class of '95 has won many warm friends in the University and city during their three years' stay here, as indicated by the large audience which came out to witness them take the degree which was to start them in life.

The exercises of the evening were opened with music by the class orchestra composed of Miss McCoy, and Messrs. Palmer, Ruggles, Hyatt, Keams, Alexander and Tomy. After the invocation by Rev. Chas. Brown, F. J. Ruggles gave one of his excellent vocal solos. The male quartette composed of Tomy and Ruggles, tenors, and Palmer and Lawyer basses, then captured the audience by rendering "Samantha's Holler Tooth."

The annual address was delivered by Professor C. S. Chase, A. M., M. D., on the theme "Good Citizenship." The entire address abounded in good advice to the class. During the course of his remarks the speaker took occasion to urge the members of the class to appreciate the opportunities and advantages which had been afforded them here, especially during the latter part of this year, in the way of a new building, equipments, etc. The speaker did not allow the opportunity to escape to make a few praiseworthy remarks in honor of Dr. Kulp, the late professor in the Dental Department. Good citizenship, the speaker said, is the basis of all good government, and if we expect to overcome the evil tendencies of our time we must train ourselves for the best citizenship.

The address was followed by a vocal solo by J. I. Tomy. Mr. Tomy's musical talent has displayed itself on many former occasions, and the hearty encore which he received showed how well the audience appreciated his music.

The next on the program, as announced by Dr. Hunt, was a "new song," "Soloman and Levi." The class possesses not a little musical ability, and the manner in which they rendered this old song did make it sound "new."

After the conferring of degrees by President Schaeffer, the class song was sung, the words of which had been prepared by J. I. Tomy. This closed the exercises at the Opera House, and the Thirteenth Annual Dental Commencement was at an end.

THE BANQUET.

Immediately after the exercises at the Opera House the professors and students of the department and their numerous friends betook themselves to Smith's armory where the annual banquet was held. The Dental Faculty and the students never fail to make this banquet one of the leading social events of the year, and the one given this year sustained their reputation in every way. From ten o'clock until a late hour the merry dancers enjoyed themselves to the music of "Spe's" orchestra. An elegant banquet was served during the evening, and the pleasant manner in which everything passed off will make it an event long to be remembered by those present. The members of the class did all in their power to make it a pleasant evening for their guests, and they didn't fail in the least.

The following is a list of graduates: J. E. Alexander, Mrs. W. J. Addenbrooke, W. J. Addenbrooke, Grant Bruner, C. C. Colby, H. M. Eaton, G. H. Edgington, R. C. Grimm, F. E. Hart, F. B. Hyatt, H. R. Hitchins, P. H. Jones, W. L. Lamb, L. G. Lawyer, I. S. Mahin, M. B. McCabe, Martha S. McCoy, J. A. McErlain, C. E. Palmer, A. O. Petersen, E. A. Phillips, F. J. Ruggles, J. I. Tomy, C. M. Work, B. E. Wright.

Homeopathic Commencement.

The eighteenth annual commencement of the Homeopathic Medical Department was held in the Opera House last Tuesday evening. The house was well filled, and at 8 o'clock to the music of the S. U. I. Band, the graduates filed across the stage to their seats in the parquette, while the Faculty and other dignitaries took their seats on the stage. Dr. Bullock then opened the exercises with a fitting invocation.

The next number was music, "Evening Song," by the Harmonic Quartette.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. S. N. Watson, D. D., M. D., on "The Ethics of the Profession." The subject was certainly well chosen, being both interesting to a general audience, and yet of special interest to the class. After showing that the same code of morals must apply to the physician as to all other men, the speaker went on to show the special heinousness of an immoral life by the physician, and the special honor that would come to a well lived professional life. The whole production was an honor to both the profession represented and the speaker.

The next number was another selection by the Harmonic Quartette, which well merited the hearty encore it received.

Following this the degree of Doctor of Medicine was conferred by President Schaeffer on the following graduates: B. G. Barlow, Minnie J. Bohstedt, D. A. Fletcher, R. H. Gray, Alice M. Humphrey, W. R. Kennedy, Caroline Mills, Flora C. Moss, F. L. Nichols, E. E. Richardson, O. Robertson, M. D., W. O. Seeman, Luella Z. Shaw, M. H. Smith, Ella G. Wolverton.

Nurses diplomas were also granted to Harriet M. Smiley and Emma M. Wyckoff.

After the benediction by Rev. Bullock the crowd dispersed, while the new doctors received the congratulations of Faculty and friends.

Irving.

An unusually large audience filled Irving hall Friday evening. The program was opened by a declamation by W. E. Hutchinson, entitled "Eloquence in a Western Court." Mr.

Hutchinson rendered this humorous declamation in a very pleasing manner, and quite sustained the reputation of the Irving Freshmen.

This was followed by a speech, "David B. Hill," by Mr. Cunningham. The production was one of the most entertaining, clear and logical speeches heard in the society this year.

The debate, "Resolved, that the refusal of employees to treat with labor unions, as such, is detrimental to the interests of both," was opened by F. W. Brown for the affirmative. This was Mr. Brown's first appearance, and he conducted his debate in a most masterly manner. He showed the benefits of trades unions, and that they were the recognized orders of labor. The employer, in striving to further his own interests, tends to become tyrannical, and to degrade the laborer's manhood and independence; therefore the only manner in which employer and employee can treat is by arbitration. But for the benefit of both parties it is necessary that labor be organized or there can be no arbitration.

The negative was opened by Mr. Gibbs. This gentleman held that arbitration was the only means of settling difficulties between master and man. The employed and employer are parties to a contract, and it is impossible for them to treat with each other, to the advantage of both, without the aid of a third party. The labor leaders are often selfish and corrupt men, not having the interests of the laborer at heart. Such men in treating with the employer do not work for the best interests of labor. The party acting between employer and employed must be entirely free from an interest in either, and this can only be accomplished by compulsory arbitration.

Mr. Allen, in closing for the affirmative, emphasized the point made by his colleague, that individual labor cannot oppose a strong corporation. The employer would go first to the laborer and not to an arbitration commission, so that the laborer has the same right to go first to the employer, and to treat with him directly. The party who is in the wrong and refuses to right it, is injured as much as is the other party. The employer who refuses to treat with organized labor not only pursues an unjust course towards it, but causes loss and destruction to himself and his property, as has been shown in all recent labor troubles.

The last speaker on the negative, Mr. Prichett, held that if the refusal to treat with labor unions on the part of the employer was detrimental only to the laborer, that the question was not covered; it must also be detrimental to the employer. As the question is stated, whatever action the employer takes must be to his own interest. If he is in the right there is no reason why he should heed the demands of labor; if he is in the wrong, and it would not benefit him to treat with the union, he is still furthering his own interests by refusing to do so. When the employer is conducting his business at a loss to himself, it is not to his interest or is it just that he should be obliged to treat with labor organizations. The debate was decided for the affirmative.

Mr. Johnson closed the program with a declamation, "Culture on Bitter Creek." This was one of the finest declamations delivered in Irving this year.

The following officers were elected for the Spring term: Pres., J. W. Seaman; Vice-Pres., C. Weidner; Rec. Sec., Geo. Johnson; Cor. Sec., L. A. Swisher; Treas., S. D. Whiting; June Orator, C. E. Dakin. After the election the society adjourned to Burke's where speech making and oysters were indulged in.

The International Track Athletic Contest.

Pennsylvania's proposition passed by the Intercollegiate Athletic Association at its last meeting, in favor of sending a team composed of the winners of the different events at the Mott Haven games to England to compete with the representatives of Oxford and Cambridge, has been the topic of absorbing interest at Pennsylvania for some time past. It is needless to say that the students of this University are cordially in sympathy with the scheme, and stand ready to give it their united support. It is felt on all sides that in a country as large as ours, with so many prominent colleges and universities, each containing scores of good athletes, and almost each one having some one or two men who stand first in their respective events—under such circumstances it is felt that no one institution can lay any just claim to the right to represent this country in any department of athletics. Last year Yale sent a team in which Hickok and Cody were the only champions, and although they made a close and plucky fight still they were beaten. A team composed, however, of the winners of the Mott Haven events could be fairly said to represent America in Track Athletics; it would be in fact, as well as in name, an All-American team, and if a meeting with the representatives of Oxford and Cambridge could be arranged, a good opportunity would be afforded of judging between the English universities and those of this country, in the matter of track athletics. Yale's opposition to the measure seems unreasonable, and it is difficult to find any good reason why the plan submitted by Pennsylvania's representatives should not be carried out. At present the outlook for the success of the proposition is very bright. Supposing even that Yale should refuse to allow her men to go on the team, and it is unlikely that she will be so foolish, yet it is doubtful if this action would materially affect the success of the team. Hickok is the only man at Yale who can be counted on with any certainty to win an event at Mott Haven, and though his absence might somewhat weaken the team, still Patterson, of Cornell, can throw the hammer farther than any English collegian known to the college world at present, while Knipe, of Pennsylvania, is probably as good at the weights as Oxford's or Cambridge's best man.—The Pennsylvanian.

Athletics.

Walter Camp, Secretary of the Intercollegiate Foot Ball Advisory Committee, said recently that at the annual meeting of the advisory committee held in New York lately, it was voted to make vigorous changes in rules for the coming season. The details have not been decided upon, but it is understood that a series of meetings similar to those held last year under the auspices of the University Club of New York will take place. Messrs. Camp and Alexander, representing respectively Yale and Princeton, the two remaining colleges in the Intercollegiate Association, have formulated a letter which will be sent to the various captains of teams in the country, asking them to meet the committee at an adjourned meeting which will be held in two weeks. The committee have secured the opinions of Captains Thorne of Yale, Brewer of Harvard, Lea of Princeton, Williams of Pennsylvania, and seek others.—Ex.

Medical Commence

The commencement exercises of the Medical and Pharmaceutical Departments, which were held at the House Wednesday evening, closed with the last graduating exercises.

The program of the evening was opened with a selection of music by the University Band, after which a prayer was offered by Rev. E. N. Baker. After the band had rendered a selection the address of the evening was given in behalf of the Faculty, by Hon. J. H. Trevin, of La Porte, on the subject, "Some of the Relations and Obligations of the Physician." The speaker mentioned the advantages which an education would be to a physician, but it is possible for a person to receive a course in both professional and graduate must immediately attention to reaching a position in his profession. ing a living. No doctor, however, can hope to succeed without a knowledge of the laws governing the practice. He also discussed the legal relations between the physician and his patient. He urged those who expect to practice medicine to deal with their patients in a business-like manner, prompt in collections, and to render gratuitous service to the poor, as people soon come to realize that anything which is free of value. Never assume knowledge that you do not possess. If a person is not competent to treat a patient, should recommend another. A doctor should be listened to throughout and it contains valuable advice for those just starting out in the profession. The following persons were called upon the stage to receive their degrees:
