A Lamented Scholar Honored.

The bronze bust of the late Chancellor Hammond—in former years the head of the Law Department of the State University of Iowa—has arrived and holds a place of honor in the Law Department Library. It is the gift of alumni and is a most faithful reproduction of the master of law whom it honors.

It surmounts the handsome cases, (placed there by the University) where in rests the Chancellor's magnificent collection of books, lovingly bequeathed to the Law Department. These books are exceedingly old and rare, and many of them could not be duplicated even by the expenditure of a fortune. The list includes such works as all the first editions of Blackstone's Commentaries from 1765, and all issued in England, Ireland and America during his life. There, too, are the original year books—records of the King's Court—a complete set of 11 volumes and a reprint thereof in modern English. The set of the Statutes of Parliament from the Magna Charta down is also there. Civil law volumes bearing the date of 1614 show wonderfully well preserved vellum and parchment binding. General jurisprudence and miscellaneous themes are treated in many volumes—and the whole collection, with its manifold subjects and tongues, is invaluable to students of law, literature, history and political science. Librarian Noble has in press an elaborate catalogue of the superb collection.

In a sense the University owes the gift to the law school of St. Louis. While Chancellor Hammond had fully intended to bequeath the collection to the Iowa institution he loved so well, he had not altered his will, which had devised the library to the St. Louis school. Learning from the lamented chancellor's wife that her husband had considered the books would undoubtedly go to the Iowa University, the authorities of the St. Louis institution yielded their rights under the will and the law, in the name of the honored scholar who could speak no more of his wishes.—Republican.

Irving Declamatory Contest.

Wednesday evening occurred the annual declamatory contest of Irving Institute. J. F. Hutchinson presided, and music was furnished throughout the evening by the Mandolin Club.

The first speaker, I. W. Baker, declaimed the "Death of Sikes." Mr. Baker made a fine appearance and had his voice well under control. Furthermore the speaker was fortunate in selection and held the closest attention of the audience throughout.

"Abner Barrow's Plea," was next delivered by W. C. Keeler. This selection is a difficult one from its oratorical nature. Mr. Keeler succeeded well in his attempt. His facial expression was fine, his gestures graceful and expressive, while his enunciation was almost perfect.

Mr. S. A. Colgren was unfortunately unable to appear.

G. M. Johnson next declaimed "The Last Charge of Ney." Mr. Johnson has established for himself an enviable reputation as a declaimer. He did not do as well as usual, due, no doubt, to his selection. There was hardly enough vim put into his delivery, although he was perfectly at ease on the platform, and his gestures were quite good.

"The Fall of Cardinal Wolsey," delivered by C. H. Stemple, followed. In this dramatic selection Mr. Stemple was enabled to use his fine voice to excellent advantage. His carriage was graceful and his expression quite good. Mr. Stemple won the Irving medal last year.

The last declamation, "Sergius to the Lion," was delivered by S. D. Whiting. The speaker did well throughout, but his rendering of the impassioned parts of his selection was especially fine. This declamation was excellent in every respect.

The judges, Judge Ney, Mr. Beardsley and Mr. Merriam, awarded first honors to Mr. Baker, second to Mr. Whiting, while Messrs. Keeler and Stemple tied for third place. Mr. Baker thus carries off his second gold medal from Irving Institute, he having won the declamatory contest in the spring of '93.

Too much credit cannot be given Irving for the carrying out of this program. Irving is the only one of the literary societies which has such a contest as an established custom. This annual program is looked forward to by the members of Irving each year and is one of the prime factors in the production of so many fine declaimers in Irving's ranks.

A Debate with Chicago.

It gives us great pleasure to announce to our readers that arrangements have finally been completed for a debate between our local debating union and representatives from Chicago University.

During the oratorical contest held here some time ago Chicago's delegates were approached upon the matter of an annual debate, and they immediately signified their willingness to enter into some arrangement whereby a literary contest of this kind could be provided for. Upon their return to Chicago they placed the matter before their local association and our proposition was accepted. About two weeks ago Secretary Moon received a letter from Chicago to this effect: the letter also contained a statement of the conditions upon which they would debate with our representatives; these were, that the debate be held during the fall term of next year in Iowa City, and that the question be submitted by our debaters before June 3. These conditions were satisfactory to our league, and the debate is now an assured thing.

The question submitted was as follows: "Resolved, that any further territorial extension of the United States is undesirable." Preparations for the local preliminary contest have also been completed. The Zets have chosen as their preliminary debaters Messrs. Moon, Hanson and Plum; the Irvings, Messrs. Dewell, Shorett and Keeler; these men will contest for places on the final debate early in the fall term.

Freshman Girls' Declamatory Contest.

The annual declamatory contest of the Freshman girls will be held this evening at the Opera House. This contest is held under the auspices of Mrs. P. K. Partridge, instructor in Elocution, who also offers a prize to the successful contestant.

The competitors and their selections are as follows:

Daisie Kimball, "The Lion Hunt."
Minnie Pile, "Not Lost."
Bertha Remley, "Gazelle and Swan."
Margaret Reynolds, "Hagar."
Adelaide Lasheck, "In the Judgment Hall of Pontias Pilate."
Lola Ozias, "Art and Woman."
Charlotte Hartley, "Helen's Dower."
Pantomime—"Art will have no Rival."

The judges selected are Mrs. E. N. Barrett, Mrs. F. E. Brush, Mrs. C. E. Perkins, with Miss Emma Davis as referee.

Communication.

TO THE EDITOR:—

Within the past week certain events have occurred in our athletic circles that are indeed highly deplorable and which should call forth the indignation of every friend of our University institutions.

In the election of certain athletic officials practices have been indulged in that bear strongly the stamp of the ward "heeler," and which belong to individuals of that ilk rather than to honest, fair-minded and intelligent students. How much longer must these things be tolerated? Is there no governing board, no advisory committee, to oversee our organizations and to give them a thorough shaking up when there is need of it? Are there not enough honest, public spirited students and professors in our institution to take an interest in the management of athletics sufficient to rid our association forever of rings, cliques, and their reproachable methods? This is not the only occasion within the past year that doubtful means have been used to secure the election of certain individuals to positions of much honor and trust, and if such methods are permitted to continue in the future, a speedy downfall of athletics can be predicted. The student body of the University and citizens of Iowa City will not support our associations if a thorough reform is not instituted. Contemptible as are the ways of the ringster and machine-man in public politics, even more so are they when brought within college walls. We cannot afford to permit a repetition of these events; we have entirely too much at stake. We want to make a successful canvass for our athletic park, and to put in the field athletic teams which every man in our University can conscientiously support. To secure these things our athletic association in all its departments must be honestly and fairly managed; it must be placed entirely above reproach before it will ever receive the unanimous support of citizens, alumni and students.

These words have not been prompted by any spirit of jealousy, but they are intended to bring important matters before the University public for agitation with the hope that prompt action may be taken to check many evils that have slowly crept in during the past few years.

The Scarlet and Black in Wednesday's issue says:

"Every man who has anything to do with the management of athletics away from home should see to it that we are entered as Grinnell College, otherwise, as we have abundantly experienced, the credit of our victories go to the State University as persistently as their defeats are credited to us. Nor should sentimental reasons keep the proper authorities from officially changing the name of the college, when proper credit for our victories means doubtless an increased attendance for the college."

In response to this we would say that we, too, favor some action of this kind; it happens that the evil spoken of often works the other way also.

The Alumni Association.

The attention of University people is called to the meetings of the Alumni Association. It is earnestly hoped that all graduates will make it a point to join the Association. Membership tickets cost one dollar, and entitles the holder to a banquet ticket. The program promises to be unusually good, and the music will be an attraction.

Seniors Attention.

The Senior class of the Collegiate Department will meet at Close Hall at the following hours:

Sunday, June 9th, 3:45 p. m.

Monday, June 10th, 8 a. m.

Monday, June 10th, 1:45 p. m.

Monday, June 10th, 7:45 p. m.

Wednesday, June 12th, 9:30 a. m.

Thursday, June 13th, 9:45 a. m.

Tuesday the class will meet at the Opera House at 9 a. m.

Notice.

At a meeting of the Advisory Athletic Committee, held on June 5th, the secretary was instructed to publish in the college papers a notice to the effect that the foot ball team will not be recognized by said committee until the finances of the team shall have been put upon a satisfactory basis.

Notice.

There will be a meeting of the VIDETTE Board Monday at 12:45 p. m.

The University has recently issued a neat "Admission Circular," a pamphlet of about 16 pages. It is intended as a general answer to the many requests that are made for advice as to the most profitable arrangements of high school courses so that they may properly prepare students for the University. It contains general suggestions as to methods of teaching, and the subjects to be taken up, and will undoubtedly prove of value to those seeking information of this kind.

THE VIDETTE REPORTER,
Iowa City, Iowa.

On next Wednesday evening will occur the annual commencement hop. The affair promises to be a brilliant social event in every way. Neat invitations have been sent out by the Committee, Messrs Jno. Hull, Web Mason and Will Powell, and undoubtedly a large number will be present. The committee consists of young men who have been leaders in every public social event of the University, and they will spare no efforts to make this a social affair which will be looked back to as a source of great pleasure by the students. The committee has found it impossible to reach all with their invitations, but all alumni who chance to be in the city are cordially invited and can secure their tickets from any member of the committee.

Before delivering the reins of authority to his successor,—Mr. W. T. Evans,—the present Business Manager desires to express his thanks, and those of the Board of Editors, also, to the business men of Iowa City who have so loyally supported our publication this year. In his solicitation of advertisements, the manager was in nearly instance very courteously received and given a hearty encouragement. Only through the support of the business men are the University papers made a possibility, and in return for their liberality, they deserve not words of thanks only, but more substantial remuneration in the way of the patronage of our entire student body.

In his management of the paper the Business Manager has attempted to repay this liberality by giving a first class advertising service; whether he has succeeded or not, the fact remains that his intentions have been right and his efforts properly directed at least. For the incoming manager he would ask a continuation of this loyal support, firmly believing that the paper will fully deserve it during the coming year.

In another column of the paper appears a communication whose statements, if true, reveal a state of affairs in our University athletic circles that is indeed "highly deplorable." The author of the article in question brings a charge against certain members of one of our athletic teams that is so serious in its nature that it should be given a thorough investigation at once. The time has come when our students and faculty must take a firm stand against all dishonorable and doubtful practices in athletics. We cannot afford to permit the original object of our athletic association to become so prostituted that it shall merely further the selfish interests of a few individuals. Men must be chosen to officer our teams only because they are especially fitted in every way to do it; men must be given membership on teams only because their athletic ability and their general record for scholarship, gentlemanliness, etc., entitle them to such membership. We need a higher standard in athletics; a standard that will guarantee us teams that are thoroughly representative of the University, and which will deserve the conscientious and unanimous support of students, alumni and citizens. Too largely have we overlooked or winked at methods that are not entirely honorable, and in so far we are responsible for evils that may have crept in. In the future, however, let us be more vigilant, let students and faculty unite in the common labor of purging athletics of everything that is undesirable and dishonorable. Purity must be the standard or else our association must fail in its object sooner or later.

Miss Georgia North, of the Law department, left for North Dakota yesterday, called away by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Ada North, the ex-Librarian.
