The University and the Legislature.

The following is clipped from Saturday's Daily Republican:

"The University has almost reached the 1,200 mark this early in the season. Just how our next Legislature is going to avoid a large appropriation if it expects the University to continue is more than we can see. The Medical Department is demanding a hospital and there is absolutely no way of avoiding this necessity. The need of a Collegiate building is becoming more apparent each year, and at present they are forced to rent rooms in the business part of the city in order to accommodate the students. The library and museum are not only crowded far beyond their capacity, but the valuable collections are allowed to remain in buildings which are not proof against fire. The Legislature certainly cannot fail to realize the great risk which it is allowing these results of years of faithful toil and study to be exposed. Had past Legislatures been so liberal as they should have been in making appropriations the coming general assembly would not be confronted with such a large demand. Taking the situation as it is, however, there seems to be no way to avoid a large outlay of money for the University if the people of the state expect it to prosper as the universities of other states are doing, and as the increased attendance each year assures us that it will if properly cared for."

The Yale and Harvard Difficulty.

In regard to the now definite cessation of athletic contests between Harvard and Yale it will first be necessary to go into some history of events which have occurred in reference to this subject.

As is well known by all, Captain Brewer met Captain Thorne, of Yale, for some discussion of the apparent breach between the two universities. Thorne's letter to Brewer and the answer to this, by Professor Ames have been already published. But what followed in the course of events has not until now been generally known.

On May 30, about thirty prominent Harvard graduates and influential undergraduates met in Boston and came to the almost unanimous opinion that the issue was not of foot ball alone, but of the general athletic relations between Harvard and Yale; that if a break occurred in the foot ball contests, there must also be a break—for a while, at least—in all contests between the two colleges. As one man expressed it not long ago, "If Mr. A. is unwilling to breakfast with Mr. B., it is hardly to be expected Mr. B. will think it becoming for him to lunch and dine with Mr. A."

On the first of June, during the first Harvard-Yale base ball game, Professor Ames of Harvard met Adeo of Yale, and Professor Ames gave to Adeo a full account of the meeting in Boston, which has been mentioned, and reiterated the Harvard sentiment on the subject, intimating at the same time that if Yale dropped the matter of Thorne's letter and invited Harvard to play in foot ball or all games, either for one year or for a term of years, Harvard would accept without a murmur. Mr. Adeo seems to have agreed with this project and to have seen the good sense which prompted it, but his efforts at New Haven have evidently met with great resistance.

No advances were made by Yale during the summer which brought any good results. But, on September 1, Mr. Alfred Cowles, Yale '86, met Professor Ames at Castine, Me., where the latter was spending the summer. Mr. Cowles was told that Harvard's attitude had remained the same as at the interview with Adeo. Professor Ames added, however, that Harvard had reserved Nov. 9 as a date for a possible game with Yale, and that it was impossible for Harvard to wait for Yale after October 5, a week after Yale opened. If no invitation was then received from Yale, Harvard would consider it as meaning a cessation in athletics to last for two or three more years.

No word was received from New Haven until October 1, when Mr. Phillip Stewart, of Yale came to Cambridge with two documents. The exact contents of these letters will not be given out, but they amounted to this: One letter was from Captain Thorne to Captain Brewer, expressing virtually the same sentiments expressed in the first memorable letter from Thorne; the other was a framed reply to be sent by Captain Brewer, to Yale, apologizing, or nearly the same thing, for the utterances of Mr. Brooks, Harvard's coach last year. This advance was, of course, immediately declined.

Two days later, F. W. Moore, the graduate manager, received a letter from the Yale base ball manager, asking if Harvard was willing to play the ball games as usual next spring. Mr. Moore replied at once that all depended on the outcome of the foot ball situation.

And here the matter has ended. There will be absolutely no athletic contests between the universities for two or more years.—Harvard News.

An Expert's Opinion.

The game Saturday showed at least one thing: that the coaching of one of S. U. I.'s own students has been far superior this year than the paid services of outsiders in previous years.

After the game, one of the VIDETTE-REPORTER representatives had the pleasure of interviewing the coach, Mr. Wm. Larrabee, in regard to the individual playing of the members of the team. The interview was strictly entre nous, but we have taken the liberty of imparting to others in this way the information gained by conversation with a close observer.

Speaking of Iverson at center, he said: "I have nothing but praise for his work. His 'snapping back' was superb. He broke through the line repeatedly, making excellent tackles, and is a man that can be relied upon to follow the ball."

"The work of Leighton at right guard was very good. He was continually watching the work of the new men in order to determine the future personnel of the team. He managed his men well with possibly one or two exceptions."

"Walker, the big man of the team at left guard, played a good defensive game, but was hardly aggressive enough. If he improves as much in the next two weeks as he has in the last, he will be the best left guard we have ever had. The experience he received will probably show him the necessity of covering more ground in the future."

"Stanton at right tackle played a steady, defensive game, but in offensive work played too far away from the guard, allowing his opponents to break through the line."

"Powers at left tackle played a hard steady game, but must learn to break through the line and tackle."

"Burns at right end is a hard worker, but showed himself unaccustomed to the position and did not follow the ball closely enough."

"Holbrook at left end broke interference well, but plays too far behind the line, allowing the opponents to break through between end and tackle."

"Paul Coldren at quarter back was slow at giving signals, and gave his plays away by changing positions. His tackling was the finest done on the grounds."

"Gaines at right half played a hard, steady game, and was the best ground-gainer of the day."

"Steve Coldren played well until injured. He is a nifty player and gives life to the men, and should be highly complimented on his efforts to keep the men quiet."

When asked as to the comparative playing of Hobbs and Kepler, Mr. Larrabee said that Kepler runs faster with the ball than Hobbs, but Hobbs runs lower and is a harder man to down. He is surer on the catch, and a good punter behind the line, which play should have been used on several occasions. Kepler can probably out-punt Hobbs in practice, but is slow in kicking behind the line."

"Maines added a great deal to the strength of the team, is a swift, hard runner, hard tackler, and always keeps his eye on the ball."

"Among the substitutes, Allison should have been given a trial at right end, and Moore at left tackle. Both are strong, offensive players, good at breaking interference and sure, hard tackles; good blockers and trustworthy with the ball. The other substitutes are good players, and will probably be given a chance in the near future."

Mr. Larrabee expressed himself as agreeably surprised in the general team work, especially in the defensive playing after the first ten minutes. "The offensive was a little of color at times, due to inexperience."

He considered the features of the game to be Iverson's breaking through the line, Gaines' rushing with the ball, Hobbs' returned punts and Holbrook's and Coldren's tackling.

The game throughout was gentlemanly, only once or twice marred by profanity, and the team bids well to come above our usual standard.

The S. U. I. Republican Club will meet at Close Hall, Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 7 o'clock. Let all Republicans be present.

By order of President.

The University Band.

One of the best of our University organizations, of whose work but little is generally known, is the University Band. About fifty applications have been made this fall for membership, of which eighteen have been accepted, and the prospects are good for having the best band the University has ever known. Under the direction of Mr. Gaines, our band will soon be second to none of its kind. The band has received the following new instruments: a tuba, E flat cornet, and a snare drum. The following are the members and the instruments played by each:

Cornets—McCall, solo; Clements; Bevan, 1st; Saylor, Eb.

Clarinet—Whittemore, Eb, chief musician; Goodspeed.

Solo alto—Stempel, principal musician.

Alto—Halpenny, Brunn.

Tenor—Ryan, Harper.

Slide trombone—Kelly.

Baritone—Wainrich.

Tuba—Keeler, 1st. Ingham, 2d.

Drum—Evans, snare; Lusch, bass; Gaines, director and solo.

Zetagathian.

It is encouraging to note that the interest taken in the literary societies by the students and people outside the University seems on the increase. Large audiences have attended the programs thus far, and have lent their aid to the work of the societies; and certainly the influence a good audience has upon the work is very marked. Zet hall was well filled last Friday evening, and save that the audience came a little late was all that could have been desired.

Mr. Ham, of the class of '99, delivered an oration on "The Stability of Government," which we commend in the highest terms. This was the gentleman's first appearance, but that would not have been concluded from the character of the oration and its delivery. The production was a worthy one, and its delivery was worthy of it.

Mr. B. F. Thomas next declaimed a poem on the "Death of Garfield." With the exception that it was possibly too short the effort was very good.

The question debated was "Resolved, that it is unwise and inexpedient to annex Cuba to the U. S." Mr. Barth affirmed the resolution first in an argument dealing principally with the character and social ancestry of the people. He was followed by Mr. Burge, who defended the Cubans valiantly, and adduced further facts regarding the wealth of their country. D. H. Barton closed the affirmative, dealing as did his colleague with the character of the people, and furthermore with the immense debt under which the islanders now exist. Mr. Hearst closed the negative in answering the arguments of Mr. Barton regarding the debt and the lack of mental attainment on the part of the Cubans. The question was decided in favor of the negative.

Mr. Keyho declaimed "The Speech of Emmett" very effectively, and Mr. C. E. Hewitt closed the program with an excellent oration on the "Value of Experience."

THE VIDETTE REPORTER,

Iowa City, Iowa.

Entered at the Iowa City Post Office as second class matter.

The result of Saturday's foot ball game is on a whole quite gratifying. There is no use denying that the Doane College team put up a very strong game, as was shown in their game Friday with Grinnell, and the pessimist, after watching the work of our team in the last half of the game Saturday had to be convinced that the team will probably will not lose all its games this season. Although the outlook was not bright at the beginning of the term on account of financial and other reasons, our prospects are now good for "the best foot ball team S. U. I. ever had." The new Athletic Park, "all our own," seems to have had a favorable influence, and for the past few weeks there have been more men than ever before working faithfully every day for positions on the team. Saturday was the first game for four men who played on the 'Varsity team, and consequently the result must be regarded as good. These men play their position well, but of course actual experience in a game is necessary, and the improvement of the second half over the first half, on Saturday, plainly indicated this.

Our team goes to Fairfield next Saturday, we understand, to play Parsons College, and another game is being arranged for the second eleven. We believe that, after one or two preliminary games, S. U. I. will hold its own with any other foot ball team it may meet this season.

Irving.

The first number on the program at Irving, last Friday evening, was a declamation by F. R. Hubbard. This gentleman rendered "Bay Billy" in a very pleasing manner.

The debate of the evening was on the question, "Resolved, that there should be a property qualification for suffrage." Although the question has been much discussed, both sides brought forth interesting and good argument.

Mr. Iverson opened the debate, and asserted that, as a rule, the poor people are the ignorant ones. With these might be classed spendthrifts and drunkards. We want equitable distribution of suffrage according to capacity.

Taylor opened for the negative, and in a strong speech maintained that the accepted theory of government is that every citizen should have a vote. Such a system as advocated by the affirmative would not be practicable for the United States. At the present time only one-fourth of our people are property holders. Liberty-loving America would never assent to restricting suffrage to these.

Brown followed for the affirmative, and showed thorough preparation. Among other things he said that qualification does not depend upon the relative amount of wealth, but merely upon possession. All voters should have intellectual capacity and business ability. The best government can not be operated by all classes of people. As a rule men capable of being bribed are not property holders.

Swisher closed for the negative in a strong and logical speech. This is the best appearance ever made by this gentleman, and the effort shows that Mr. Swisher is one of the best debaters in the society. The debate was decided in the negative.

The declamation "Sergius to the Lion," by S. D. Whiting, was well appreciated by the audience.

The next number was an oration on "John Brown," by W. Cecil Keeler. This was probably the best number on the program.

Professor Berryhill concluded the evening's entertainment with one of his excellent violin solos.

F. W. Myers, popularly known as "Billy," is spending a few days in the city visiting friends. He is very enthusiastic over our athletic park and new track. Mr. Myers is one of the Governor's able force, and will go over the State this fall in the interest of his party; he has promised not to let an opportunity go by of inducing alumni to help relieve the park association of the debt that hangs over it, wherever he finds them. No doubt the result of his work will be very gratifying. It is to be lamented that we have so few students who are willing to help with their "mite" such a worthy cause, while our alumni, ever mindful of their Alma Mater, never fail to respond to the call for help.

Miss Clearman, one of the teachers in the city schools, has entered the University for Seminary work.

Hammond Law Senate.

The Hammond Law Senate gave its first open program last Friday evening in the lecture room of Professor Loos in the Central Building. The program was opened by a quartette composed of the members of the Senate.

Next followed a declamation by Senator Francis. Senator Walsh then delivered an able oration in which he graphically set forth the evils of socialism. A recitation by Senator Rinard, "Ugly Sam," was next given in a masterly manner, and would have made a most impressive number on any program.

Senator Ryan then presented a bill providing for trial of criminal and civil actions by a tribunal consisting of three judges. The bill was supported by Senators Wm. Ryan and Gilmore, and opposed by Senators G. W. Lawrence and Gordon Hayes. The supporters of the bill brought up the best arguments, the most convincing of these being given by the Senator who presented it, Wm. Ryan. A lively discussion of the bill by other members followed the speeches of the four senators mentioned, the final vote standing 5 ayes to 9 nays. The discussion closed a very interesting program.

The society known as the "Hammond Law Senate" was established last spring, and has for its members some of the most able students in the Law Department, many of whom are University graduates and graduates of literary societies. We look forward to many interesting programs from this society in the future.
