THE WEDNLING LECTURE.

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION—ELOQUENT AND SCHOLARLY ADDRESS.

"The French Revolution," the full fruition of mob-law, the child of misrule—this was the announced subject of Geo. R. Wendling's lecture. His theme was "Patriotism."

The speaker's bearing is characterized by remarkable self-confidence, amounting almost to complacency. His delivery is rapid; his enunciation distinct; his sentences well-rounded. He appeals rather to the emotions than to the intellect. And yet he gives no impression of playing for applause. Perhaps his greatest fault lies in the over-emphasis he lays upon the moral. This moral is never tacked on at the end, however; it is woven into his story. You might say he tacks the tail of the story to the end of the moral. Upon the whole the lecture was highly appreciated.

Being introduced by Professor Wilcox, the speaker referred to certain striking prophecies made to the nobility of France, which were later fulfilled; then sketched the appearance of Paris and the condition of France in 1774. "I do not think these symptoms of revolution are among us in America."

The worst difficulty a government can face is that it cannot pay its way. In the States-General at Versailles, the Commons swore to establish a constitution before separating. How suggestive of the Declaration of Independence by another gathering! Commanded by the king to disperse, the Commons trembled. Then arose Mirabeau. In such scenes a moment is the mother of ages. "I believe France, if she remains a Republic, will yet erect a monument to Mirabeau. I like him for the enemies he made,—and for his friendship for America. He was the greatest orator in Europe, and was a great philosopher. He had the three elements of greatness—sincerity, sagacity, courage."

After twenty-four days, the king refusing to withdraw the troops, came the cry "to arms," and the king, humbled, came unattended to the states-general. This event, hailed with joy, three terrible facts were overlooked. The partial surrender of the king had weakened the executive power; the army under Lafayette was to be controlled by the states general; and the mob spirit prevailed. Mirabeau alone sees this. He has raised the whirlwind in Paris. Can he ride now and control the storm? No power but God's can control it.

The French peasants were avenging political wrongs of centuries; but society was committing suicide. With Mirabeau leading, the states-general abolishes feudalism, and tries to frame a constitution. The king is suspected of seeking foreign aid, is captured and taken to live in the palace. Paper money, the inevitable inexpedient of certain so-called financiers, is issued. Burke's "French Revolution" inflames the public mind. Mirabeau dies. Then comes Robespierre, the incorruptible—but awful.

The Swiss Guards are massacred. Foreign troops are on French soil now. The king is beheaded. Mirat, Danton and a score of others are here. The queen is executed. The reign of terror is on. The States-General proclaims "There is no God." The guillotine is monarch. A pale youth in a Parisian restaurant shrugs his shoulders in contempt. Robespierre, beheaded, is succeeded by the Directory of Five. Ten years the Revolution lasts.

Here the narrative being dropped the obvious moral is taken up. We in America are not in danger from the threefold revolt through which the Parisian mob passed: social revolt against classes; political revolt against tyranny; and moral revolt against religion. Our sovereign, wearing a brilliant diadem, is Law. It must tri-

DR. HILLIS COMING.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE, JANUARY 30TH.

The Lecture Bureau are congratulating themselves upon securing another date for Dr. Hillis, and the mere announcement will probably be enough to crowd the Opera House.

Last December Dr. Hillis was well known—to-day he is famous. His call to fill Beecher's pulpit, in New York, is a recognition of the ability of the man, and his acceptance will remove him from the west, and it may be many years before the people of Iowa will again have the opportunity of hearing the gifted orator.

The subject upon which he will speak is "John Ruskin's Message to the 19th Century." This is his most of the expenses of the affair, it seems that their views are rather inconsistent,—especially as the Constitution specifically states that beginning with 1895 the meets shall be held here alternately. S. U. I. will insist upon her right in this matter.

The matter of a minstrel performance for the benefit of the Union being brought up. Treasurer Munger were appointed to take charge of the financial management of the same. Mr. Weaver, assisted by Dr. Knipe, has the entertainment side of the affair in charge.

Dental Department.

Dr. W. G. Clark lectured to the Junior and Senior classes on porcelain work last week.

Dr. Dean brought a patient before the physiology class, last week, suffering from a paralysis of the trigeminal nerve. This is the first case for several years that has come before the class with paralysis of the trigeminal nerve.

The Junior and Senior classes received their first lecture this year from Professor Nutting on Comparative Odontography.

Taylor, of the Junior class, who went home sick, has returned to school.

Griffis, '00, was quite sick last week, but has now returned to lectures.

The Juniors have finished their dissection of the cadaver, and will receive their examinations Wednesday and Friday. All look happy; may joy be theirs.

Dr. Breene did not lecture to the Junior and Senior class, Monday, on account of sickness.

Medical Department.

Last Thursday Hildreth, '00, received a telegram stating that his father was very sick. As soon as possible he left for his father's bedside.

John D. Cantwell, '01, is at his home in Davenport this week, giving his eyes, which have been causing him considerable inconvenience, a needed rest.

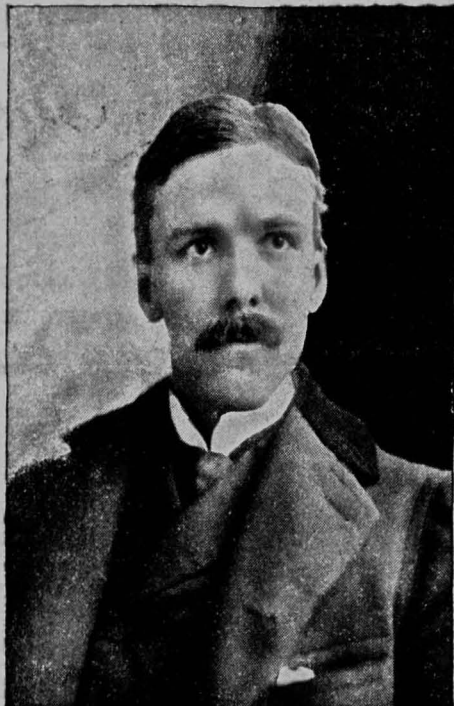

Dr. Guthrie gave his classes the promised written test Tuesday afternoon. Part of the Sophomores thought they didn't need to take it, and left immediately after the lecture.

Dr. Harriman has been doing battle with the grip for the past few days, and is coming out victorious.

Professor W. H. Watson, an author and artist from Paris, visited Anatomy lecture Wednesday morning. It is needless to say that he was warmly received, and judging from the amount of notes and drawings that were sent him as tokens of the class' friendship, he should have plenty of material as a basis for a new book. We were unable to learn whether he fully enjoyed himself or not.

Baconian.

Professor Weld will lecture on "Periodic Phenomena." We may anticipate a treatment of harmonic vibrations, astronomical cycles, and perhaps even the changes in the weather.

NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS

umph over the contagion of mob madness. The law, oh the grandeur! It is our salvation, our ark of the covenant.

Here returning to the narrative, he briefly tells of the return of victorious Napoleon Bonaparte, our pale youth of the restaurant, who, folding his arms, said: "There must be an end to this." THE REVOLUTION WAS A FAILURE.

Advisory Board Business.

The Athletic Advisory Board, at its meeting yesterday, approved the schedule of base ball games submitted by the outgoing manager, Mr. Holsteen. Besides the games announced in the VIDETTE-REPORTER of December 15th, the schedule includes an exhibition game with Grinnell to be played here on Decoration Day.

The Board decided to adopt the warrant system in paying bills.

Manager McDonald, for the track team, reported on some correspondence he is now carrying on with Grinnell, relative to the location of the Dual Field Meet this spring. It seems that Grinnell is laboring under the delusion that the Meet is due to be held there this year, as no Meet was held last year, owing to bad weather. As our men were all at the station ready to go to Grinnell last spring when their telegram arrived advising them not to come; and as Grinnell has presented a bill for $37, for our half Permanent Debating League.

As announced in the report of its meeting, a motion was filed with the Debating League to provide for a committee of three to enter upon correspondence with neighboring Universities preliminary to the formation of a permanent Debating League, with Iowa as a member. Such action has been discussed in previous years, but no definite results have ever been obtained. The present plan of making agreements for debates from year to year has certainly proven cumbersome in the highest degree. At times, as witness the present year, we have been unable to complete the necessary negotiations in due season, and it has even been uncertain whether there would be any debate at all,—or when, or where, or upon what question.

If the motion filed be adopted, the committee will open correspondence at once, and by the end of this school year an Intercollegiate Debating League may be a tangible reality. Our present two year contract with Wisconsin is a good one, and will, of course, have to be considered in case any new associations shall be formed. At any rate, Iowa's enviable record in debating places her in an excellent position to undertake the initiative in the matter. For the present it is enough that the movement shall be initiated.

Athletic Constitution.

The Athletic Union acted wisely when it referred the Constitution to a committee for revision. The present Constitution is an ill-constructed affair which has proven in many respects inadequate to the needs, and in at least one respect directly destructive of the true interests of University athletics. The particular item to which we refer is the matter of representation on the Advisory Board.

This body at present comprises, besides the President of the Union and three managers, Faculty members from the Collegiate department only. This unfortunate state of affairs has caused no little natural dissatisfaction in the other departments. The amendment which had been proposed, providing for a more just representation, was referred to the committee for consideration. The general idea embraced in the amendment should be embodied in the revised constitution. It is undoubtedly the desire of the Union that this shall be done, as expressed in the unanimous vote referring the amendment to the revision committee.

There is another important feature that should be grafted into the revision. Instead of allowing the membership to lapse from year to year, it should be made permanent. A regular term tax of 50 cents, or not to exceed $1.00 per term, should be levied. Then upon payment of the $1.00 initiatory fee the applicant should be admitted to permanent membership, subject to the prompt payment of the term tax. "Once a member, always a member," should be the watchword. By this plan the revenues of the Union from memberships would be doubled or trebled, and each member would be reminded at least three times a year that he belonged to the Union. Increased revenues and increased interest,—two highly desirable factors. This system of regular payment of dues is in vogue in every successful society, and we see no objection to its adoption by the Athletic Union.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. The Iowa City Musical and Dramatic Association gave, at the Opera House last evening, the second of its delightful entertainments, in a manner highly creditable to both the performers and to the Association.
