THE CHICAGO GAME.

TEAM LEAVES TOMORROW—NOT IN GOOD CONDITION.

The football team accompanied by twenty or more rooters will leave in a special car over the C. R. I. & P. Railroad for Chicago tomorrow morning at 10:15. The team is going into the contest with the Chicago aggregation with very little prospect of doing more than possibly keeping the score down to a respectable figure.

The poor condition of the team is due largely to the fact that for a week prior to last Monday it was almost impossible to find enough players on the ground at any one time from which to select a second team for practice work. Several of the men from whom much had been expected were out of the game for time being on account of sickness and casualties. Baker had bronchitis and was able to practice for the first time on Monday. Weiland and Middleton were out for ten days with game knees and the latter now is nursing a broken shoulder. Brockway is out for the present with a crippled knee and it is impossible to say at this writing whether he will be able to play Saturday. Griffith and Fred Williams have been favoring weak ankles since the State Normal game. Captain Eby's broken nose kept him out, but for a few days only.

Despite the above recorded petty catastrophes, however, it must be said that since Monday more than enough candidates have appeared on the grounds for two teams and the practice has been characterized by much more snap than heretofore. It may be that the closing work will have the effect devoutly wished for by the friends of the team.

It must not be forgotten however, that our boys are about to undertake the biggest proposition of the entire season, in seeking to defeat the team that for three years has held a front rank among the teams of the Western Universities.

That Chicago's '99 team will strive to equal if not better the records of former teams from that institution is made evident in their work in games already played this year. Besides defeating two or three high school teams, Chicago has won from Knox, 40-0; P. & S. 12-0, and yesterday from Notre Dame, 23-6. Our score against Chicago will afford a comparison with the above teams as well as those teams with which Chicago is yet to meet.

Baconian.

The first meeting of the year will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30. The programme will embrace the annual address by the president, the report of the secretary, and the election of officers.

Grinnell Stands Pat.

Contrary to the hopes of Drake's wire pulling Athletic committee Grinnell stood pat on the matter at issue between S. U. I. and Grinnell on the one hand and Drake on the other, and refused to play the game so ardently sought as a Semi Om Sed attraction for yesterday. This is due to Drake's cancellation of her contracts with S. U. I. for October 14 and with Grinnell for October 7th and Thanksgiving Day. The loss of these two games means the loss of no little money to Grinnell. She is to be congratulated for the sacrifices she makes to maintain the high position she has assumed with S. U. I. for the enforcement of the spirit of the rules governing professionalism in Inter-Collegiate athletics.

Volunteers Recognized.

The Board of Regents have followed the lead of several prominent colleges in granting favor to Spanish-American volunteers. The following resolution was passed by the board at its last meeting:

"That free tuition be given to students in the Collegiate department who have served as soldiers and sailors in the Spanish American war.

WILL PLAY NEBRASKA.

IOWA AND NEBRASKA PLAY AT COUNCIL BLUFFS.

As we go to press it is announced that negotiations have been brought to a successful termination whereby Iowa will meet Nebraska on the gridiron at Council Bluffs, November 4th. This game will replace the South Dakota game which will not be played on account of the inconvenience of the trip and inability to arrive at any agreement as to terms.

Football at Rush Medical.

The football players of Rush Medical College went into training on Monday last. Among the new men who will try for places on the team are Schroeder, Pence, Sheldon and Rentz, formerly of S. U. I. and also Harris of Grinnell.

The schedule of games is as follows:

Oct. 7—Northwestern at Evanston.
Oct. 14—Lake Forest at Lake Forest.
Oct. 18—Armour Institute at Chicago.
Oct. 21—Iowa at Iowa City.
Oct. 28—Wisconsin at Madison.
Nov. 4—Notre Dame at Notre Dame.
Nov. 11—P. & S. at Chicago.
Nov. 26—Open.
Nov. 30—Illinois Wesleyan at Bloomington.

Notice.

A "Hawkeye" box has been placed in the the halls of Central building and all persons having jokes, roasts or grinds may get them to the Humerous editor by leaving them in this box.

NEW INSTRUCTORS.

SHORT BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES OF THE
ADDITIONS TO THE UNIVERSITY'S STAFF.

Nathaniel E. Griffin, instructor in English, was born at Williamstown, Mass., in 1873. He was graduated from Phillips-Andover in 1890 and in 1894 received his A. B. from Johns Hopkins. He took post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins, receiving the degree of Ph. D. from that University in 1899. Mr. Griffin's doctoral thesis, which will be published at an early date, is a study into the Medieval Traditions of Troy.

W. J. Brady, professor of orthodontia in the Dental Department was born in Aledo, Illinois in 1862. He studied for some time at the Aledo, Academy. In 1894 entered the dental department of the University of Iowa, from which he received the degree of D. D. S. in 1886.

After practicing for a year, Dr. Brady was called to the instructorship of orthodontia in the University of Minnesota, which he held for two years. In 1890 Dr. Brady contemplated resigning his profession on account of ill health, but a year of country life restored it. In 1891 he again resumed his teaching, this time in the Chicago College of Surgery. The next year, 1892-93, he was at the Missouri Dental College. In 1893 he went to the Western Dental College at Kansas City, where he remained six years, teaching orthodontia as his main branch. Dr. Brady has taught this subject for ten years and is the second oldest instructor of orthodontia in the United States.

E. A. Wilcox, resident professor of Law, was born in Rhode Island in 1867. He attended the country district schools and prepared for Brown University in English and classical school in Providence. He was graduated from Brown University in 1891 with the degree of A. A. securing also, in that year an election to the Phi Beta Kappa society. He studied for the bar in the office of E. C. Morey in Providence and was admitted to practice before the supreme court of Rhode Island in 1864 and before the circuit court of the United States the following year. Mr. Wilcox was elected instructor of law in the Brown University in 1894 and remained there until last June. Professor Wilcox was a member of the examining committee of Rhode Island in 1897-98 appointed to examine applicants for admission to the bar.

The University.

(The newspapers of Iowa are taking an unusual interest in the plans for the future of our NEW UNIVERSITY. We will publish under this head, from time to time, as the occasion permits, extracts from the editorial comments of the state.)

From the Des Moines Leader of September 29th.

Press dispatches this week, in reference to the opening of the Universities of Michigan, Wisconsin and Chicago, mention the relatively large number of students enrolled from Iowa. This is not as it should be. While little sympathy may properly be felt with a claim that an Iowa young man should go to an Iowa educational institution simply because it is an Iowa institution, without regard to respective merits, nevertheless the advantages of education in an atmosphere in which a student intends to pass his life are so manifest that they need no explanation. So, in a marked sense, it is an unnatural movement that so many Iowa young men and women should go to other states for their training.

The reason they go and why they have gone in the past is known to practically all who take interest in higher education. Iowa has not properly endowed and supported her institutions. They have not, as a rule, been equipped as modern necessities demand. As to the denominational colleges and universities of the state their improvements must be left to private philanthropy. All the public can do is to seek to foster a spirit which may lead to more generous contributions. But as to the state institutions it is possible, by concerted effort, to do something. The state, which has directly to do with the State University at Iowa City, the State Agricultural College at Ames, and the State Normal school at Cedar Falls, can give them more money, and by raising up the tone of these institutions it will verily happen that all the colleges and universities will be reflexly benefited. Of the three state institutions while each of them has pressing needs which should be regarded by the state, it is generally agreed that the university at Iowa City is the one which has suffered most from inadequate support. During the last three or four years greater liberality has been shown the university, both in the increase of its support fund and in the one-tenth mill tax for building fund, but still need exists to do more. The demand of other institutions upon the revenues of the state does not promise to be as large in the future as in the past, and without increase of taxes there will be a considerable fund available for proper expenditure by the legislature. The State University should be remembered. Its friends should not be regarded as making any request for themselves, but in behalf of an institution which should appeal to the pride of every Iowan. With several hundred young men and women annually going out of the state because their parents believe superior advantages are offered elsewhere, from a purely economic standpoint it would be a good business for Iowa to promote the State University and thereby so elevate the tone of the institutions of the state that the prejudice will disappear. Things now are so low that when a first class man is developed in any chair it often happens that he is called and goes elsewhere. In addition to better equipment, the support fund should be so increased by the legislature as to allow salaries more in accordance with ruling rates elsewhere for first rate professorial ability.

At Iowa City today occurs the formal inauguration of the new president, Dr. George E. MacLean, late chancellor of Nebraska University and an educator of proved ability. A man in the prime of vigor and manhood, who has come to Iowa with the expectation of making the up-building of Iowa University his life work he should be sustained in every way. He should be given the opportunity for which he craves and the means of development for which he asks. Public money cannot be better spent than in creating a great institution, one to which Iowans will refer, not with apologies, but with proper pride.

Holland Decision Reaffirmed.

The games committee of the Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association at a recent meeting reaffirmed the decision made at a former meeting, which sustained the protests against Holland, Drake's "Amateur-Professional" athlete.

Fall Field Meet.

The date is very near at hand on which the fall field meet is to be held, and but one man has yet appeared on the track for training. That regular practice has not yet begun is due in large measure to the miserable condition in which the track was left after the harvest of the sunflower forest formerly illuminating its course. Through the personal efforts of Prof. A. G. Smith, the president of the Board of Control, the rubbish has been removed from the track and burned. The track itself will be put into condition within a day or two. It is to be hoped that all men who expect to be candidates for the track team will begin training at once for the fall field meet. This fall meet is really a very important event.

It serves to introduce new talent that may have come to the University and to compare it with the old. That the importance of this is recognized at other colleges in Iowa is made apparent by the fact that Ames has had a track team of over forty men in the field since early in August under the direction of "Johnnie" Prall, now Y. M. C. A. Secretary at Ames. If the track athletes don't have a care they are going to lose next year's state meet through neglect of preparatory work.

The Alumni Game.

The University is much indebted to the eleven Alumni who forsook their ordinary business for the day to participate with little or no preliminary preparatory training, in the game last Friday. It certainly can be no pleasant task for men not in the best of physical condition to undertake to do battle with a University team trained down to the pink of condition. Add to this the fact that the Alumni had no time in which even so much as to practice signals and it is not strange that the score against them was so large.

As a partial recognition of their services a dinner was given to the Alumni players at the St. James Friday evening at six. Several of the faculty members and students of the University were present as an entertainment committee, and President MacLean managed to spend a few minutes with the assembled guests. The visiting players were also present by special request, at the reception given Friday afternoon by President MacLean to the members of the Faculty.

The Alumni game has apparently come to stay. It is popular. We can only hope that next year a large number of Alumni players and spectators may be able to be present.

The track at the Athletic park has been cleaned off and all who want to help S. U. I. win the cup again next year are urged to begin training for the fall field meet at once.

Fred Paul Williams.

Each succeeding year brings to our University its sorrows and its joys. But sorrow comes with renewed force, when the student body, full of health and vigor leaves its halls for but a brief time, to return and find a place made vacant in the family circle of our University. Such is our experience in the death of Mr. Fred Paul Williams who was drowned in the Des Moines river, August 19, 1899.—The following brief sketch taken from the Des Moines Daily Capitol nicely depicts his true character and personality: "He leaves hosts and hosts of friends, for Fred was everywhere a prime favorite. It would be hard to find a more popular one among his associates. He was one of those genial, jolly sons, who literally carried sunshine wherever he went. It was so at his home—there he was the light and life as soon as he crossed the threshold. It was so in his preaching, where he was full of vigor and fire and where he was exceedingly conscientious. No matter where one met him, he always saw the bright side of everything.

"With all his good humor and fun, he was a most earnest young man, with large plans for a useful future, and certainly a brilliant career was before him *** He had just accepted a call to the pastorate of the Christian church at Adel, where he was to begin his work Sept. 1. It was with the greatest conscientiousness he had entered into the field, and he had planned wonderful work for the year to come, saying he was all out of sympathy with the mad rush after money, and was going to give his life to the good of his fellow men. He had delivered a few times a lecture upon the suppression of crime, the title of which is "The Mark of Cain." It is a remarkably strong effort for so young a man and in it are set forth the deep life principles, which moved him. While the deepest sympathy is extended by all their friends to his family, yet all cannot but feel that for some reason, in some way, this will all come out for the best, somewhere, sometime.

"In the warp and woof of life the dark shades on one side appear as light on the other and now we see through the glass darkly, then we shall see face to face "A loving and loved heart has ceased beating but the soul will live on always in the memory of hundreds of friends."
