IOWA WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Iowa's Team Work, Her Ends and Backs, and Long Punts Tell the Story—Warner Can Place-Kick too.

Iowa 16, Grinnell 0.

DR. KNIPE'S STATEMENT.

I am pleased with Iowa's team work. Grinnell plays the desperate game she always does; her defense was the best seen here this year. Iowa beat Grinnell by team work; individualism in football is past and a team relying on it is doomed. C. Williams ran the team well today and he with the entire team deserves the honors of the day. I am pleased and satisfied at the result.

GRINNELL'S STATEMENT.

Captain Burd, of Grinnell, says: "Iowa was too much for us. That is all I have to say."

H. E. Brown, Head Coach, Grinnell, "I have nothing but words of highest praise for the Iowa team. They outplayed us in every particular except bucking the line.

Peterson's Orchestra.

Albert Peterson's full orchestra from Davenport accompanied by the Apollo Quartet, also of that city, gave a concert at Smith's Armory last evening from 8 to 10 o'clock, followed by dancing for six hours longer for those who cared to stay. The concert was fairly good, the quartet being much appreciated. Mr. Peterson's orchestra did not seem to give such general satisfaction as it did last year when it played at the big parties and it is hardly thought that the next informal affair given by Mr. Peterson will be as largely attended as was this. The number of persons present made dancing difficult in the early part of the evening. Another unpleasant feature was the exceedingly late hour at which the dancing commenced, Mr. Peterson seeming to attempt to do too much for one evening. The local management of the affair was under the capable charge of Elmer A. Hull, L. '01, and Charles C. Bradley, L. '01, whose excellent work obtained the finest attendance ever gracing the Armory on a similar occasion.

Sophomore Cotillion.

The Sophomore Cotillion will be given Friday evening, January 26th. The committee has bestowed much careful thought upon the affair and will have the best decorations, music, and refreshments that can be obtained. The committee is making arrangements to obtain the best orchestra in the state.

Military Chimes.

[Special from Manila, Oct. 10th, 1899.] George S. Gibbs, Jr., '97, now Second Lieutenant Signal Corps, U. S. V.,—signal officer on General McArthur's staff, and Ruth E. Hobby, '99, of Iowa City, were united in marriage at Manila, P. I., at 9:30 on the evening of October 9th. The nuptial ceremony was performed by Chaplain Pierce, U. S. Army, according to the simple, impressive ritual of the Episcopal service.

The marriage took place at No. 1 Calle Real, Emita, the home of Mrs. Captain Hall, 21st Infantry, an Iowa woman formerly of Harlan, who is a sister of George Jacks, who was very well known in the University in the years of '91 and '92. Among the Iowa people who were present were, John A. Hull, '95, Major and Judge Advocate, U. S. V., who acted as best man; William D. Conner, 1st Lieutenant Corps of Engineers, '95, Mary Barber Ely, '91, and Major Mathews, Brigade Surgeon, of Des Moines.

The house was beautifully decorated with flags, flowers and tropical foliage of all kinds. The music was furnished by a Filipino orchestra, and not among the least exciting incidents was the fact that there was likely to be an uprising in the city that evening. From the windows of the house one can overlook the bay and the Luneta; the latter, under the former rule, being the place of execution, the place of band concerts, etc., as well as the finest drive to be found in Manila.

Miss Hobby arrived in Manila on Sunday, October 8th, having made the over-ocean trip from San Diego for the special purpose.

Harmony in Iowa.

The colleges in Iowa seem to be getting in touch with one another in a most admirable way. A few weeks ago several of them combined to purify athletics and the result of their efforts seemed to be very gratifying. The remainder of the colleges are playing out the series of games for the pennant in the most harmonious manner possible. The other day Ames sent her football team to Iowa City. From the time that the Ames men reached the depot platform until they left after the game everything was a constant reign of good feelings. Yells were exchanged constantly and everyone turned out to show the Ames players a merry time. On the field the goal posts were draped in the colors of the two institutions. This spirit cannot fail to bring good returns in an inconceivable short time.—Nebraskan-Hispanian.

President MacLean spoke at Cedar Rapids Thursday evening before the State Library Association. His theme was University Extension and Libraries. The Cedar Rapids papers spoke most favorably of the scholarly nature of the address and of the enthusiastic manner with which it was received by the large audience which was present in the high school auditorium to hear it. The president made a pleasing address before the students of Coe College assembled in their chapel yesterday morning.

Miss Daum enjoyed a visit from her sister this week.

Not So!

"At Iowa they charge $5 for athletic tickets and complain of the small attendance at games."—K. U. Weekly.

That Kansas University man is an egregious blunderer. Some of the late games at Athletic Park may have been worth $5 all right enough, but we haven't been particularly complaining of the small attendance at them on that account.

Absence From Classes.

"Iowa has a rule that no student may leave town without consent of President or Dean. We wonder how such a rule would be enjoyed here?"—K. U. Weekly.

The rule is perhaps misunderstood.
"Leaving town" is to be interpreted as going out of town so as to necessitate being absent from classes.

Nebraska and Iowa.

The present year has brought forth several interesting comparisons between the Universities of Iowa and Nebraska.
The reason for this is obvious. The fact that Chancellor MacLean left this university and accepted the head of the Iowa university opened the eyes of many Nebraskans. For the past few years it has been the general sentiment that our institution out-classed the other, in rank as well as in number.
Growth, has been little less than marvelous and the increase in numbers was supposed to be a criterion of rank.
This is scarcely the plausible explanation. No other school of importance exists in the state. Aspirants for learning have been forced to seek here or in other states for satisfactory fields. In spite of this, institutions the size of Wesleyan and Doane have experienced proportionately the same growth as the state university. In Iowa there is a perfect mass of colleges giving academic work of no mean rank. Students find opportunities at their very doors where they can obtain education, which, for the actual book value, is as good as that of the modern university. The state university finds contention for numbers here. It is probably true that the university is somewhat worsted in this contest. On the other hand there is a field for the professional school in Iowa the same as there is a field for the academic college here. With this field no institution in the west boasts of greater progress in this branch than Iowa. The comparison between Iowa and Nebraska universities then is not between the academic departments or between the professional, but is a consideration of the academic on one hand and the professional on the other. In other words, does the academic department of Nebraska benefit the residents of the state more than the professional departments of Iowa do the residents of that state? It is our surmise that they do not. When each state is a little older, and each has developed the department in which it is now deficient, it may be possible to reach some conclusion. Iowa is soon to have a new academe building the cost of which will be in the neighborhood of $160,000. With this advantage, some noticeable progress should be seen in the work that is being done.

The advent of President MacLean should also make some considerable difference. With the proper selection of a chancellor for Nebraska we may, however, keep pace with any progress that Iowa may make.—Nebraskan-Hesperian.
