A RARE SPECIMEN

FOSSIL OF A FISH-LIZARD TO BE SOLD

The Specimen a Valuable One—Sought After by Other Universities—Iowa will Probably Lose It—Found in Germany.

For some time past there has been on exhibition in the Wiencke's St. James Arcade store a fossil specimen of this great Mesozoic reptile. The specimen, Ichthyosaurus planactus, was obtained from the Lias beds of the Jurassic period at Holzmaden, Wurtemberg, Germany.

The Ichthyosaurus (fish-lizard) was a large animal with a stout body, short neck, and jaws set with a large number of conical teeth. Locomotive organs consisted of four short paddles, composed of numerous closely-united bones, but without distinct toes, covered by a web which greatly increased their efficiency as swimming organs. The bodies of the vertebral were not united by ball-and-socket joint, as in most living reptiles, but were biconcave, like those of fishes. That the habits of the creature were predatory and voracious is shown by the teeth. The Ichthyosaurus combined in a remarkable degree the character of saurian reptiles with those of fishes. This combination is expressed in the name.

The owner of the specimen, Otto Kuntze, Ph. D., the well-known geologist and mineralogical dealer of Iowa City, being desirous of having such a fine specimen remain in the University, agreed to present it to the University Museum for $100, the actual cost of the specimen laid down in Iowa City. In order to give all students, alumni and citizens a chance to participate, Mr. Wieneke has been prepared to sell 400 shares at twenty-five cents each. When all were subscribed for the specimen was to be placed in the University Museum. Up to date about one hundred shares have been subscribed by citizens and faculty members, and one solitary twenty-five cents by some public-spirited student.

In view of the lack of appreciation of his efforts and as he has received several offers of purchase at a much higher price from the Universities of Minnesota and Yale, as well as from private collectors, Dr. Kuntze has about decided to withdraw the specimen from exhibition to the Iowa City public and ship it to one of the above-mentioned places. Considering the fact that a little effort and a few small contributions that would not be felt by the donors would have saved such a rare and valuable scientific specimen to the university and the state it is unfortunate that it must go to a rival institution.

Three more cases of small pox have broken out among the students of the University of Minnesota.

AT THE BACONIAN

The Regeneration of Animals Discussed by Mr. J. J. Lombert—Charts Used for Illustration

At the regular meeting of the Baconian last evening the topic of interest and discussion was presented by Mr. J. J. Lombert. After a brief introduction he discussed the subject under the following phases:

1st. Variations in Regeneration depend upon the region from which the piece is taken.

2nd. The regulative influence of external and internal conditions.

An extensive series of charts were shown illustrating the principal points under consideration. Examples representing the different groups of animals were cited under the various phases of the subject. These show that regeneration becomes more rare as we pass from the lower to the higher animals; this is probably due to the greater cell differentiation as we pass from the Protozoa to the Metazoa.

The various systems of organs seem to regenerate in the following order: Nervous, digestive, muscular and skeletal; circulatory, excretory, and lastly reproductive.

Regeneration seems to be a process of transformation or a moulding over of tissues. Regenerative processes are very much like developmental processes, as we find embryonic organs to show the most marked regeneration, and in all experiments regeneration seems to be at the expense of growth—a phase of phagocytosis.

In conclusion, the speaker spoke of the extensive field for scientific research along the line of regeneration of lost parts in an animal and the bearing such a study would have upon some of the biological problems of today.

ANOTHER VICTORY

THE DES MOINES TEAM GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

The Basket Ball Team Last Night Won the Game—42 to 17—At Grinnell this Afternoon—Rule to Prepare Grinnell for Wisconsin.

Another victory was scored last evening by the basket ball team when they defeated the Des Moines Y. M. C. A. team by a score of 42 to 17. The contest from start to finish was close and exciting and showed the superiority and strength of the team, Director Rule has developed, by them defeating easily one of the best basket ball teams in the state. Such a game did Rule's men put up that during the whole of the first half the Des Moines' were unable to throw any goal. The defense however was not up to the standard for the team from the fact that Ross was unable to be in the game.

The team left Des Moines for Grinnell this morning and will there test strength again with the athletes of that college this afternoon.

Bailey and Rule leaving Iowa City today will be in Grinnell for the game and also will give an exhibition in gymnastics before the Iowa college gymnasts. The Grinnell gymnasium team, who will meet the University of Wisconsin soon, have asked Bailey and Rule to give them instruction and pointers in preparation for the contest. Jim Rule, ex-'03, who is now attending the Silt School of Osteopathy, refereed the game last night.

TO CLEAR THE MIND

The following report from Beloit shows what the students in that institution use to keep their spirits and steam up to the working pitch during the week of examinations. "The report from Ann Arbor that one of the professors had warned the students against using strychnine and caffeine which he intimated was quite prevalent during examination times, has caused considerable investigation at Beloit.

"Many of the students when questioned confessed that they used a safe quantity of arsenic before each examination, which kept their minds bright for several hours following. None of the students knew of the use of coffee beans, but stimulants, such as port wine, are in use, an almost empty bottle of that stimulant dropping to the floor of the physics' examination room, to the astonishment of everyone recently.

"The examinations closed Thursday, but students who used arsenic were obliged to break off its use gradually and after that they suffered from excessive drowsiness. None of the members of the faculty would admit that students here used drugs or stimulants."

CHAPTER INSTALLED

The Medical Fraternity, Phi Rho Sigma, will Be Installed Tonight—Banquet at the Berkely.

The new medical fraternity will tonight receive their charter as a chapter of the National fraternity Phi Rho Sigma. Dr. D. E. W. Wendstrand, of the Cook county hospital staff and general secretary of the fraternity, assisted by R. R. Burt, of Rush Medical college, and E. J. Whitaker will conduct the installation. The initiation will take place in their chapter hall and will be followed by a banquet at the Berkely Imperial. The Phi Rho Sigma is a conservative and exclusive fraternity, this being only the twelfth charter to be granted. It is only known at the universities of high standing. Thus the securing of a charter here goes to show the high standing which is recognized for our Medical college.

The local chapter begins existence with a membership of seventeen and is comfortably lodged in a handsomely furnished suite of rooms in the new Koza block, which for some time has been the home of the local society, Alpha Sigma, now merged into Phi Rho Sigma.

The Varsity Pin

The joint committee of the collegiate classes met yesterday afternoon to discuss the matter of a varsity pin which would be allowed to be worn upon reaching the senior year. Several styles and designs were presented as suggestions but none of them were definitely decided upon. The majority of the committee however seemed to favor a design of a small varsity "I" with the letters Iowa and the numerals of the classes.

Minnesota-Wisconsin

The University of Minnesota debating team has submitted the following question for the Minnesota-Wisconsin debate. Resolved that railway rates in the United States should be fixed by government qualifications. The time and place of the debate has not been decided upon but it will probably occur in the early part of May.

School Inspector Dr. Brown gives out the statement that the committee of Six at their meeting yesterday did much to bring about cordial relations between the higher institutions of learning and the secondary schools in Iowa.

Mr. Buhnsen, of the firm of Hart & Buhnsen addressed the E. L. B. on the subject of, "The Future of Pharmacy" at the regular meeting of the club last evening.

The State Press presents the Daily Iowan with the Valentine, "By their works you shall know them."

IOWA CITY, IOWA

Entered at the post-office at Iowa City, Iowa, as second class mail matter, Oct. 11, 1901.

The lenten season is on and self-denial is the order of the day. Some are even going so far as to deprive themselves of the pleasure of getting their lessons.

When we get the new library building it is proposed to give the rooms where the library is now to the boys for a loafing and reception parlor. Such a place as this would certainly be appreciated by the boys.

Almost every day we see people who to use an old expression, are "square pegs in round holes." They are filling or attempting to fill places in life for which they were not intended. They have chosen or more truly perhaps, have been chosen by the wrong occupation and the result is that they go through life a failure to themselves and to everyone else with whom they come in contact. These instances of what someone has called missfits, being noticed, they cannot help but impress the fact that, the sooner a young man finds out that he is in the world to do something of some kind, the better it will be for him. Find out what you are fitted for and then do it with all of your might, is the secret of success.

At the very beginning, in choosing the profession or occupation, is where the blunders can be easily made and there is where the the greatest precaution should be taken.

A mistake that is made by many is that they give too much heed to the advices of others. Parents often have some pet idea about what their children should do and they do the choosing for them and in doing so do them more harm than good in the majority of cases. Others make the mistake of going into something without really knowing what they are getting into. They look at a profession merely from an outside and very superficial point of view. Still others choose no profession at all, but simply allow themselves to drift along following the line of least resistance.

Thus the step being so important and the mistakes being so easily made it cannot but seem that everyone should very carefully consider the question of what he is fitted for. He should first study himself, his likes and dislikes, what he can do and what he cannot. Then the field of occupations should be very carefully examined. He should know what he is getting into before he gets in.

The sooner a calling is chosen the better. A single purpose early chosen sharpens ones' powers for work and gives ambition which is the soul of success.

Of course narrowness must be guarded against. Broad and large ideas of life are of primal importance but closely interwoven with them should run the purpose and plan of some especial occupation to follow. To have something one can do and then do it is what leads to the front.

The characters have been built to fit the individual characteristics of the stars, and the supporting company has been most carefully selected. A pleasing feature of the performance is the introduction of a series of refined specialties by various members of the splendid company.
