VARSITY LEFT TODAY FOR COLUMBIA

Seventeen Players Constitute the Squad. —Not in Best of Condition

The football squad left for Columbia, Mo., at 4:30 this afternoon.

The following players were taken: Capt. Godbird, Roy Buckley, Donovan, Johnson, Atkinson, Magowan, Watters, Griffith, Allen, Jones, Fred Buckley, Moore, Schilvan, Mel-nor, Knapp, Darake, and Gibson.

LOW CITY WAY

The team left over the Rock Island road. At Grinnell they will change to the Iowa City, and at Cedar Rapids, to the other switch to the Wabash stub line to Columbia will be made. The train leaves at 6:30 o'clock Friday morning.

The matches are to be held at the old track car, which will be side-tracked at Columbia to await their return Saturday night.

The varsity will have a light practice at Columbia Friday afternoon and will play Missouri Saturday.

NOT IN BEST SHAPE

The team is not in the best of shape. It is hopeful that the varsity will be able to win from Missouri, but a large score is not expected.

A number of the regular players are suffering from accidents received in the hard practices held this week. It is possible that Buckley, who has been suffering from concussioh, will not play out the game, being saved up for the Illinois game on Iowa's last class day, Saturday.

THREE-PER-CENT PRACTICE

An indifferent practice was held on Iowa field last night. The practices Monday and Tuesday nights were excellent and it was hoped that the team would continue its fine work for three nights in succession. But these hopes were not fulfilled by last night's work. Many of the men were careless, and erratic work was the rule.

CRITICS OF ANCIENT FOOTBALL

Mr. W. J. Hopkins of Yale made a special study of ancient football in order to locate the severest criticism of the "brutality" of the game, and in an article in the Independent, later, he gave the results of his investigation. He found that football was played in England in the fourteenth century, and every writer on the subject was quoted out of its roughness. It was in 1424 that the order went out, the King of France, that no man play at the fat ball under forty years of age, and this proclamation, more than any other, marked most remarkable criticism of the game. The most remarkable phase of Mr. Hopkins' study of the game is the great respect for the game, and the theory that the score was always the rule. The writer in this criticism decorated football playing as "A good and honest practice that a fellow sports or pastimes. He went on to give an enumeration of the brutality of the game and ended by saying, "And hereof growth only, malice, rancor, choler, hatred, displeasure, enmity and what not els; and sometimes fighting, branding, contention, quarrel picking, murder, homicide, and great effusion of blood, as experience daily teacheth."—Yale Alumni Weekly.

EXAMS ARE FEETERS

SAYS PROF. FOSTER OF UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

Ability to Grasp Great Movements Typical of American Educational System

"Your education like your country is spacious, and free from toll barriers," said Prof. Foster, professor of English at University College, in his address at assembly today.

Prof. Foster visits the University of Iowa as a member of the Moseley Commission. The fact, that American engineers could solve the problems, in the Kimmerly mines, that baffled the English engineers, made Prof. Foster wonder if the fault was not in the English system of education. The commission is composed of the leading educators of England and is supported by Moseley, who was an associate of Cecil Rhodes in South Africa. Their first object was to study the American educational system with references to industrial art alone. It has provided until it now studies all phases, and the special object of Prof. Foster's visit here is to study the English department.

"Our business," said Prof. Foster, "is not to criticise American methods, but in the light of what we see here to criticise the English, and to make known in our report the changes we deem good.

One thing that has impressed as being typical of the American is the ability to understand and grasp all great movements. Boslon I found a French class who could not conjugate 'avoir,' said Prof. Foster, "which nevertheless understood fully what the French language stood for. In England the class could have conjugated every regular verb, but would have known only the dates of that great period in French history, "if that much.

"One great fault of the English system," said the speaker, "is that both student and teacher are fettered with examination.

The teachers who give the most examinations are those who are failures in youth."

IN HONOR OF FOSTER

President and Mrs. MacLean will entertain the heads of the departments of languages at a seven o'clock dinner this evening in honor of Professor Foster. On day evening they will entertain the Political Science department, and Professor Foster will read a paper.

Endowment of Athletics

The endowment of athletics is again being agitated. This time it is by the University of Chicago. It is doubtful if such endowment will foster amateurism. It is practical only for the large colleges. More, it is doubted by many whether it will not tend to make greater the evil which it aims to overcome.

Baseball Season

Never before has there been as many football songs composed and sung, as this year. Many of them had real merit too. This is as it should be. A college without songs and yells is no college, and the football season is one time to practice them. The one memory that is clearest, and binds strongest to the alma mater, is that of the old college songs and yells.

LITERARY CHAT

The November number of "Interest," one of the leading dental journals of the United States, contains a very elaborate article on the effects of month breathing, by Dr. William J. Brady. The article is illustrated with twenty-two cuts. It is one of the most complete reviews of the subject yet published, and is attracting much attention in the dental world, as it is both original and interesting. From the progress shown in this work, Dr. Brady will undoubtedly soon rank among the leaders of orthodontia.
