ILLINOIS WILL BE A HARD PROPOSITION

Iowa Can Win if the Team Plays Its Best—If the Team Loses We Will Lose

Iowa's chance of winning against Illinois depends on the variety playing the game it can play. If the team plays the game it has played in practice the past two weeks, Iowa will win.

Such work as was done in the Simpson game will mean Illinois victory by ten points at least. A duplicate of the work done is all a team will need to maintain an Illinois victory by forty points. The Iowa team has been going along through its games this season, playing about one in three as it was trying. Saturday comes the third game and the varsity ought to make good. Not so good as it would have been able to make if it had continued its improvement after the Drake game and worked steadily. Nor even so good as it could have made if it had recovered from the Nebraska game and played the game, it could as well have played against Simpson and Missouri. But still a very good game can be played by the team and Saturday is practically its last chance.

Whatever the varsity does in the Illinois game Saturday will put a mark upon the season. If it wins, the season will end in complete success, if it losses is comparative gloom, considerations lesser gloom than last year it is true, but it was because the varsity had it in its defeat of Missouri.

ILLINOIS MUST BE DEFEATED

Every student must be a rooter. Every man must do his part. The Illini must be downed Saturday.

Dr. C. E. Searshore will lecture at Garner, today and at Clear Lake, Friday. Both lectures are numbers in a university extension course.

Eeds will meet in the Physics lecture room Saturday evening. John Ebbott, D. G. Johnson and Jens Christensen will partake in the program.

Prof. R. Shimelle has gone to New Mexico to finish the field work in the desert begun last summer by Prof. Ebbott and Prof. Macbride. On his return he will speak, November 27, at Wint, Kansas on "The Practicalities of Higher Education."

Prof. Macbride will discuss posterity and deserts at a meeting on the same day.

Talbot Gives to Museum

The university museum is in receipt of a rare specimen in the shape of a Sooty, a duck which is hardly ever seen in Iowa, let alone saved for a collection. The donor is Mr. Talbot of Des Moines City, who at one time gave the museum a very valuable collection.

New Corals for Museum

Professor C. C. Nutter has recently undertaken to report on the flexible corals collected on the government expedition to Alaska. Iowa's museum, which is one of the very best in the west, will be fortunate in receiving the first series of duplicates coming from this collection. The university's collection of corals is already a good one and this addition will be quite a prize.

Conference of Educationists

A conference of college and secondary education, which will be held in Des Moines, November 20, several university men will appear on this program. President Maclean will preside and F. C. Ensign, Professor of Iowa College will state the purposes of the conference Prof. Bolin will give some facts regarding entrance requirements and Dr. J. F. Brown will present the report of the committee on uniform high school course of study in English.

The competitive shoot for the commandant's medal was held this afternoon on the university grounds.

President and Mrs. Maclean will entertain the children of the faculty and administration of the students' party.

Prof. Potter is spending his week inspecting the schools in the southern part of the state and Miss Hoffman is in charge of his classes.

Mrs. William Hebers and daughters Miss Ogas and Lillian Hebers of Davenport will attend the Iowa-Illinois game Saturday and visit with the former's son, Henry Hubers of the college of 1895.

John H. booth, the winner of the Drake Oratorical Contest, has been charged with plagiarism. The authorities substantiated the charge and required him to return the prize money and make a public acknowledgement. His oration "The Sublimity of Conviction" in parts closely paralleled passages in "Portraits and Principles."

The coroner's verdict in the Purdue special train wreck was announced today. It practically exonerates all officials of the Big Four, except for their chief train dispatcher of the Chicago division, at Kansas, Illinois. who, the coroner said, was no more to the Indianapolis yard master, "the engineer," than the recreate trains are held blameless.

Clifford V. Fox '01, L. W., has been re-elected to the Iowan board for the past two years and been an enjoyable feature of the paper. The Iowan is now in the front pages of the daily papers and all alumni should subscribe for it. I look forward to its arrival with pleasure.

The sample of the Iowan sent me interested me and recalled many pleasant memories which we sometimes forget after we have left the University and re· moved to some neighboring state and actively engaged in business.

An Appeal to Mr. Weatherman

Oh! please Mr. Weatherman won't you turn on the hot air. What's the matter with your furnace? If you haven't got the price to buy the coal, we will gladly furnish it. You seem to have had it in for us most of the year, but if you will help us next Saturday, we will forgive the past. Don't you know that this is no football weather? You had better get a book on football etiquette, and find out what is the proper thing for you to do on such occasions. Just loosen up a little in the next two days and we will be yours truly—the football men of the middle west.

Bits of Old Gold

The Recessional, to Date

(To Apologize to Rudyard Kipling)

Praise of the pigskins knows forever;

Ghosts of the far-famed Rugby lines;

Upon whose ears the victor's cheer

I cadence like the vixen's wince—

Come, help us clear away this fret;

And ask why—why?—the axe, the axe, the axe!

The teapot and the shooting rail;

The padded warriers stand apart;

Their tyro, and a thousand thousand eyes;

There grows an eagerness at heart;

I challenge you not you forget;

Wlll she 'em yet?—Wlll she 'em yet?

Old Illiotes boasts host to day;

Bright eyes, enthusiastic's here;

But lo, her hope of yesterday,

Will she 'em yet?—Wlll she 'em yet?

OurCreating victim's heart is set—

Wlll she 'em yet?—Wlll she 'em yet?

Poor souls who strive to put their trust In glorious deeds of long ago.

The result are built on crumbling dust;

They have not reckoned with their fate,

But wait—for them a single word—

Their mercy on the vanquished, Lord—
