A valiant band of players were the 1903 varsity men, and an excellent record they made.

Working under handicaps that placed them a month behind the other conference teams in development, they played their games with fine spirit and at the close of the season, they were an eleven well up in the list of the leading western teams.

STEADY IMPROVEMENT

The record of their games is one of steady improvement. The first three games, those with Cornell, Chicago and State Normal, were played in mud and rain which prevented the true form of the team from showing itself.

The Drake game was marked by good playing.

In the Minnesota game, the team was slarg-struck. In the second half, however, Iowa played a fair game.

In the Grinnell game, the team played a fair game, considering the bettered condition of the players after the Minnesota contest.

It was the judgement of many who saw the Nebraska game, including Ralph Hoagland, the referee, that Iowa played a poor half, but lost through hard luck. Coach Reavis of Iowa Hawkeyes played a fine game, every man of them.

The Simpson game was won by a good score, the visitors played a good game.

The trip to Missouri was hard, but that team won the game by a fair score.

The Illinois game was the climax of the Iowa season. For this game, the team was prepared. It had developed into its true form and it out-played the Illini in every department of the game. Illinois had a strong team, and she played with desperation, but she did not have the team that could defeat Iowa.

The season closed with the game with Washington University at St. Louis. The team played a good game against the Missourians.

The victory over Washington closed the season with a record of ten games played, eight won and two lost; one conference game won and one lost; all the state games won; two of the inter-state games won and two lost.

In the two games that Iowa lost, she was credited by the victors with playing bravely and accepting defeat gracefully. In every game that she won, she was credited with winning fairly and by merit. In every game that she played she was credited with playing a clean, sportsman-like game.

These are the reasons that Iowa is proud of her 1903 team, and of every member of it.

THE MEMBERS OF THE TEAM

Capt. George Harry Coulthard, of Missouri Valley, played this year the best game of his excellent four years' service at Iowa. Captain Coulthard received his preliminary education at Woodbine Normal. In 1900 he played tackle and halfback, in 1901 fullback and tackle, in 1902 tackle and end and in 1903 left end.

Fred Wm. Schwinn, of Wilton Junction, left tackle, played his first football this year. He was prepared for college at William Academy.

Louis Patrick Donavan, of Eagle Grove, left guard, is one of the old players on the team. He has many times broken through the opposing line to tackle the runner. He was prepared for the university at Eagle Grove high school.

Albert C. Johnston, of Ida Grove, center, was sub-guard last year. He completely out-played half of Missouri's front line Iowa this year.

Walter L. Atkinson, of Charlesville, right guard, is one of the developments of the year. He played halfback last year. This year he has been playing an excellent game, outplaying Captain Rodegeb of Illinois against whom he was pitted in the game with the Illini. He was prepared at Clarkeville high school.

Earle McGowan, of Clear Lake, right tackle, has achieved a wide reputation for strong, spirited playing. He played tackle last year. He was prepared at Clear Lake high school.

H. B. Watters, of West Liberty, right end, concluded his football playing this year. He was an end on the '99 and '00 teams and an end and halfback on the '01 team. He was prepared at the Iowa City College.

Dwight M. Griffith, of Iowa City, quarterback, comes from the race of Iowa football players. He played quarterback in '01 and '02. He was prepared at the Iowa City high school. He is probably the best football player on the team, his only weakness being his light weight.

Frank B. Allen of Harlan, left halfback, showed this year that he has great possibilities as a football player. He played brilliantly in the Illinois and Washington games. He was prepared at Harlan high school.

Nyle W. Jones of Iowa Falls, right half back, has been the star player in most of the games this year. He played quarterback in '01 and '02. He was prepared at Iowa Falls high school and Ellsworth college. He has been unanimously elected captain for 1904.

Fred Bradley of Shelby, fullback, played his third season at Iowa this year. In 1901 he played halfback and in 1902 tackle and halfback.

The Annual Meeting of the Fellowship of the Faculty was high.

The football played in the west this fall was ranked well with that played in the east. In a few years no doubt the two systems of playing will be pitched against each other and then each will no doubtfind defects in their system.

We can look forward to the 1904 season on the gridiron, with an assurance that the old gold will be well up the line among the conference teams.

In Nyle W. Jones, Iowa will have a captain who will play ball all the time.

The Conference Meeting

Col. Burnett, Iowa's representative at the conference meeting at the Chicago Beach hotel last week, was very cordially received by all the other delegates. The conference delegates congratulated Col. Burnett upon Iowa's excellent wind-up of the season, for although conference influence does not displace upon winning or losing games, it is pleasing to see a university which is such a leader in promoting athletic purity as Iowa, also successful in her games.

The results of the conference meeting were highly satisfactory to Iowa. The residence rule for graduate students was the proposition to which Iowa was opposed. It was defeated. The other propositions were disposed of in a manner highly satisfactory to Iowa.

American college men play football with intense seriousness. They put their whole soul into it. The seed of the season game which every college has, is filled with their hopes and expectations. To win is glory and honor: to lose is humiliation. He differs from the English things man, who plays a slow game and gets what fun he can out of it. The reason for this difference is in the blood. It is but another phase of the spirit that has made America and Americans leaders.

There is much in the football record of which we can be proud. We started easy and gradually gained. There was a steady progress in the work of the team, and though our hopes sometimes went low, still we ended the season with victory on our standards. With new men, new coach, and few plays, we made a better record than last year.

Excellent Athletic Outlook

A winter of basketball and indoor track has been a spring of track and basketball work, a summer in which some of the best athletes will compete at the Olympic games at St. Louis, then comes the football season once more.

The football season of 1904 will be an exciting one. The work will be taken up again next fall next year. He finds many fine games offered him, so many that it may be difficult to get in all the games he would like to play. Minnesota and Illinois will be among the games to be played, and Iowa is now under contract to play Nebraska at Lincoln. Other excellent games have been offered, the necessity of working hard to be able to make right tackle.

Two sets of tackles will be necessary as well as two ends and two backs.

The positions open for new candidates thus foot up to: two ends, four tackles, one guard, one center, two quarterbacks, two halfbacks and one fullback. These are not necessarily all

ALL LOOK TO IOWA

There is a general expectation that Iowa will turn out some very good teams this year. As this year, you have played a magnificent team, with the exception of the next two talents, that Iowa will turn out some

WINTER WORK

The athletic work this winter will be largely indoor track work and basketball. Basketball will be played at Clove Hall, and the armory will very probably be rented for the track work. The cross country runs this last fall developed some excellent material for the track team. Jefferis will be one of the best of the new men. His record on the four mile course last season was the best that has been made in cross country work in the state.

BASEBALL STRONG

A strong baseball team will probably be seen on Iowa field next spring. All but two of last year's team are back, and a fine one, if the manager is not satisfied, perhaps another will try for the team.

CHAMBERS

Iowa will not be back. Coach Chambers has been chargé of the training of the team.

IOWA CONGRATULATED

Iowa was congratulated by the other members of the conference at the Chicago meeting last week upon her excellent work in the state. Most of the state games are now played under conference rules, a highly desirable condition, and one which does much for athletic purity in the state.

IOWA'S EXCELLENT RECORD

"The University of Iowa has made an excellent record in athletics the past five years," said a prominent athletic authority in conversation the other day. "In '98, I believe, she pulled together at the end of the season and defeated Nebraska's. You. Dr. Keipe the two following years had the champion eleven in the west. In '03 the loss of your captain by a very close, technical ruling, prevented success and the next two years the Iowa team of 1904 will be the peer of any of the teams next year, and the current football Missouri may come to Iowa to play. The usual number of 1903 positions this year will be made up again next fall. Iowa ends, four tackle, one guard, one center, two quarterbacks, two halfbacks and one fullback. These are not necessarily all

Next year two of the 1903 team will not be back. Coach Chalmers is now acquainted with all the needs of this year's squad, and the squad knows something of Coach Chalmers' system. The team which was at the beginning of the 1903 season a green team is now a team of veterans. They will do things in 1904.

THE 1904 CAPTAIN

Nyle Jones, the new captain, is one of the best spirited men who has been captain at Iowa for some time. During the dark days a year ago, he was a bright spot. This year he has been a star, and may be depended upon to make the All-Western in another year, because he will have a willing team to back him up. Playing a back field position, with the confidence and admiration of the players, he is the best choice that could have been made for the position. His unanimous election is proof of this.

FIVE SCHEDULE NEXT YEAR

Manager Spangler is now at work preparing the schedule for the hard games two weeks apart makes the arrangement of all on the schedule a matter of time and negotiation. The Illinois game will be played on Iowa field. Missouri may come to Iowa field next year, and Iowa has an option of playing Washington University at St. Louis during the fall.

The usual number of state games will be taken on, possible one more, a midwest game for the second week of the season.

SPLENDID OUTLOOK

"The outlook for next year is about the finest it could be," said Captain Jones today. "We will have a strong good team, a team that can be depended upon to win a majority of conference games. I have a feeling that we will be strong enough to win them all, which would mean that we would come up to the times of '99 and '00 when we defeated everything in the west."

PLACES OPEN FOR NEW MEN

"There will be a goodly number of places open to new men next year. The two old ends, Capt. Couthird and Waters, will not be back. Roy Buckley will probably try for end instead of tackle which will leave tackle position open. Left-guard, center and quarterback are positions which may be made by well equipped, strongly determined candidates. A good heavy candidate should

At Iowa, Coach Chalmers has come to be known as a thorough teacher of the game. He devotes a great amount of time to instructing his candidates in the rudiments of the game. The results of his work were seen in the Illinois game, where the Hawkeyes met a team that had not been instructed from the ground up.

Coach Chalmers was hand- capped at Iowa this year by lack of the best material, by the refusals of some of the candidates to come back for early training and by the necessity of teaching a different system from that of his predecessor.

These conditions place Iowa about a month behind the other teams in development. By the latter part of the season, however, Coach Chalmers' work was rewarded by the team's fine showing.

THE BEST AT IOWA

IOWA PROFESSOR AUTHORITY

"One Iowa principal traveled 1,000 miles to a noted institution where he expected to do some special work in a given line. He was surprised when his professor announced that the best authority on that subject was a professor in the State University of Iowa, whose writings on the subject would form the basis for the term's work."

We are convinced that at least three fourth of the teachers who go to the larger schools for their summer's study could do far better work in our own state schools.

"An Iowa educator remarked recently: "I spent four summers in succession in Chicago University. Last summer I had occasion to visit our own state university. I was surprised to find that Dr. Bolton, Dr. Brown and the other professors at work during the summer, were doing work that was superior to that given in similar classes at Chicago."

"IOWA NOT EXCELLED"

"Our own professors are quoted as authorities in their lines, and they should be recognized as such by the teachers of their own state. We heard a professor in the State University of Wisconsin say: "The best authorities on these subjects in the United States are Dr. Patrick and Dr. Shaw of the State University of Iowa." And there sat under the sound of his voice fifteen Iowa students who had traveled hundreds of miles to learn that their own state had a university with a faculty that is not excelled anywhere in the lines of work they attempt to teach.

"Let us be more loyal to our own state institutions. As principals and superintendent we should investigate our own in any city or state, and send students into other states where they will get no better schooling than they have secured at home. Our State University should have the same fame as the famous school of 500 next year, instead of 200."

"The State of Iowa now export our teachers, while many states import them."

The balance of trade should be in our favor. We should be loyal to Iowa institutions, give them our patronage, and help them to come into such prominence that students will flock across our borders to get the benefit of our educational institutions.

Editor Iowaan:

I enjoy the Iowan as a herald of my University home. I especially note the high moral tone of your editorials and the freedom from criticism of defeated Iowa enterprises, where the men have done their best to uphold their university's honor. I trust you may see the time when athletic and oratorical contests may be as certain victories as are those in debate.

I enjoy Yale immensely and in many respects surpasses the younger institutions of the west, but I am glad that I spent my college days at Iowa.

Very cordially,

Ira T. Hawk.
