FRESHMAN PARTY

PULLED OFF IN SPITE OF SOPHOMORES

There was plenty of scrap- ing however—Freshman strategy failed.

After a delay of more than a week the freshman class held its annual party at home. The freshman assurance that it was a bowling success but the sophomores are in no way willing to admit this. At any rate, the party was given, it was well attended, and the freshman declare that they had a good time.

There was the usual amount of scraping but the fight was a good natured one and there were no injuries reported. In the failure of the freshmen to get a ball down town the party was given at a private house at 110 North Capital St. Most of the scraping took place in the vicinity of that place.

Not all of the freshman who started to the party succeeded in getting there. The young women were permitted to go into the house, the young men were too fortunate. Willing hands seized them as they approached the house and transported them to a dark cave or how odd it was not far distant. Here they were made to do "scouts" to the amusement of the upper classes.

The sophomores did not have things all their own way, however. A large number of the Freshman young men succeeded in forcing their way into the house where they made merry until early this morning. There was music, dancing, games of all sorts and an elegant three course lunch.

A little piece of strategy which the Freshman attempted to play was not wholly successful. A secret committee had appointed to arrange for the party and notify secretly each member of the class as to time and place of holding. The word was not circulated until yesterday but the sophomores succeeded in getting hold of it.

The sophomores failed in their attempt to kidnap Thomas Peterman the freshman president, and only succeeded in pulling off the face of a number of freshmen.

Diamonds and Social Position of Lady Crawley All Due to Lord Steyne

In the case of Priarose vs. Thomhill, the court this morning allowed the motion of the defense for a more specific statement as to what constituted the alleged force. The rest of the former was taken up in the examination of the plaintiff's witness, Rev. E. Dougaher, giving it the beginning of his cross-examination.

AN IRELAND GENTLEMAN

The witness gave as his profession that of an Irish gentleman. He had been traveling in Europe collecting material for a book on international law and while in Brussels met the Crawleys. To him they appeared to be a happy couple. He says he was not surprised when Captain Crawley was ordered to war.

"At first Lady Becky shed tears," said the witness, "then seeing the uselessness of it she cheered up.

"I met them afterwards in Paris, and remember Lady Crawley going to England to compromise some claims."

HECKY RUSH HOUSEHOLD

The witness re-enforced the statements made by Garretson that Lady Crawley ordered all the necessaries for the household. He was told by Sir Rawdon to keep his head about him; and at that Rawdon's parties, Rawdon said while Steyne and Lady Becky were playing and entertaining.

The witness told of the time when Lady Crawley slapped her little brother to be upon her and Lord Steyne. The boy said that it was not the slap but that his mother would sing for Steyne and not for him that hurt.

The witness said that Steyne always tried to impress his social position upon Lady Crawley.

STEYNE PRIZED BECKY

"As a party given by Lord Steyne was heard in the Thames, that Lady Becky would be upon his head about him; and at that Rawdon's parties, Rawdon said while Steyne and Becky were playing and entertaining," said the witness.
