A THOUSAND VOICES UNITE TO CHEER THE OLD GOLD

The man who said there was no college spirit at Iowa moved uncomfortably in his seat last night. The Iowa City climate was just a little too warm for him.

To say last night's mass meeting was enthusiastic would be like shooting at an elephant with a toy pistol. The students who never raised their voices to cheer as Iowa team and who came only to look out on last night got into the game and before it was all over were yelling like mad men. The band played only sweet music, faculty members made speeches: Football men made short speeches of recognition and the students cheered again. They cheered first; they cheered between lines and they cheered last. The liberal arts auditorium was as lively as a restaurant.

And for what?

"Aimes must be defeated." The students breathed it; the band played it; the members of the engineering faculty, wearers of the red and white, repeated it. A spirit of enthusiasm manifested by the students last night is a prediction that such a spirit would help the team to victory Saturday afternoon. They closed by exhorting the students to manifest a spirit of sportsmanship at the game, win or lose.

Then Walter M. Davis, the alumni member of the board of athletic control made a reasing speech commending the increased manifestation of university spirit among Iowa students and alumni.

Professor Rockwood then made a witty talk and also Professor Testers, dean of the college of pharmacy. Dr. Chase, of the medical faculty declared that the Iowa winning team had been predict- ed that Iowa would win Saturday. Then the football team entered the auditorium and was seated in the front row. It was an unwise pre-arranged, the men had been holding a little meeting last evening to a football lecture by Coach Chalmers upstairs and on their way down they were direct ed into the hall. Their ad- dress was greeted with prolonged and enthusiastic cheers. The students began calling for Cap tain Jones and he finally respond ed, saying that the Iowa men would no their best to win Satur day afternoon with the aid of such rooters as he was to be there last night. He closed with calling for nine "rabs" for the scrubs and they were hastily given.

McGowan was then called on and he made a happy response. Then the other players were called on in their order, Dwight Griffith, Chalmers, Alkerace, Schwinn, "Cresco" White, "Finn" White, Straub, Stoutenburg, Lee, Rockwood, Kent, Murphy, Knappe, Jordan, and Valerius. Moore was not there because of his in jur ed ankle.

The mast meeting

And who will say that Iowa hasn't spirit now?

Last night's mass meeting was a revelation to every student and faculty member who attended. It was such because there was a spirit manifested that had never been shown before; there was enthusiasm there that had never been seen before. The crowd was more than the auditorium could accommodate and the noise was enough to scare Ames into stage fright.

And why?

Because everybody pulled together. Everyone realizes that "Ames must be defeated" and they started in last night to do it. If the job is completed in the same manner, all the forests of Iowa will not be sufficient to provide wood for Iowa's bonfire tomorrow night.

Last night's meeting should be an example. It shows what can be done when we want to get together. The students could have felt proud to have any alumnus there to hear them.

Iowa is going to win tomorrow.

Last night's manifestation settled it all. We are pulling together now.

Competitive Run

The first competitive coast run of the country will take place tomorrow morning at 10 Volck. The members of the squad which will make the run will leave the club quarters at 9 a.m. from the old medical building and the course will be four miles into the country. This will be the first of two competitive runs which will be conducted by the club this fall, the other to come two weeks later. Prizes of handsome sweaters will be awarded the three best men. The freshman making the best showing will also get a sweater.

Iowa has some cross country stars this year. Jefferson is looked upon as a probable winner although Remley and several others have given him a hard run.

Work Progressing

Work on the several university buildings now under construction is progressing with great rapidity. The foundation work of the center and south wing of the science building is practically completed and the erection of the iron structural work has been begun. The grounds work will be entirely completed before winter sets in.

The gymnasium is now practically enclosed. The stone cornerstone work on the front towers is being put into place. The frame work for the gallery and running track is also being constructed. As soon as the building is entirely enclosed and the windows put into place the finished floor will be put down. This will be done inside of a month.

A series of seats will be erected around the floor of the gymnasium under the balcony and running track.

Basketball Team Will Get to Work at Once—The Gymnasium

Arrangements have been made by the basketball management to use the gymnasium in Close Hall for basketball practice until the new university gymnasium near the athletic field is ready for occupancy. Practice will begin at once and a good sized list of candidates is expected to report for work. It is not probable that any games will be played until the new gymnasium is done.
