PLAY TEAM OPENS SEASON ON HOME FIELD

UNANIMOUS DECISION FOR NEBRASKANS

Iowa Men More Mature and Polished and Nebraskans More Vigorous

Last Friday evening at Lincoln High School Field, the first two games of the Nebraska-Iowa series were played.

The decision of the judges was unanimous in favor of the Iowans, the Nebraskans. The question, if decided by the pictures and benefited by the Iowa men read as follows:

Resolved: That the second season of the series, which is the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution should be repealed.

The contest was won right from the start by the friendly feeling existing between the two teams, which carried with it the praise of the judges. "Iowa City" says in part: "The debate was territorially close and the Iowa boys were lucky to be proud of their representatives. Beyond question, they got up the hardest fight Nebraskans have yet faced. It was merely a question of whether the judges would accept Iowa's analysis of the question for Nebraskans. No one here was conversant with the arguments for Nebraska, and there would have been little agreement with a different verdict. The Iowa men were somewhat more mature and cautious in their manner of delivery than the Nebraskans, who have been more vigorous in their attack."-

The Forum Ross of the Nebraskan University expressed himself heartily with the judges, who said, "The contest was not as clear a test as had been expected, but the judges were satisfied with the quality of the delivery. That trade unions are justified in demanding the closing of the mines." - The debate will be decided by the judges.

The Nebraska debate team consists of Joseph Wieb, graduate of the college of liberal arts, 1904, and member of Phi Beta Kappa. The University has been awarded a fellowship in Germany at the University of Leipzig, which carries with it a stipend of $500.00. Wieb is studying at the University of Leipzig, where he takes his masters degree here this year and will schedule for a second year in German at Pennsylvania.

Mr. H. W. Scallon, L. 05 who graduated from school since the end of the first semester is again in school.

The Iowa debating team met Nebraska in debate and by the decision of the judges lost by a unanimous vote. That the judges should have reached a decision totally reversed would not have surprised anyone who heard the debate. The two teams slid by each other in analysis and did not clash. Of necessity the decision must have been unanimous one way or the other. This information was obtained from members of the debating team but from a Nebraska alumnus.

The debaters themselves received their defeat with grace and are putting up no hard fight story. They were chosen to represent the university, win if they could, but first of all to be worthy representatives of Iowa. Of their gentlemanly conduct and the high quality of argument advanced by them, the Daily Nebraska jubilantly says: "We may well be proud of our representatives who last night defeated by unanimous decision the representatives of a college which has made such an enviable record in the debating world of the middle west. Especially pleasant it is to know that the contest was characterized by the most friendly feeling and we hope that the relations in debate between Iowa and Nebraska will not be disconnected with this debate" 2.

President and Mrs. Maclean have been spending their vacation in the east.

AMUSEMENTS

Paul Gilmore's reputation has been won by intelligent, refined and artistic dramatic work, and is a sort that is required in the portrayal of the character of Lord "Jack" Lomley in "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," in which Mr. Gilmore is announced to appear here soon. So difficult of portrayal is this part considered that not two other actors besides Mr. Gilmore have essayed it—Sir Charles Wyndham and Mr. Joseph Drew. That Mr. Gilmore's interpretation of the role is the work of the finished artist can be testified to by all who saw him play it last season. Local theatre-goers were so well con gratulated that his manager, Jules Marry, decided to revive Mr. Gilmore in it this season.
