CONCENTRATING MILL TO BE USED BY MINING ENGINEERING MEN

Machinery Has Arrived From Joplin, Missouri and is Being Put Up

A model concentrating mill for the use of the students of the department of mining engineering, has been arrived at and is being unloaded from the cars. The mill is used in the mining industry, for the purpose of separating the ore from the rock and is operated with the aid of a water wheel. Ordinary concentrating mills are 10 feet high. The model which is being installed here is one fourth the size of a regular mill and has the capacity of the mill, which was operated by the students of the Missouri School of Mines, at the St. Louis exposition.

After passing through the mill, the ore first passes through three sets of crushers. If it is then taken by a second mill which is a course through which it passes. Next it passes through a second mill and a third mill which take out the coarse rock. The fine rock and ore finally go to a slimer for another separation.

The mill will be a valuable acquisition to the equipment of the mining engineering department as it will enable the students to carry on their work of ore dressing and also acquaint them with the practical side of mining.

Meet Remains at Chicago

The conference committee which was in Chicago yesterday decided to meet in conference with students at Chicago University to hold a meeting on the 22nd. The application of Michigan to hold the meetings on Ferril Field at Ann Arbor was declined. Michigan representative was emphatic in his request for a change of place alleging that when the conference was organized it was the intention to change the place of the meeting from the city. The committee, however, decided that Chicago was the more convenient and satisfactory location.

A change will very likely be made in running the preliminaries. Last year on account of the large number of entries it was necessary to run some of the preliminaries outside the city, but this year, as it is expected the number of entries will be open this year to every college in the country that compiles with the rules of the conference and a larger number of contestants is expected the preliminaries may be run off on the preceding day. Iowa will send a team.

Conclusion of A Model Concentrating Mill.

Professor Roy T. Wells delivered an instructive and entertaining lecture on "Electric Machines" at the meeting of the engineering society in the Physics hall Thursday evening. The lecture was well received and the course was illustrated by appropriate stereopticon views.

BONELESS MEATS

IOWA CITY AND COE TO MEET ON IOWA FIELD

First Game of the Season—Make Up of Iowa Nine Uncertain

Iowa and Coe will cross bats Saturday afternoon on Iowa Field. The game will be the first one of the season. The Iowa squad has been working for some time under the guidance of Coach Chalmers and the men are in prime shape. Notwithstanding this fact it is impossible to say, at this writing, what names will be on the personnel of the Iowa nine. Competition between the different candidates for the May 1st, and the ball season been and is so easy to decide who will be best fitted for the pieces.

Some of the men are also tentatively barred from participating in intercollegiate games on account of deficiencies in their health. This also is a cause for the uncertainty of the make up of the Iowa nine. The Coe line up will be eligible as soon as the deficiencies are made up and it is safe to say that they will play in later games.

When seen this morning Coach Chalmers said that he did not know who will fill the nine positions tomorrow. It is probable although not certain, that a number of the candidates will be over trained.

It was learned today that Coe has filed charges of protest against eight of Iowa's best men, alleging that they received money for work done during the summer. The charges were made that the men charged signed the eligibility papers on the assumption that they were given to verify them. All the men charged have signed the eligibility papers and are now in line for the committee on eligibility when that body meets to investigate the charges. The members of the committee had not met at the time of this writing but will meet sometime before the game tomorrow.
