Food for the Football Fans.

Reflecting on a Crushing Defeat and Prophesying a Brilliant Turn of Luck. The Hawkeyes received a terrible drubbing at the hands of Chicago Saturday. Stagg's men had been apparently eating up Iowa and served the bitter dose in good style. It remains to be seen that there was something in the rumor that Chicago played meddled mediocre ball with Beloit and Wabash and saved up a surprise for the first "Big Nine" Minnesota.

Chicago played in whirlwind form while Iowa was still trying to get in a game in poor shape, could not withstand the terrific onslaughts of its heavier opposition. Last year Iowa was not worn out in the last half, and this year made its stiffest defense in the second half. Last year the score of the first half was 4 to 0 and this year 36 to 6. Last year, however, the Hawkeye team of Chicago played the first half, while the veterans started in the first half for Chicago this year. The length of first half and the temperature had a great deal to do with Iowa's poor showing, while the physical condition of several of Iowa's men made the team very much weaker than would have been the case otherwise.

Last year heat cost us nearly as bad and Chicago is said to have a faster team than last season's. Iowa has the same men she had last and is therefore about the same. Chicago's long runs showed Iowa to be very weak in defense and tackling of men. The score, however, does not mean very much at all as to Iowa's standing in the "Big Nine". It is too early in the season to make many conclusions in that direction. It is moreover certain, though, that Iowa was more weathered by the Minnesota game two weeks hence. Iowa has the weight and all the men ought to be in condition to battle gallantly within two weeks.

Last season, Iowa had been badly defeated by Chicago several weeks before and ingloriously vanquished by the Illini the week previous to the Minnesota game. Iowa's men were not in very good condition and several were not of the game, but the Hawkeyes put up the best game of football with the Gophers that was seen the whole season, and was the lowest score of her football season and Iowa not only surprised the Minnesota team, which played all its men (and they did their best, too), but surprisingly the "right" and others.

Minnesota is undoubtedly weaker than Iowa, and the result of the game of so many of her best men this year, Iowa held Minnesota last year and she can do it again. If she takes the same bracket she did last season.

Iowa's performances with the freshman nine were severe but not as severe as the result of Saturday ought to have been expected. We were a little too over-confident, as to what our team would do today.

Iowa has been defeated for several years now at the hands of the Maroons but there is a time coming when not many years off, when Iowa will make the Chicago team look as foolish as they did in 1900.

Iowa must certainly do her best to hold Minnesota at Iowa, and help boost the team on to another virtual victory as that of Thanksgiving Day, 1904.

COE HOLDS HESTON'S MACHINE.

One of the surprises of the present football season was the game at Coe against Saturday, when Coe College scored on Drake University. The first half looked very cautious for the Christians, but the Presbyterians with strong arms and legs, won the game.

In the second half, however, Drake's weight told on the gritty Coe-liners and capturing up her score 18 points more making her total score 35 to Coe's 15. Drake could gain but little except in Coe's heavy line several times. In the Coe game, Coe made first down but neither of the fracturites named below shall hint or suggest, or authorize any one to hint or suggest to a student that he will or may be Invited to join any fraternity.

"2. During the rushing season, with the exception of the first week of school, there shall be no rushing after Thursday."

Drake's showing against Coe has been the worst of the three first games of Iowa; Iowa, Ames and Drake. Iowa and Ames have each defeated Coe, 27 to 6, while Drake has beaten the Coe College in 10. If figures don't satisfy anything, the state championship lies between Ames and Iowa, as was the case last season.

Professor Sayre of Kansas university assures the discovery of a poisonous quality which may exist in the hooch, estragous canadensis. This must be due to an associated substance or organism which is foreign to the plant itself. This substance may be of a parasitic nature, of the asadum vegetable kingdom.

In Minnesota university there is talk of starting a school of journalism.

HAYING AT MORNINGSIDE.

At Morningside college the upper classes took a freshman on a wildmelon hunt, having other students hide in the woods, who shot blank cartridges. One of the upper classes pretended to fall dead and the freshman was hurried to the police station and charged by the upper classes with murder. He was almost graced with greatest.

There were many scenes with this George Miller, captain of the football team, and Ralph Heilman, manager of athletics, and two other students were accomplices. The entire football team was on a strike and 500 students are in a state of mutiny.

WILL PROHIBITION PROHIBIT?

Conditions must be serious at Illinois university to demand such drastic legislation as the charming fraternity code of that school has adopted. If it is obeyed there can be no doubt that the sister frats at Urbana will be most orderly in their method of procedure. The dear girls may be different, even in Illinois, from the ordinary sort, but they are to be doubted. If the combined efforts of all the frats in the state, aided by all the preachers, doctors, lawyers, school teachers and policemen who are of that commune, enforcing those rules for forty-eight hours, it is a case for psychologists and biologists. It is a new freak of evolution.

Here are the rules:

1. "Invitations to join a fraternity shall not be extended to students entering the university in the fall of 1905 for the first time, previous to the fourth Tuesday after the university opens.

2. "Previous to this time, no chapmen of the fraternities named below shall hint or in any way suggest, or authorize any one to hint or suggest to a student that he will or may be invited to join any fraternity.

3. "During the rushing season, with the exception of the first week of school, there shall be no rushing after Thursday."

The last half of the game was an entirely different story. The playing was nearly all in Chicago territory, and while Iowa did not score, they twice forced the ball to the fifteen yard line, and once held it on Chicago's ten yard line.

The last half of the game was only fifteen minutes long, and one of the reasons is the same length as the first we surely must have scored as many of our men were in better physical condition than their opponents.

While we are sorry to lose it is no diagram to be defeated by a cyclone of veterans under the direction of one of the greatest coaches in the football world.

Iowa is not conquered this is only a temporary defeat. Just watch us do things to Minnesota.

The Chicago Game.

Some of the General Features That Do Not Appear Upon the Surface.

Iowa’s team was defeated and by a larger score than any one had anticipated. Exactly the cause of such a defeat cannot be given by any one and an estimate can only be one man’s view or a summary of views.

But some of the conditions that are not generally known may help one to realize the situation more fully.

The Chicago men were fourteen pounds heavier than Iowa’s and were veterans in the game. The back field very nearly had the ball out of reach of our men. And yet with these odds against her Iowa forced Chicago to punt constantly. Chicago was held down for first time she received the ball at the opening of the game.

Iowa also made her first down before her opponent and in an exchange of punts Iowa had much in favor as to distance, but Chicago was more successful in returning them back. Time after time the Iowa line was like a wall but luck seemed to be against us. If she fumbled, it was to lose the ball, and while Chicago actually fumbled three times more than Iowa, she more often recovered and made gains.

The last half of the game was an entirely different story. The playing was nearly all in Chicago territory, and while Iowa did not score, they twice forced the ball to the fifteen yard line, and once held it on Chicago’s ten yard line.

The last half of the game was only fifteen minutes long, and one of the reasons is the same length as the first we surely must have scored as many of our men were in better physical condition than their opponents.

IOWA ALUMNI GAME.

Saturday will play one of the best and most interesting football games of the present season. This "Varsity" will line up against the "Old-timers," those who have defended the "Old Gold" on the gridiron in the past. Among the alumni players will be several members of Iowa’s whirlwind team of 1006. Broadway, Warner, Ivy, Little and Eden are expected here for sure and Williams will be here if he can get someone to take his place when his Cornell team plays next Saturday.

Waller has been received from W. L. Herbert, an all-round star end of 1901, that he will be here for the game. Some of the game’s passes set up a strong line-up and a brilliant game is expected.

LET US BE GOOD LOBERS.

If there is anybody that this world delights in it is a good loser. If life at that point was an American, he could not tell the name of the winner. But his chance of coming coupled with his persistence, earned him to the general public, and made him known as the man that had the courage to follow up his best and loses, was worth several hundred races won.

Iowa does not seek to be advertised nor do we want the name of the winner. However, the Daily Princetonian has just printed a list of the new preceptors of that university. They are forty-seven in number and with the exception of twelve who were former instructors at Princeton, all come from outside colleges. Michigan is represented by two former instructors, Edward S. Corwin in the department of history and economics, and Daniel Reed Sturtevant in the department of chemistry.

Dr. Richard Burton thinks the Minneapolis Daily, the official paper at the State university, is not up to the standard of contemporary college papers of the country, and in a lecture at the university yesterday he severely criticized the undergraduate publication. Although he objects particularly to the typographical mistakes in spelling and punctuation that are allowed to creep into the paper, Dr. Burton has said that the Daily was amiable and lacked the dignity and poise maintained by similar publications in the other big institutions of the country. Although many of the Daily editions were at first taken by recent Dr. Burton's remarks in regard to the paper, it is probable that his criticism will result in more careful editing and proofreading by the college journalists. It seems a little queer that a man could find nothing about a university to complain. Poor Dr. Richard Burton must have poor digestion.
MORRIS EXTENSION WORK.
