The general lecture room of the Liberal Arts Hall was full last Wednesday when Prof. C. C. Nutting gave the lecture on "La Jolla," mentioned in our issue of yesterday. Those who were present enjoyed a real treat.

This lecture was given on the occasion of the first public meeting of the President for the ensuing season. The address briefly, setting forth the aims of the fraternity. This support Mr. Robert M. Bantell this season, has been carefully chosen by his major, Mr. William Brady, and the production is a gorgeous one. In fact, it has been the man of the management to make this production the finest on the road this season and there is no doubt but that those who witness this play this evening will be more than satisfied.

BIG GAME TOMORROW.

Old Gridiron Stars Will Play Varsity on Iowa Field.

Tomorrow will be played one of the featured games of the 1905 season. Iowa's alumni will play the "varsity," and a good game is expected. Alumni team will be out this evening, captained by Edson, and Clyde Williams, who got for Iowa the championship of the west, play ball, and many who saw them play in 1904 and 1905 will be here to see them play once more.

The varsity put some time in trying place kicks and field goals last evening in preparation for tomorrow's game. The rest of the time was put in charging the dummy and a complete mixture between the "varsity and scrubs." The probable position in which the men will play:

Edson ................ Quarterback
Edson ................ Center
Johnson ................ End
Williams ................ Guard

A PRETTY PROTRACTED SOUVENIR

Tuesday Niles W. Jones, on behalf of the Athletic Union, presented us with an old gold handkerchief. It is made of sheer cotton and has been finished. These are a pretty souvenir. Why may not all the ladies use one and organize a salute to the football team instead of trying to yell.

IOWA CITY HIGH AND CRE SEC.

As a curtain raiser to the Alhambra game tomorrow night, Iowa City high school will play Cow's second team. This game will begin at 1:30 o'clock. The Iowa City team had a remarkable showing last season, and a good game may be expected. Hazard is captain.
EVERYBODY HAS A CHANGE.

There seems to be a general impression that the daily Iowan has been a representative of school faction. We trust that day is past and that it may represent every true interest of the students and faculty of the State University of Iowa.

If you belong to a society or organization that is not receiving the proper recognition, call and let us know about the situation, and we will attempt to remedy matters. But do not blame about things and then wonder why the Iowan fails to represent your ideas.

If you have news of your friends, let us know of it. It is an impossible thing to visit as many persons and places about the Institution as we would like. Give us your help. If there are society meetings, bring the notice to us, and as long as it is news, we will attempt to accommodate you.

Material for the paper should be brought the day before to insure publication.

Soon we will have a box on the first floor of the Liberal Arts building, where articles may be deposited and received daily.

Let us know what you and your friends are doing.

HIS LIMIT.

I can read more any author if he writes plain English stuff. But to get hold of Schaefer is a little bit too tough. I can even dig out Latin without a stink or frown.—But to come right down to Chaucer—That’s the place where I fall down. I imagine German’s easy if you study hard enough. But when folks smile at Chaucer, it is one too big a bluff. For it’s worse than all the Latin. Or German that we touch; it’s a hash of French and English, Latin, Greek and good old Dutch.

—Orlando.

This writer may not wear long hair or have real poetic feel, but he has plenty of gumption that will carry him over many future troubles.

PICK THE BEST.

Some of the students of the University are not theater goers. Probably the majority do not go often. This class should be discriminatory and choose the best. Fugacity as to time or money or both dictates that only a few evenings in the theater are possible.

As for time, it takes no more of that to attend a first-class attraction than of the middle or poorer kind. It does cost more money, but it is worth it. If you hear a player that is an artist, you have something worth thinking of. There are few of the more discriminating theater goers who were fortunate enough to hear Smith Russell that do not have an exceedingly pleasant recollection of his playing.

The college man or woman should always look for excellence. There are only a few players of national repere. One of these is Robert Mantell, who plays here this evening. Now we are not advising that you go to hear Mr. Mantell. We simply wish to suggest, especially to the younger students, that if you are going to hear a few plays, you will spend time and money to much better advantage on those in which some player of national repere appears.

The class scrap in some form seems to be almost universal in the colleges and universities. The Hatchets, a club at George Washington university, comments as follows on an occurrence of this kind:

"Some people call it brutal; others call it silly, but those who have been through the mill know that it is neither, and will always have a warm regard for the fellow who puts up a good right."--The Hatchet.

If the Dally Iowan reflects truly the life of our State university, the criticisms of some of these people, as they express themselves in this great institution are not positively Christian must be wholly unfounded. Anyone reading the Iowan for September 23 can't fail to be impressed with the vigor and earnestness with which the Young Women's and Young Men's Christian association work is carried on.—North Des Moines Oracle.

A Chicago gambler was asked whether he had any rules of life. He replied: "Yes, I have one. I don't give a fig what happens so long as it doesn't happen to me." That man was an individualist. All of us have met men similar to this one. The devil is a strict individualist. He wastes neither time nor sympathy on the affairs of others. Every person has individual tenacity. Only in so far as he rises above these tendencies and extends his interests to those around him, is he of use in the world. It is evident that no man, however brilliant and polished, is a good collegian unless he takes an active sympathetic interest in every fellow student.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

SOCIETY PROGRAMS.

The Irving program will open with music, followed by a reading by Mrs. Thomas. The debate will be on the question: "Resolved, That the Congress of the United States enact laws restricting the budding of "mail order" houses in the business of small retail dealers." Riley and DeMott will argue the affirmative, and MacMardie and Davidson the negative. The debate will give a speech, followed by the outstanding number of music, Barron will give an oration, "Selling and Morris, and Denham and McGuire will debate the question of lost of these articles are of such value to present and prospective teachers. Each member of the Junior social club reads one of these articles per week, and is prepared to report on it at the weekly meeting of the club at 6:30 on Thursday. These reports are followed by informal discussion by the members of the club and Prof. Bolton. In this way each member of the club, by reading one article each week, gets the benefit of reading done by several other persons and is enabled to keep in fair touch with all the educational matters in current periodicals. The club at present numbers between fifteen and twenty.

AS OTHERS SEE IT.

Iowa has come and gone, and the "Old Man" is no longer afraid. Few people who witnessed the game Saturday could see what there had been to make him worry, for 47 to 9 doesn't look like a very dangerous score, especially when 67 of it is made in the first half, and a team of subs are sent in after 19 to 0.

That is the story of the battle. The Hawkeyes came to Marshall field and met a very good Indiana team, and being a hard struggle. The strongest line-up possible was sent in to represent the Maroons, but it was soon found that it wasn't needed. For a few moments Iowa held and gave promise of a repetition of the 1900 game when Iowa won the championship. Chicago soon took a brace, however, and the visitors weakened. From then on to the end of the half it was a landslide for the Maroons.

At the request of the Iowa coach the second half was shortened fifteen minutes.—Chicago Maroon.
