Alumni News

The April number of the Iowa Alumni was issued from the press last week. This issue contains thirty-four pages of reading matter and in many respects is one of the finest issues ever published by Editor L. W. Pearson. It contains the following features:

Originally a full page cut, but the steady grind has been made, and in its place occupies the remainder of the volume.

Recently, I was looking for a job and was offered a position. I decided to accept it and began attending a course in public speaking. This course was very helpful, as it allowed me to improve my speaking skills and gain confidence in front of an audience.

I had always been a shy person, and I was nervous about the idea of speaking in front of people. However, my instructor, who had a lot of experience in public speaking, was very supportive and gave me a lot of encouragement.

One of the most important things I learned was how to prepare my speeches effectively. I learned that I should always plan my speeches carefully and rehearse them several times before the actual event. This helped me to feel more comfortable and confident when I was delivering my speeches.

Another important lesson I learned was how to handle nervousness. My instructor taught me several techniques that helped me to relax and stay calm during my speeches. These techniques have been very useful to me in my work.

Overall, the course was a great experience. It taught me a lot of valuable skills that I will use throughout my career. I would definitely recommend this course to anyone who wants to improve their public speaking skills.
