I Consider It The Best Proposition In This Part Of The Country

This is the expressed opinion of one of the leading real estate men of Cedar Rapids—and of the state—about the Rundell lot sale. He is an expert. He knows. And if we could only let the people know all about what we are offering, we would not have a single lot left in twenty-four hours.

We offer lots as fine as there are about the city, for $400 each.

These lots are on easy terms—$50 down, balance in two years, no interest, no taxes.

All money received on contracts paid to Johnson County Savings bank, to remain until an electric street car line is constructed and operated to Rundell. Should this not be realized before December 1, 1910, all money is to be repaid by the bank with interest.

Lots about the city, without street car service, no more available or desirable, sell readily at $600 to $1,200.

Can this fail to net you a nice profit? Investigate it. It's the safest real estate offering ever made in Iowa City.

PROFESSORS COMPLIMENTED.

Dear sir, let us endeavor, under our faculty, to raise forth moral educational standards by means of favorable prize exercises throughout the year. Thus not only may they who go out before the public serve to inspire and favor able comments throughout from our exchanges. The Des Moines Tribune, in reporting, Prof. Starkey's results before the Psychology text-books of our Women teachers adds:

"Professor Starkey adds to an acceptable deliver a pleasing succession, which with the admirable manner in which he discussed the subject, gave to his lecture a form and shape that impressed many of his hearers to urge the county superintendent, Teachers, in thought, to have none come again."

Another clipping from the L. E. Student at Ames speaks of Prof. Samuel Calhoun as follows:

"Dr. Calhoun is an interesting speaker and illustrated his address simply with scientific facts. Whether or not the indirect allusions of the indirects would gladly have listened to him for another hour."

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Servant in the House" at Yale

A good deal has been said in the last few months about splitting the drama. In Missouri a law may be passed appointing a center for plays as in England.

When "The Servant in the House" which is to be presented here at the Golden Theater, was given before Yale college at New Haven, Conn. a short time ago, with its present cast, the Register, one of the discerning newspapers of the city, made a number of criticisms about the play and even wrote an editorial on "An Adequate Theatre," in which it said:

"Just now, with Charles Reade's novel's dramatic masterpiece of the century, "The Servant in the House," running at the theater, it is a good time to say these things. To put a pic of this kind on for half a week shows a faith in the good name of the theater-goes of New Haven which is a compliment to them. It ought to be justified by the audience present at the performances. The play represents the highest ideals of the dramatic art, the highest possibilities of the inspiration which the stage can give."

Kividor's Press Notice.

"There are no modern miracles. They have not heard Prizzi Kividor to be, a miracle that a mortal man should be able to get so much work, so much unlimited joy out of a small whale, too known as the tourist."— New York Evening Post.
