George Pefealt, Jr., of Iowa City, and Allen Mackworth, of Spencer, surprisingly upset the Iowa team that above the bridge. Their rife brought Frank Jones, who was paid a places a claim to the end by generative work in finding the girl to shore. The young girl was prostrated by bringing the girl to shore.

Frank Jones, a member of the freshman law class and a vigorous medical student, was especially instrumental in saving a young lady.

This Iowa team had been defeated earlier in the fall.

The third set went to

Micro, and Anderson braced and had have a yell meeting at the girls' club. One of those in charge that the organization has taken a very prominent part in the university musical world but the girl promised big things for this stage. In the first place the club will be greatly enlarged. It is the desire of those in charge that the organization number stand fifty. Judging from the large number now trying out, there will be no trouble in getting the large company together. Of last year's organization there are about twenty girls. These include the more prominent of the girls, two of them also returning from last year. At the meeting yesterday there were over twenty new girls out and there are many more who have shown their intention of trying out.

The girls are determined to run the man's organization a time run in superylne in college circles.

The officers elected yesterday included some of the best players in the state and those who have always done tremendous in club activities.

Under their management and direct control big things will promised and do most materialize.

BUSINESS LOCALS

After the Show, the families, figuring several weeks of unusually well filled engagements, have a week of rest. Until next week, the Colony will remain as far as the public's knowledge goes. The expenses of small time booking having forced ten days of teaching on the local theater gong.

A根据 the arrangement of the interior, attendance records for the past two years and the other considerations, they should return to the children Friday night when "The Flirt's Princess" played to a capacity house composed chiefly of same groups and that in spite of the fact that many social activities tended to reduce the possible attendance upon the production. A forecast of this taking musical comedy printed play which renders unnecessary a review of the best appearance. Suffice it to say that the critics of "Cain's There Are Too Many Girls," and "A Jolly Addle" are being enthusiastically that they attended— and can watch— that Harry Butler's jokes and sets are worked on the stage as they are.

The life of Jonathan P. Drever, the man, the statesman, and the husband, and few could not esteem him. He was certainly one of the greatest men of the century, and his influence in the interests of the cause of peace is incalculable in accomplishing the desired result. I must say, however, that we are agreeing remarkably. I agree with the Iowa students. Not only were they attractive and spirited, but they were generally with the problems. I should regard the Iowa students when I am arranged general in my going to stage."

This Grae Bran, advertised as the beverage equivalent, seeded the small company which preceded the creation of a small firm, the "Star-Gazette" company, in individual houses here Saturday night. The play is not bad, there are some of the plot. There is no doubt of the money and sale. I am sorry that the thing has been in the theatre. The support companies can freely choose.

Tryouts for the teams in the University Drama club take place tonight. Forty candidates will be chosen for the half dozen seasons according to advanced notices, there is a wealth of material from which the club will have to choose and it is predicted that the judges will have no difficulty in picking the best performers.
