Method of Ticket Allotment Decided

About One Hundred and Fifty Aces to the Next Year's Class on Night of Moon

It has been commonly supposed that the new men in the country as far as the university was concerned were confined to the college, but it seems that the Tallentfraternity of all have just been discovered in the college of applied science. It will be admitted that the most difficult problem that has been handed to any set of young men in the university is many a long day is the disposal of the extra tickets for the engineers' show. Well, the problem has been solved. Mr. Byers, who has charge of the distribution of tickets, has concluded that there will be about one hundred and fifty left over after the regular sign-off get their allotment. So the girls of the university will get one hundred and fifty.

They will be distributed at Dean Ania Klinehust's office the evening of the showing of the engineers' show -- absolutely necessary till that night for them. If you fail for them. No young fellow will get more than one ticket, but if two or more young men gather in the class who wish to see it together, tickets will be given out in large quantities to all who desire them. The distribution will be made easier by the fact that the engineers' show will be given the following Saturday night.

Almost all of the seats of the show will be reserved, and no one will be admitted to standing room. There will be only two doors to the building opening next Saturday evening when the show is in progress one of these being the door in the east which opens into the library. This will be the only method of entrance and exit as far as the engineers are concerned. The only seats by which a person can get to the engineers' show is to be entered the building at the above door and pass into the rear of the theater.

Douglas Meeting Draws Many Men

Douglas gave Fine Audience Last Night on "The Will" - No Services Moving

Friday evening Mrs. Byers distributed over a hundred tickets at the sound of the T. Y. G. A. Leutros, who was plain to the point and put the jewel of the price - prize and used it advantageously for the talk. "Mr. Byers told me that this is the last time that any men's society will be able to sell tickets. The new method will hold all the men to possess the wonderful theatre, and we hope to make many things to possess the great prize. Little habits must be given up -- such things as forgetting the time of the performance, forgetting spirit and self-righteousness. The Pearl will rent, but, if the men go to pay for it, the Pearl will not be sold. Mrs. Byers made an excellent impression with her method of address, which was fortified by Miss Alice Clay.

Miss Alice Clay also addressed the group last night. In this service, the men are going to have a neat little booth to see the booth at the start. In this method, the booth has a collection of Joules, of self, and of the individual, and it is evident to the men to move a sense of self-satisfaction and self-spiritiveness in the society of God. Mrs. Byers applied this lesson of olden times to things time; and for this reason, it is absolutely necessary that the

Last night the managers of the Phi-Omega-phi, "Chester in Semin," announced that Miss Elsie Poole, who was the star in the part of "Larry," the professor's interest, will be unable to appear due to illness. She has been very fortunate, however, in securing Miss Carolyn Deeter, who is coaching the play, to assume the role. She has already impressed this point by preparing the piece of the piece, and her ability to accomplish big results is to be desired. Her long experience and talented work together with her natural grace and charm will seal her as the first to "Larry."

Vice President, Secretary Parsons, Dr. C. J. Weir, and others will have with this debate which is refreshing. The whole idea is to take a turn in the debate for which the audience is wholly unprepared.

to mark down and arrange the stock.

During the present month we begin the Rebuilding and Alteration of our entire Store. Commencing with an entirely new front and the installing of New Fixtures and rearrangement of the Store throughout. No limit to the expenditures is made, in order to keep abreast with a growing business that demands greater facilities and increased capacity to serve our customers. For months preparations have been going on. Plans of the architects have been completed only after thorough investigation of every detail that should make this one of the finest stores in the State.

A GREAT QUANTITY OF THE PRESENT STOCK MUST BE DISPOSED OF, to allow the builders to go ahead with the work, necessitating a restriction of room that has made a drastic sale of this kind absolutely imperative. It's a foregone conclusion that only unusually low cut prices will obtain the desired results.

NOTE:--Mr. J. C. Pirath, a Special Sales Manager, has been engaged to conduct the sale. His instructions are emphatic and allow of no half way measure to turn this great amount, ($15,000.00) of merchandise into cash at once.

STOP—and think for a moment what it means when a Store of this kind places a proposition like this before you--where you know every transaction is guaranteed or your money back.
