Fina Arts College Opens in September

When the university opens next September, another college—the college of fine arts—will be in the list which now students have the option of entering. This college was founded last fall but does not go into operation until the next academic year. It was made possible by the donation of the late Mrs. Tanner and the provision of the state board of education.

When the college was founded, Professor C. A. Shryock was placed in charge of the curriculum, and a large number of professors, assistant professors, instructors, one assistant principal, and four graduate students were engaged. The college is located in various departments of the university.

Work was immediately begun upon the organization of the college and completion of buildings. The latter have now been mapped out and will be under the control in the fall of 1913.

Both vocational and general courses in fine arts will be offered. The courses are planned for the students who intend to practice as artists, and as a fine arts professional, while the latter are intended to be broad and thorough training in the humanities. But one cannot choose between art and music—costs will be offered in both.

The entrance requirements of the new college will be the same as those of the old college of liberal arts. The various courses will differ from liberal arts courses, however, in being in a great degree prescribed. Students allowing bad forms, ethics, drawing, decorative design, and letter-rooms. At the south end of the floor is situated a large lecture room. The next room is situated here. The third floor will be devoted to laboratories and classrooms for the various courses.

Many of the boys are anxious to see what the Hawkeyes are going to look like. Since the regiment has been formed, the players have been kept in training, and are expected to place copies of the leather jacket on view, in Townsend's and LaGrange's, and ready for the season. The boys are anxious to meet the players of the Hawkeyes in the spring.

The entire fourth story will be occupied by the college of fine arts, and the rooms are fitted up for studios for life, life classes, and other courses. The rooms are adequate provision for the various courses. The rooms are being used by the various courses.

building. These rooms have been specially lighted and equipped for the work of the department. Minatures containing valuable collections of sects, paintings, and photographs
will be included in the college equipment and these will be exhibited as
the college grows.

Internes Appointed

From this year's senior medical class
the internes for next year have been appointed. There are four internesships and each of these is given to men who have been selected by the hospital committee. The internes are appointed on the basis of the merits of the applicant and the hospital committee's opinion of his merits.

$16,000.00
WORTH of WOOLENS to BE SLAUGHTERED
For Two Reasons---

FIRST---Because we need the money.
SECOND---Because we must reduce our heavy stock, now on hand.

Our recent reduction sale has reduced our stock MANY, MANY Hundreds of Dollars, but we still find ourselves with over $16,000.00 worth of materials, which must be sold.

It is our policy to never carry over a single piece of woolen from one season to the next. We over-stocked ourselves with woolens this Spring, but while the season is still on, we are determined to sell them all.

UNHEARD OF PRICES

It would, however, be impossible for us to quote a full list of reduction prices owing to our tremendously large stock, and every piece of material being a different price, therefore we will quote only the following, merely to give you an idea of the tremendous reduction.
