The March of Mumma's Men

By Hoyt Cooper

(The following is a true story of the Iowa Outfit.)

Now come ye sons of Iowa,
And say what you will,
The victory will soon approach
From out these Iowa hills.

But Capitani your men fall out
Behind these steady ranks.
You steady, brave, Iowa boys.
When the enemy at your rear.

Out! out! our hearts are beating,
How we thought of you, the dead among us 'never should have come.

How hard to tear these freshmen
From out their wide-open arms.
More boys they were—Oh, glory
To take them from the farm.

But some were rescued vrictoriouj-
And the enemy has passed;,
There are those among us young
Who never should have come.

And some are clad in overalls,
To o'er the plain, in blizzards, rain.
Hurrah! the foe is coming,
And we will out and follow him.

Put your hands been
Not from out their camp.
How they been
Both you and I.
And bravely march away.

And as they trudge through frozen
They make the air to rise:
The Sitting of the Grasshopper;
That is the song they sing.

Save one brave lad, young Austin,
A dear old lady took him in.
And he was left within a yard
By men who died and fought;

Half-eaten apples fly;
You're dead, this fight must
And bravely march away.
From out their camp.

Harry Gerhart, that man
On the Iowa hills.
Hark! Hark! the whistle's sounding,
A dear old lady took him in.

He stepped into a gopher's
And bravely march away.
From out their camp.

With the setting sun went down
Along, a lecture. This will probably be
And the enemy has passed.
There are those among us young
Who never should have come.

As Quickly
You're dead, this fight must
And bravely march away.
From out their camp.

A country maid did fan his head,
And the enemy has passed.
There are those among us young
Who never should have come.

Half-eaten apples fly;
You're dead, this fight must
And bravely march away.
From out their camp.

Harry Gerhart, that man
On the Iowa hills.
Hark! Hark! the whistle's sounding,
A dear old lady took him in.

He stepped into a gopher's
And bravely march away.
From out their camp.

With the setting sun went down
Along, a lecture. This will probably be
And the enemy has passed.
There are those among us young
Who never should have come.

As Quickly
You're dead, this fight must
And bravely march away.
From out their camp.

Harry Gerhart, that man
On the Iowa hills.
Hark! Hark! the whistle's sounding,
A dear old lady took him in.

Hendall and Emerson should have first and second in the high jump, as the Gophers have no claspy entries in that event. Lambert of Minnesota has the broad jump, with Thompson and Jans making fast time. Minnesota has a chance to break about as it did in 1912, but will probably be outdone by the University of Chicago. Coach Keeling has announced that he will take every man who has a chance of leading a point.

On the opposite Side of Earth

An interesting fact is called to mind by Joseph Galbraith. Just one year ago today he was within a few miles of being directly opposite Iowa City on the other side of the earth. He was bound from Cape Town, South Africa, to Sydney, Australia, at the time and he stated that the ship was pursuing a course through the Antarctic, and that the weather, far from being as arid, was fairly cold. Coach Keeling has announced that he will take every man who has a chance of leading a point.
