OLD IOWA MEN FIND LOST RACE

K. M. Anderson and Wilbur Steenommen Make Valuable Discoveries While in the North

Working side by side in the laboratory at the University of Iowa last summer, K. M. Anderson and Wilbur Steenommen developed a common passion—navigation. Now the news has just been flashed over the wire that these two investigators have found the remains of a lost race in the far north, a Scandinavia race which existed in the first century A.D.

Both young men were graduated from the University of Iowa in 1911. When in college they represented hunting and fishing parties, respectively, and later discovered a common interest. They found that the Scandinavians of a distant past had certain items in common.

The most recent additions to the Iowa faculty are a splendid enrollment, an enlarged instructional force, and brand new buildings. Large additions have been made to the state's educational institutions, and the University of Iowa now has a larger number of students than in any former year.

Thecosystems are occupying the largest physical building on the campus, the new Alumni Memorial Building.

With a splendid enrollment, an enlarged instructional force, and brand new buildings, the University of Iowa opens Monday upon the seventh year of its service to the state.

The state that has seen its largest struggle forward in self evident from one view of the splendid new building is the second most recent addition to the faculty. There is also this new women's building in the process of completion.

Looking up with its sepulchral elevations the beautiful grey structure which houses the department of physi- and part of the engineering school is evidently the leading attraction to swarms of incoming students to wonder whether they were in college last year.

With the completion the university has seven Bedford stone buildings, representing an investment of approaching $800,000. These buildings are spread over a total of thirty-two acres occupied by the institution.

The new women's building under construction is the last in the chain of buildings raised at $1,170,000 and which turns out to approximately 100 rooms each year.

Each graduate is estimated to have an earning power of at least $40, 50 more as a result of a college educa- tion. This makes the return on the state's investment exactly $15,000,000 annually.

Many important changes have been made in the Hay- tol, Rev. Henry W. Dunn, Fresh from a successful career as a lawyer in Boston. He will be dean of the new faculty.

He has an unusual record after graduation from the Harvard Law School and teaching in

PUBLIC SPEAKING TO BE FACTOR IN UNIVERSITY
Professor Merry in New Hand--Definite Plans of the Department Have Not Been Made

One of the departments of the university which promises much importance during the ensuing school year is that of public speaking, in charge of Professor Merry, assisted by Miss Norma Harrison. Last year the department was under the direction of Professor Azley, head of the English department, and was without a regular public speaking head.

A most competent head has been secured for the department of public speaking in Professor Merry. Last year Professor Merry was connected with the same department at the university of Illinois. He is a graduate of Northwest and the Cumminck School of Oratory, and for two years coached debate teams at Northwest.

As yet Professor Merry can give out no definite statements as to the plans of the department for the year, although some idea may be given. More definite plans will be given out later.

Some Standards of Other Universities

As a result of incessant labor and careful planning on the part of the musical faculty of Iowa university, the school of music has become an integral factor in the college of fine arts. Throughout so careful planning on the part of the music faculty of Iowa university for the higher arts there is a preparatory department in which the students may prepare for the higher arts of music and beginners of all ages may enter. The method of teaching is uniform throughout so that when a student has finished the preparatory course he may go on in the University without a break in his college work. Associated with the school of music are many musical clubs, choirs, choral unions, orchestras. It is with a great deal of interest that the students body and general public await the musical events which are held under the auspices of the school of music. Already great plans have been made for the coming year and the events scheduled are well worthy of the Iowa school of music.

Prof. M. F. Boyd gets Fine Position

Dr. F. M. Boyd, instructor in pathology and bacteriology in the State University of Iowa has been made health officer and city bacteriologist of Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Last winter Dr. Boyd conducted a special investigation of the epidemic of typhoid fever at Oskaloosa and his work proved so satisfactory to the city council that he was called immediately to devote his entire time to the work as health officer.

"This action of Oskaloosa serves to illustrate two facts of increasing importance," said Dr. Henry Albert, State Bacteriologist, yesterday. "First, our cities are subject to the health of their people is to be properly engineered, they must have the full-time service of a well trained health officer. Second, the State University, with the aid of the State Board of Health Laboratory in connection with it provides special facilities for developing the kind of men needed as health officers."

ANNUAL STAG TO BE HELD IN THE ARMORY
Big Fellowship Meeting Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A. to be Held Monday Evening

The one big social event of the year, the event that will leave its impression longest in the minds of the men entering the university for the first time, will take place in the armory tomorrow evening at 7:30. This big social affair is the annual stag of the Y. M. C. A.

The object of the stag is to get the men of the university acquainted with each other, especially the freshmen, who have very few opportunities to get together and to know one another. The whole program of the evening will therefore center around the one plan of making the men acquainted.

A feature of the evening will be the besting and wrestling matches by the university celebrities. It is promised that the entertainment from this source will be something worth putting forth effort to see. To add to the gaiety of the occasion, songs and yells will be added to the many other stunts that are to be pulled off besides the besting and wrestling contests.

President John G. Bowman will probably be present, and will give the address of welcome to the new students. Captains Henry Shannon and Coach Joss Hawley will give short talks on the football prospects of Iowa. Ralph G. Grassfield will speak a few words concerning the opportunities of journalism. J. H. Anderson and several others will give three-minute talks on subjects of interest to university men.

A fitting climax to the evening of fun will be the big feed. The committee in charge of the stag has planned to make this equal to the rest of the entertainment. Owing to the unusual influx of new students, and the interest usually manifested in the stag, the armory is expected to be packed.

The affair has been widely advertised by placards and every new student has been asked to attend.

Y. M. C. A. and T. W. C. A. to Give Joint Social at Armoury

Y. M. C. A. and T. W. C. A. will give a joint social at the Armoury building Friday evening. This annual affair has come to be a big event of the opening season of social activities in the university, and a great gathering is looked for.

Y. M. C. A., with Mildred Hylke, chairman of the Y. W. C. A., with Merle McNiel of the Y. M. C. A. committee, have been selected for their excellent start in the business and professional world.

A large proportion of the freshmen of 1912 has already been admitted, and the surprising thing is that usually the entire class remains in Iowa.

Those who have entered into partnership with established firms have been fortunate to secure as partners men of high standing in the legal profession.

Among those who have already located in Iowa is E. J. Hooker, who has formed a partnership with R. A. Deuel of Des Moines; Dr. W. and Earl W. Violette, who are associated with Mr. W. Weeks at Dulaney Cider; Fred T. Jensen, Des Moines, and W. H. Thompson, Council Bluffs. Few of the class have located at Waterloo—H. E. Tuller, W. French, L. R. Long, and J. H. G. having selected that territory in which to hang out their shingle.

A. L. Norman is associated with a lawyer of Kewaunee; C. R. Davis has located at Tama and E. W. Swain at Waterloo. Real Hansen has located in Tama, and P. M. Fuller returned to his home town, Mt. Airy. He has selected a location which has been praised by G. C. Upton, high principal of the Tama school.

Others of the class have probably left the state, but have not reported their progress.

The fact that so very few of the freshmen of 1912 is to be congratulated on plans which have been made to make the entertainment of the evening greater than ever before.

Library in General

The Hansen memorial library has been moved from room 206 in the L. A. building to room 245, with the museum of art and archeology. A half dozen book cases, sections and some new book have been purchased.

The library will first be opened for the members of the faculty, and thereafter for students of all grades.

The library will be open Monday and Tuesday, and will be open from 2:30 to 4:30; Saturdays from 10 to 12.

Commandant Missed With Outlook

Already many of the older men have been calling at the university's commandant's office at the armory and inquiring about the military work for the coming year. The commandant is very well pleased with the outlook which the fall promises and feels that he will have little worry in selecting men for the commissioned or non-commissioned officers this year. The various policies will be carried on by the new commissioned and non-commissioned officers.

Graduates in Summer School

It is interesting to note that more than one-third of the students of the summer session were college graduates. The majority of these were graduates of our own university, but a large number were in institutions from the smaller schools of the state, as well as from other universities. The summer session was most successful from every standpoint and has proved that the summer school at Iowa is recognized as a place that is service among the schools of the country.

M. O. Y. Cabinet on South Bend

Yesterday afternoon the members of the M. O. Y. cabinet left for South Bend, and will return on the night train. The trip has been made upon the invitation of Carl Reynolds, the secretary of the M. O. Y. at Cedar Rapids, who will represent the club at the camp. The purpose of the camp, which is in the nature of a retreat, is to give the men for the year's work a preliminary look at the camp. The camp is at the Rock River, where the campers and others will be amused with various games and sports.

We are making arrangements for the campers and others who will visit the camp to be entertained and will be of assistance in the planning and making arrangements for the campers and other students that will be attending this year.

Military Notice

Commandant T. A. Harris requests that all men who have fulfilled their training requirements and desire to be commissioned or non-commissioned officers report at the armory Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 1:30 o'clock.
