HAWLEY WILL NOT RETURN TO IOWA

ANNOUNCES INTENTION TO GIVE UP COACHING

Will End Five Years' Service Here and Confine Himself to Bonding Business

(By Harold C. Place.)

Jesse Hawley, head coach of the Hawkeye football team, will not return to Iowa next year. He has announced his decision to the Iowa board in control of athletics and informed them that under no consideration will he accept a proposition to return to the university next season as football coach.

Coach Hawley came to Iowa five years ago after two years of successful coaching at the Phillips Andover school in the east. During his stay here, football has flourished, and the Dartmouth graduate has turned out some of the best elevens that Iowa has ever boasted.

Prefer's Business.

Coach Hawley has tried for two years to be relieved of his coaching burden at Iowa. It was only after five months of negotiations and urging that he was induced to return to the university this fall. He has a lucrative position in the bonding department of a prominent Chicago bank, and it has been increasingly difficult for him to leave his business for the three months of the football season. Last winter he was promoted to assistant manager of the bonding department and he feels that he cannot further neglect his business future. When he returned to Iowa this fall, it was with the firm determination that it was to be his last season here.

Search To Begin.

The athletic board, while regretting Hawley's decision, will begin at once the search for a man who is capable of continuing the successes that Iowa has enjoyed under Hawley's leadership. Nothing definite has yet been decided upon, but it is probable that the new coach will be an eastern man, who is familiar with the Hawley system. The board has several men in view at the present time, but a decision will not be reached until late in the winter, as it is desired to pick the new mentor with as much care and consideration as is convenient.

KELLOGG OFFICIAL YESTERDAY

Director N. A. Kellogg officiated in the Monmouth-Lake Forest game yesterday at Monmouth.

GIRLS BACK FROM DES MOINES

Make Good Showing in Two Drills at Teachers' Association Meeting

Girls of the Iowa gymnasium team at the state teachers' convention are back after having made a good showing alongside the teams from Cedar Falls, Grinnell, the Des Moines public schools, and the Des Moines Y. W. C. A.

The Iowa team presented the Pompeian flower drill, in which Beatrice Rogers, Cornelia Prentiss, Catharine Mulrony, Mollie Cruikshank, Natalie Phillips, Mariam Cruver, Margerie Pickering, Grace Roberts, Katharine Dignan, Ruth Bewsher, Josephine Scarff, Katharine Hutchinson, Prudence Heberling, Mary Hitchcock, and Phebe Baxter took part, and the single stick drill which was performed by Blanche Inman, Grace Pfannebecker, Katherine Hutchinson, Irene Stapleton, Frances Cobb, Florence Messerli, Mary Cinnavey, Idron, and Nelle Baird.

The team was in charge of Mrs. Alice Bates, Alice Wilmarth, and Carrie Hupp. They attended sessions of the round table for physical training teachers.

ZET CHAMPIONSHIP CHOSEN

William H. Veatch, Oscar Lemme, and Virgil Hancher were picked for the Zetagathian championship team in the tryouts held by that society Thursday evening. Joseph Pollock was chosen alternate. This team will meet the Irving championship team in the preliminary debate January 20. The question is, "Resolved: That the several states should authorize their insurance departments to issue insurance policies, covering life, fire, and accident risks."

BENJAMIN WILL READ PAPER

The next meeting of the political science club will take place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Jessup, on Monday evening. The paper will be read by Prof. G. G. Benjamin on "The New York Constitutional Convention".

"WATER'S FINE" THIS WEEK

Water will be turned into the men's swimming pool this week. The pool is all ready for use now as soon as the special kind of sand comes from Ohio for use in the filter. The classes in swimming have been taking their regular work and learning the strokes out of water. As soon as the pool is ready the classes will be put to work in the pool, however.

JENKIN LLOYD JONES SPEAKS AT VESPER

NOTED CHICAGO MAN COMES FOR AFTERNOON SERVICE

Student Body Given Opportunity To Hear Preacher of Great Power and Influence

The second vesper service of the year will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the natural science auditorium.

In the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Chicago, the university authorities feel confident that they have found a speaker of that high standard which they desire to maintain in offering students the opportunity to hear lectures from outside the university circle.

Dr. Jones organized All Souls church in Chicago in 1882 and has been its pastor ever since. He has been a director of Abraham Lincoln Centre since 1905. His influence in national religious councils has been important. He is president of the Tower Hill summer school of literature and religion.

Since 1893, Dr. Jones has been lecturer in English in Chicago university. He is the author of some ten books, chiefly on religious topics.

ENGINEERING FACULTY LUNCH

The faculty members of the engineering department will hold a luncheon at the Jefferson hotel Wednesday.

During the remainder of the year they will have luncheon twice a month, on the second and fourth Wednesdays. The purpose is to furnish a means of getting together and discussing matters of interest to the college of engineering.

BRISCO WRITES FOR JOURNAL

The September issue of the Efficiency Society Journal has just appeared. In this issue there is an article upon "Personal Efficiency", by Dr. Norris A. Brisco, the editor of the magazine.

A special bulletin, to appear in a few weeks, will contain an article by Dr. Brisco on "Suggestion as a Factor in Efficiency Literature."

MEDICINE MAN TAKES PLACE

The board in control of athletics will issue no "Jimmy" book this year. Instead it has given The Medicine Man the privilege of including in its next issue printed pictures of the athletic teams and the Ames-Iowa game.

Chicago Defeats Rule

Special to The Daily Iowan: Chicago, Nov. 6.—In the vote yesterday, Maroon students expressed themselves against the summer baseball rule by a vote of 331 to 278.

The Chicago figures, added to those of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, give a total of 4,496 against the rule and 618 for it.

GIRLS STUDY LAW? WHY NOT?

Jessie Smart, Taking Law against Parents' Advice, Sees Future in Profession

"There is no reason under the sun why girls should not study and practice law," declared Miss Jessie H. Smart, to a reporter yesterday. Miss Smart is a junior in the law college and the only feminine student in the department.

"I am not a suffragette but I certainly like the law," she said. "Of course my parents think I am a naughty little girl to want to study law. I am the only lawyer in our family."

Miss Smart is of the opinion that there is a great field for woman lawyers in juvenile court work in the larger cities. She thinks women can make a success in law as well as men. Unlike some lawyers, Miss Smart does not like publicity and it required considerable persuasion to get her to talk about herself.

Miss Smart believes in laws' being enforced. She lives at Currier hall and likes the regulations there. "I think the ten o'clock rule one of the best in the university," she declared, "and Miss Klingenhagen one of the most likable women I have known."

HAWKEYES OUTDONE BY PURDUE ELEVEN

LAFAYETTE GAME LOST BY 13 TO 19 SCORE

Offense Works but Line Falls To Hold before Charging Boiler-maker Attack

(By "Curt")

We know now that our esteemed contemporary, Ring Lardner of Tribune fame, knew whereof he spoke when he predicted a Boilermaker victory in the Iowa-Purdue clash yesterday. The Boilermakers sent Hawley's scalpers back to Iowa City with the short end of a 19 to 13 count.

It wasn't as bad as the Minnesota game, but it was anything but joyous. After playing huge rings around the Purdue pets in the first half, the Iowa eleven lost their aggressiveness somewhere between the athletic field and the Purdue gymnasium between the periods, and in the second half it was just as our friend, Lardner, expressed it, "bully for old Purdue."

Same Old Tale.

Like a lover's romance it was the same old story over again. The Iowa line, although thoroughly made over since the Gopher clash, failed to hold, except when forced to by the imperativeness of the occasion. It responded nobly at critical moments, and no less than five times during the game, held for downs in the shadow of their own goal posts.

The strain that the line was forced to undergo in the stubborn defenses of their own goal finally told, however, and late in the third quarter Purdue went over for the touchdown which sent them into the lead and gave them victory.

Mr. Donnelly on Hand.

There is no predicting how many touchdowns Purdue might have scored in the final half, if it had not been for one, Mr. Donnelly. The sorrel-topped Hawkeye back dove into the play again and again in the second period and spilled the Boiler-maker offense for losses.

"Capt." Barron also played a wonderful defensive game.

On the offense Garrettson time and again made the Purdue line look like the republican candidates the morning after the Wilson landslide. In the second half Duncan was substituted for Donnelly, after the latter had taken Kerwick's place and after the aforesaid Mr. Duncan had his heels trod on a few times by

THE INLANDER

The suggestion comes to The Daily Iowan that Rose Henderson has contributed something to the art of poetry in "The Inlander".

Here is the poem:

"My sea is the sky,
And the clouds float by
With the wind as pilot and crew, and high In the clear blue depths where the swallows meet
My spirit follows the white-winged fleet;
My sea is the sky.

"My sea is the sky, and the dusty street,
The clang of motors, the rush of feet,
May crowd my earth and may claim
my home;

But the sun-filled silence, the storm-tossed foam,
The star-flecked night and the brooding gray,
Are mine in the midst of the noise and fray.

"Out of my window when morning grows
Into the sky, I watch the rose And pale mist purples that drift and spread
Where the mermaid night has softly fled,
And the lordly Triton sun rides high,
Through my sea-blue sky."

What a theme the author has found! It matters not what oppressive things surround her; she has found the way of escape. She can find the calm of the dweller by the sea, for she lies not in the midst of the dusty streets, but on the edge of "the sea-blue sky".

A few months ago Rose Henderson gave up a comfortable place on a newspaper staff to give herself to literary work. She at first planned to come to Iowa City and live under the influence of the university. Something changed her plans and she went to New York. There she is no longer an inlander. But she knows the spirit. With a voice more musical than most of us possess she can sing the themes which our souls may struggle vainly to express.

PATRICK TELLS WHY
"IT IS TO LAUGH" *****

Humor and laughter are shockabsorbers that make us able to stand the strain of modern civilization.
Prof. G. T. W. Patrick said in his address, "The Psychology of Laughter", before the Baconian club in physics hall Friday evening.

Professor Patrick discussed his subject under two heads, laughter as relaxation and laughter as exultation. "Physiologically nothing but a relaxation of the muscles of the face and chest, psychologically laughter is an expression of elemental glee when we see the cogs of civilization slip a little," he said. "Slips and lapses, these are the ordinary sources of laughter.

"Social life means constant repression, the constant denial of instinct.
In every mind there is a subconscious rebellion against this repression, a sympathy with lawlessness.
Laughter is the spontaneous outburst of joy when the old, natural, the elemental, appears among the artificial.

"Primitive man, exulting when he brought down his foe, laughed—there is a kinship in the modern laughter of ridicule or derision.

"Laughter is a necessary release from the strain of progress, but it is becoming rarer among all nations."

PRESIDENT SOUTHWICK COMING

Emerson College Man Will Give Lecture Recital Here In January

President Henry Lawrence Southwick of the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, has just consented to an appearance at Iowa in January, under the auspices of the public speaking department. It is not known definitely what programme Mr. Southwick will present, but it will probably be a lecture-recital on "Hamlet" or on "Richard the Third." No admission charge will be made.

President Southwick is a particular friend of Dr. and Mrs. Starbuck and it was through their influence, largely, that he was secured.

RECEIVE WIRELESS MESSAGES

William Owen, R. C. Giese, and Ralph Earle, students of electrical engineering have been receiving long distance messages the last month through the university's wireless apparatus.

The government stations send out reports of storms and military news to ships in the gulf and in the Pacific Ocean. As they use a secret code, amateurs cannot translate the messages.

The students here have been sending messages to many stations over the state and to St. Louis. Football scores and other university news have been sent over the aerial route.
