"LITTLE GIRL NEXT DOOR" SHOWS REEL OF THE CITY

The production did have the proverbial kid gloves on when handle Aonc this sociological play, "The Little Girl Next Door." For here everything is treated with absolute frankness. And it is the kind of frankness that means sensitionalism in a picture of this kind.

The production was based on the reports of the Illinois vice commission and aims to show the existence of vice and immorality at our very doorstep. It really has no plot. It is merely a vehicle of telling unfortunate girls, how they were raped, and, in some cases, rescued, and in others forced to lead a life of shame.

There is an elopement. In a strange city, her loinsome ness attracts the harpies of human form, and she is separated from her boy husband, dragged and delivered into the pit.

A girl answers an advertisement of an elderly woman who desires a companion.

The woman is a white slider and the girl is sold into a hideous bondage.

Then there are others—all of them drawn from life and from actual experience as related to the Illinois state senate vice commission, and it fulfills well its task of showing how the lessons of the dangers that lurk in city streets, and in a girl's defile for adventure and thrill, and in a manager wage.

The film shows the commission in the Hotel La Salle, and shows the women who come to tell of their expert use and to issue a reminder for the evils that exist. There are Arthur Barrage, Pawell, Virginia Beech, Judge Hopkins, Champ Clark, Dr. John Dill Robertson, Mrs. Alice Phillips Albrick, Mayor Thomson, Chief Halsey, John Dill Robertson, Corporation Counsel Ettelson and Alderman Lawley.

Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara and Senator Bredt are the principal actors of the stories that developed as a result of the investigations; and the incidents are treated with a frankness and controlled sensationalism.
