DEBATERS PUT IN A BUSY THANKSGIVING

The debating season is in full swing and most of the nation's top colleges are gearing up for the annual debate season. The University of Iowa, like many other colleges, is preparing for the upcoming season.

The debate team is currently practicing for their upcoming matches against the University of Chicago, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Illinois. The team is working hard to prepare for the upcoming matches and hopes to continue their successful run.

The debate season is a time of intense preparation and competition. The team members are busy with research, writing, and practicing to ensure they are ready for the upcoming matches. The team is optimistic about their chances and is looking forward to a successful season.

The debate season is a crucial time for the team members. They are working hard to improve their skills and are committed to achieving the best possible results. The team members are grateful for the support of their coaches and look forward to a successful season.

The debate team is excited to be back in action after a year of virtual debates. They are looking forward to competing in person and are excited to showcase their skills on the national stage.

The debate season is also a time of community engagement. The team members are involved in various community events and are committed to making a positive impact on their community.

PARIS UNIVERSITY TO MAKE OFFERS TO AMERICAN STUDENTS
PROF. BUSH RECEIVES LETTER FROM PARIS UNIVERSITY AUTHORITY
ALL MAJESTIC ASSEMBLIES DEC. 6, WILL BE THE FIRST

THE UNIVERSITY of Paris which before the opening of the war was the largest university in the world as well as the oldest is making active plans to acquire American students with what is offered to them there, according to a letter received by Prof. Bush from Professor Cons. In Paris. In the past I have sometimes as much as a year for a foreign student to become face to face with the University of Paris. Under the title of the university included an army of independent schools and instructors, much of his own way of managing affairs. The life of Paris is still the center of literary activity and ever-blooming, but the other institutions are given a certain status in a way that is not always possible here. His experience teaching in the American system has had a great influence on his university after the war in typical what the French are doing in every thing. They realize that it is the highest importance to keep up the normal national life as far as possible and to resume it at once in all its ways at the close of hostilities. Everything is now being organized so that the nation may at the first opportunity plunge into active business and professional work in order that we may not lose her place in the world.

S. U. I. BAND CONCERT TO-NIGHT!
8:15 O'CLOCK

Natural Science Auditorium
Season Tickets, 4 Concerts, $1.00

Single Admission, 50c

ASSISTED BY

BERTHA ANN COOPER, Soprano

This will be the first of the series of four popular concerts to be given by our band this year. Don't miss this evening of enjoyment.
LELSTAND STAPHAN MAN
NEW MATH INSTRUCTOR
C. G. Grisy. He is not instructor in the mathematics department, arrived in Iowa City Saturday. The addition of the new instructor was made necessary by the death of Prof. A. G. Smith, head of the department, and the subsequent re-arrangement of classes. Mr. Grisy comes to the University from Leland Stanford Jr. University.

One of the crowning features of the band concert Wednesday evening of the audience, will be a solo by Miss Bertha Cooper, accompanied by the band. Miss Cooper is recognized as one of our great songsters, and has made many enemies as the concertante platform. You will miss something if you do not hear her in the wails song, Romeo and Juliet.

Miss Cara M. Geyer, instructor in history, spent her Thanksgiving vacation with her mother at Charles City.

Dr. Noble C. Williams, of the psychology department, returned Monday evening from Urbana, Illinois, where she spent the vacation with her brother.

Mr. and Mrs. George Scott of Illinois City announce the birth of a son. Mrs. Scott was formerly Anna Sullivan, instructor in public speaking at the University.

Bertha Anne Stenger, M. A. '14, spent several weeks at the National Library during her vacation. Miss Stenger is now visiting history at Mount Morris college at Mount Morris, Illinois.

"Atlantic Strumstickt, his life and work" by W. Henry Hill, is a new and interesting addition to the library.

Harry Webb, 11, former manager of the "Daily Iowa" visited here Saturday.

FORMER STUDENT GETS PROMOTION IN ENGLISH ARMY

One man to him, but still one does not mind it much, because one gets accustomed to it. We are excited and it only desires is to get at the German. In my particular machine gun company two of my comrades were wounded yesterday and I bandaged both of them up, but today they died. I also stopped to bandage two severely wounded Germans and gave them water at the same time.

"It was 11:20 in the evening the next day when we made our first charge, a beautiful September evening. Over our heads the artillery opened fire into the German lines. Silently we swept over the pasture and across no man's land into the fire of artillery, machine gun, rifles and bombs. Many fell, but we did not stop at the first trench or second trench. We kept right on. The fight lasted with hammer and blade the whole time."

"There were many casualties, but we got a number of prisoners. I stopped to open the car and found an officer's hand and a wound he had received in his temple. Then we helped dress the wounds of another German officer who had received wounds in fifty different places. And bleed! I never saw such a pool of it in all mylife—rings and streams of it. No one can actually describe it or imagine one tenth part of it."Tham we fought the Batuins. Wounded and Prisoner guards, which are supposed to be the best in the world.

However we made motion of them and showed them that they could not stop our advance for very long at a time.

FORREST WULF FRED

"We found that the Germans had been fed well, for when we cleaned the dead out of the trenches we saw trays of creamed meat, beef, bread, and tank of mineral water."

The newspapers say that we make the charges with smiles, but I will say that we make the charges with smiles on our lips, but there are no smiles in our hearts.

"I have not had a cold since I have been here and have received only one slight wound in my shoulder since I enlisted. We have good food, warm clothing, and other comforts. We are just experiencing our first cold winter day."

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, in "Manhattan Madness"

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS is coming again. This time he appears in "Manhattan Madness"—a Triangle Fine Arts Play of East and West, depicting the athletic and effervescent star in claps, dress suit and every graduation of masculine attire between. It's all kinds of a picture, this "Manhattan Madness"—a society picture, a mystery picture, a comedy picture, an adventure picture. Above all, it's a Fairbanks picture, and that's the really important thing about it. Fairbanks has never bubbled and he never will again. Now he's brought and smartly and square and great and his way through a picture as he does through this one. He fights enemies in squadrons, battalions and droves. He trotles over rooftops, through trellises, up engravings and over ten-foot walls with all the usual Fairbanks ease and abandon.
