Two of the very best long distance runners in the state of Iowa, according to a letter received yesterday by Deputy Surgeon M. C. W. with the Football Department, have made a joint announcement that they will be unenlisted in the American military service at the conclusion of the current football season. The two runners, both of whom are noted for their ability to run long distances, have decided to return to their studies at the University of Iowa.

Many Medals and Trophies to be Given to Cadets This Year

Prist gold medals, one saber, and other trophies are to be offered this year as prizes to officers and privates for excellence in military music, reviews, and sports. With few exceptions, these prizes have not been awarded for the past three years. However, competition will be revived this year for every one of these splendid trophies offered.

Prizes will have an opportunity this year in the Roundel medal, a silver parade sword, which is annually offered to the best drill officer, engineer, and junior, respectively. The H. J. Wells memorial medal, formerly awarded to the best drilled junior in the regiment, probably will be given this year to the most proficient junior in the regiment. The artillery division was abandoned at Iowa in 1861 with the guns, two, 3-inch, 40 pounders, were not turned in until this lost loaders, were not turned in until one was pinned in on the second floor. Though fifty years old, it is jumped to the ground, sustaining injuries from which he died. Last year, Governor's day, life, and senior, who is a resident of Iowa. Many Medals and Trophies to be Given to Cadets This Year

A silver cup, offered by Captain R. T. Phinney, is competed for annu­ally and is awarded to the company making the best record for the year in the rifle gallery. This trophy is based for the company winning the tripod. It was won last year by Company A, captained by Larry Hanwell, who is now major of the engineering battalion.

A large silver cup is awarded annually to the company winning a baseball tournament, which is usually held during the summer season. There may be some additional prizes offered during the year.

UNIVERSITY RIFLE CLUB READ BEGINS THIS YEAR

A long time record as president of the University Rifle club belongs to Prof. E. A. Wilson of the law faculty. When the club was organized, in 1898 he was elected its first president. He is still president of the club and was re-elected for 1916-17 in October. He has shown great interest in the work of both the rifle range and the military department. Now he proudly wears a little red, white and blue lapel button "Plattsburg, 1917" on it. Only those who have spent four weeks in one of those winter training camps, camps, training, and marching, are permitted to wear this button. With it goes a little silk flag, which made for the construction of a new battalion. The captain whose company is for twelve targets. EARLY AFTERNOON DRILL MAY SOLVE SERIOUS PROBLEM

TRAINING SCHOOL WILL MEAN TRUE DRILLS MUST COME EARLY AFTERNOON 4:30 P.M.

New Plans Will Be Presented to Faculty Members in Near Future By Captain Mannus, Commandant of Cadet Regiment

No more classes at 1:10 after heavy meals! No more groggy naps afterward before exercising posts. Instead, an hour of drill, beginning at 1 o'clock may be the program to enter the foot and rear room in order that cadets may better face the aforementioned exercising posts. In order for Iowa to conform to the requirements of the federal bill, providing for reserve officers' training at colleges and universities with military organizations, three hours per week will have to be spent in drill by the University cadets. Moreover, these three hours of drill must be classed before 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, if there is to be a reserve officers' training corps at Iowa. That the students with such a corps was made evident by the response who the subject was first broached in a recent issue of the Iowan.

To meet the requirements of drills before 4:30 o'clock, and to avoid conflict with afternoo classes, Captain Mannus has drafted the appoint­ment of holding drill for the complimentary regiment between the hours of one and two. However, this will hold only in the case the latter gives its consent to the establishment of a reserve officers' corps at Iowa.

Captain Mannus' provisional plans provide practical field training outside during the first and last quarters of the year, and for two hours of discretion, work and one hour of practical drill during the other two quarters. The drill battalion would meet on Mondays and Wednesdays; the seventh on Tuesday and Thursday; and both battalions would meet together on Fridays. The hour of drill would be from one to two each week. Immediately however, would continue drill at 4:30 o'clock as now, unless the enumerating faculty asks for the changes.

Captain Mannus will ask the facility to agree on this change at a meeting which will take place in the near future. The plan above outlined was at one time in the past thought of feasibility for a number of the facul­ity and its approval now is certainly expected by the friends of the military department.

Tin Soldier Warfare for Cadet Regiment this Year

The Tin Soldier Warfare is to be the fought in the pedagogic center for the boys officers this winter. A usual table 4x12 feet is being completed for their use and with this any territory desired can be modeled. On this miniature relief map, villages, churches, factories, railroads, trains, postes and other bridges will be placed. Then war with all its devastation will fall upon this denizen of the parochial country. How this regiment will attack each other, artillery will be brought into action, bridges will be destroyed, trains wrecked, factories burned, and water diverted. Model trenches revetted and strengthened with Bull Durham sand bags will play an important part in these operations. Besides the handling of bodies of mini much practical work will be given to the officers and for them to reconstruct in outdoor and map reading, securing, parcelling and sub Jerome guard problems.

Miniature targets for officers and non-commissioned officers' practice in target designation and fire distribu- tion have been ordered. Another and table the same size as that of the officers is being constructed for the use of the regimental bat- talion. Among the accessories supplied for their use is a fortification table made of wood. This will aid in teaching the principles, actual construction and use of trenches,revetted and actual construction and use of fortification sand table set. This will be an important part of the military training for the cadets.

CHANGE INSIGNIA FOR OFFICERS IN CADET REGIMENTS

Circumferential and diametrical silver disks take the place of the blue, brown, and yellow of other years as rank insignia for the cadet officers. This is in accordance with a national law passed last winter making it legal the use of the regular army officer's insignia in cadet organizations.

One silver circular disk on the shoulder straps will be issued to the second lieutenant (two for the first lieutenant (who formerly used one silver bar)) and three by the captains who have been using the regulation two bars. The gold leaf of the majors will be replaced by one diametrical silver disk; the silver leaf of the first lieutenant-ranked by two diametrical disks, the eagle of the colonel by three diametrical disks. The officers of the non-commisioned officers remain the same as those of the regular army.

Mrs. Roosevelt will talk about "The Church and the Status of Woman" in the students' class of the English Lutheran church, corner Market and Dayton streets, at 11 o'clock this morning. The class will be expanded to include analogous women's work.
