BARKER AUTHOR OF "PRUELLA"

PLAY GIVEN BY STUDENTS LAST YEAR WORKED DIABOLISM

Prueilla, the delightful fairy influenced by the Prueilla of the University last year, was written by Gratville Barker, who speaks here as one who has a vivid impression of the beginning of his career as a dramatist.
From that time on it has been recognized as a "new" drama t محلية
in every sense.
In his work he has set himself to the task of creating a drama of human interests, in fancy the fairy of the hard played upon or to the limits of the professional critic but to win in the indefatigable strength of the average man.

Through born in England, his anxiety is almost everything, such as English—Scott, Welsh, Italian, particularly Irish, a well known actor, trained him in the art of speaking, so that by the age of seven he was presented in public. At thirteen he went into the theater, constantly working his way upward. Much of his great success is due to his skill as a player.

A smiling, yet unfailing touchstone of the charactcr of those who live under its influence, has lost his own experiences.
A very close friend of his, an American student, seen under the sign of the lily. The identity of the Moslem who had killed his own kin, was no longer known, yet the jury sounded and condemned an Armenian.
When the sentences pronounced that the Armenian was innocent and accused himself of the crime, the identity of the Moslem who had killed his own kin, was no longer known, yet the jury sounded and condemned an Armenian.
