Tells How the Mysticism of Alchemical GAYE WAY

Professor Josiah, Jr., Backwood, Dr., and Odder Give Address

Two Second of Conference.

"The Chemical Revolution, or Chemistry to the best of our knowledge at the Eighteenth Century" was discussed Saturday morning at the second daily session of the chemistry conference. Professor Dunn of Kansas presumably explained that the mysteries of the alchemists was the exploration that the sciences of today are building upon.

Tells of Recent Changes

Recounting the work of the department of chemistry, told of the recent changes that have occurred. He pointed out that copper pipes are not as fast becoming of as much importance as they were in the past, and that aluminum and steel are now being produced, he said.

"Metal and Steel." Everything is in metal, he said, and many trends tend toward the use of metal. He called for "Ino change can take place without a change of materials." He added, "As the result of the change in the dross involved," he said.

GETS NO WORD FROM MOTHER IN GERMANY

F. P. SCHOBEN ANNOYED ABOUT WELFARE OF HIS GERMAN RELATIVES

For seven months F. P. Schoben, 100 South Allen street, has been writing and drawing, has had no word from his mother, who is at present living at a point in Germany. Mrs. Schoben's only son to send that address have not produced any results. As a result the son has lost contact with his relatives.

The president delivered an interesting talk on the growth and development of the University, something of the needs of the city and the state and the future.

The program was unprecedented all over the country, with the amount of the alchemy present were called upon. His earlier alchemy enrollment and in his opinion that it was the most useful and most tested they had ever had.

CHICAGO ALUMNI MEET

The Chicago alumni group are to hold a reunion some time in the near future, according to information received from Karl D. Lenz, 101 E. 94th Street, son of the department of economics. Mr. Lenz is secretary of the Chicago alumni association.

NOTES PENDING

Mr. Schoben is a graduate of the Technical high school of Dresden, and of the Technical university of that city. Before coming to the University he was in the employ of a steel company. He has been in this country eight years, and is expecting to make the journey to Europe in a short time.

ADAMS WILL LEAVE IOWA FOR WEST POINT COURSE

Four years at West Point will be the goal of Major Andrew Adams, a native of Springdale. He will attend the military academy at West Point, New York, after attending the University of Iowa.

Dr. Adams, who is a graduate of the University, will leave for West Point by June 14.

TIME INTENDED

"Make love" was the keynote of the dance. The decorations were set square in all details this year. The orchestra was placed in the middle of the floor, the punch stand and the reception desk were all in their usual corner. No dancing was required, no other, no dancing. The in the basket band was doing its usual every morning. On one of the stands there was a stand for the north side and was decorated in a conventional design to form part of the stand. A black and white, "Wisconsin" in colored. The motif for the decorations was a black color, which was carried out in all the band stands. The center of the orchestra were a large four, one each at the corners. This was most unusual, and although an occasional touch of black or gold was seen. Around the room at various places were the usual panels decorated with the usual panels.

Alumni Banquet at Cedar Rapids

JUBERG TELLS OLD GRADS OF IOWA'S GROWTH, NEEDS, AND PLANS

It was a very enthusiastic and successful event of the day, according to President Walter J. Anderson, as when questioned about the Cedar Rapids alumni banquet, which was held at the Monarch Thursday night.

There were about seventy-five of the alumni present, among some of the most notable people of Cedar Rapids. Spirit of loyalty, affection, and optimism hope for Iowa was plainly in evidence throughout the whole afternoon.)

MAY NEED DEGREE FOR STATE EXAM

HILL TO BE INTRODUCED IN LEG. COMMITTEE ASKING PRE-REQUISITES

A degree from a recognized college of pharmacy will in the future be a prerequisite requirement for all who take the state examinations for the certificate of registered pharmacist. The bill which the Iowa Pharmaceutical association plans to introduce passes the legislature. At the meeting of the association in Des Moines last week it was unananimously decided to introduce the bill at once. Only those schools are recognized which are members of the American Conference of Pharmaceutical Faculties. Twenty-two schools in the country belong to the conference. At this number, the two: University of Iowa and college of pharmacy at highland park college, are in Iowa.
