SIGNS OF THE TIMES

DISCUSSED BY SMITH

We Will Be Proud To Have Lived in This Day, Says Not Y. M. C. A. Worker.

"We are living in a tremendously beautiful and prosperous age," this young man said yesterday, as he stood in front of the huge crowd assembled in the main hall of the university. "We have every reason to be proud of our country, and the fact that we are living in this day is something to be remembered by both this generation and those that follow us.

Mr. Smith, who is a member of the junior class, said that he had been thinking about the past few years, and that he had come to the conclusion that this was indeed a great age. "We have seen the steady growth of our country, and we have seen the progress of science and industry," he said. "We have seen the rise of the United States as a world power, and we have seen the spread of democracy throughout the world."

Mr. Smith went on to say that the future is full of promise, and that we must be ready to meet whatever challenges come our way. "We must be prepared to take up the work of our elders, and to make our country a greater place to live," he said. "We must be proud of our country, and we must do our best to make it even greater than it is today."

This is a day to be proud of, said Mr. Smith, and he hoped that every American would take the time to think about what they can do to make the world a better place.

Dr. Jenkins, president of the senior class, said that he was proud of the work that had been done by the members of the debate team. "The work that has been done by these young men has been an inspiration to all of us," he said. "We have seen the value of hard work and dedication, and we have seen the importance of preparing ourselves for the future."

Dr. Jenkins went on to say that he was proud of the students who had been elected to the honor society, and he congratulated them on their achievement.

The ceremony ended with a rousing speech by Mr. Jenkins, who said that he was proud of the work that had been done by the students of the university.

A UNIVERSITY UNIT

Within a short time University students are to have an opportunity, along with other of the young men of the country, to volunteer for military service in defense of the United States of America. When that time comes, as it does now soon, those men of the University will doubtless want to see service in a unit and not be trained in groups as members of which they may not be at all congenial. They will want to serve, without, under the direction of their own military leader, Captain, Berton C. Mean, now the commanding officer at the University of Iowa.

It must be possible to assign a number of University men to represent militarily any unit which the government may make upon them. It may also be assumed that Iowa men will want to be in a regiment together. The question becomes, then, what one of these groups is to be taken now so that the way department will be ready to provide to utilize the man power which is to be available here in the way in which the men of the University would like to have that power organized and used. Perhaps it is not now too early, while the forces of the nation are being organized on every side, to program for the time when it will be desirable to have a battalion or two of infantry from the University serving as a University unit either in training or on the battlefield.

Ralph C. Kahle, who was graduated last year, has accepted one of the scholarships at Johns Hopkins University. out of the 149 names which were received only ninety were accepted.

Mr. W. N. Cramer, civil engineer of Chicago, has been spending the past few days with Grace Womser of the University library staff.
