The present is no time for the temper tantrums that are performed by the kaleidoscopic bodies, which abnormal. And, reading, the denial. Because the moves made are performing unjustly a duty which abnormal. And, reading, the denial.

The practice of dishonesty in athletic results from the "wha" at any prior policy, and is a confession of weakness. It brings secret shame, and if one is not detected, and the additional shame of exposure if one is caught in the act. It implies an instant readiness to break the contract implied in the gentleman's agreement; a spirit of anxiety in respect to the laws of the game, and results in the starting of a man's own conscience, the degradation of the ideals and practices ofprevious players, the creation of an atmosphere of distrust and bitterness; and the enervating wiles for the habits of graft and stealing and forgery.

Next door to the hiring of players in the competition to beat on the game. They should be seen as parallel forces, for the spectator who bets on the game is brother to the player who secretly sells his ability. An honest recognition of this fact would do much to stamp betting on amateur games, for many men are willing to bet on their friends who would be ashamed of them if they raised amateur sport by secretly taking pay. —Edward.

ENGINEER COMPANY ELECTS OFFICERS

Albert Fisher, county engineer, and Charles Strong, have been appointed captains of Company A. Mr. Fisher received his B. S. degree in 1915 and his M. S. degree in 1919. "Milt" was perhaps the best and most popular officer among the cadets. He was a graduate of the University of Illinois and is employed by the Department of Agriculture. For the past two years he has been cadet captain of this company.

Clarence L. Burt, instructor in chemical engineering, has completed the probationary period of his assignment to Company A. For the past year he has been with the Iowa Utilities Company with headquarters at Des Moines.
