TANGLED LINES

PARENTS APPEAR—FRAT PIN REVIEWS

Don't believe those girls that tell you a college boy is a little bit immoral now all. Dr. Shear will tell you that they have more reason to such conduct than you or I have. What nonsense could you draw from girls who talk when they have not "the man" around to be guilty of wearing their fraternities pity? A case of very kind in the high school at this campus just a short time ago, but there is a little red corner. No wonder had the parents or this girl held in their hands, and one wonders that the assembly is postponed, "indefinitely.

NOTICE

All students who have been asked to attend the installation ceremony on Saturday afternoon will meet on Clinton street north of Iowa Avenue promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

BOARD ABANDONS INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET THIS SPRING

Because of inducements that almost every college and high school in the state was offering, the annual interscholastic track meet of the state high school boys was abandoned by the state high school directors. The head track man of the University of Iowa, said that in his opinion, the colleges and high schools in the state would find it more advantageous to hold track meets of their own, as the expenditures for such would barely cover the expenses of the event.

MISS HAASER RETURNS FROM THE MEET

Miss Mary Haaser, superintend- ence of the nurses at the University hospital, has returned from the east where she attended a Red Cross meet in Philadelphia. She is the only national head- man in the state.

Miss Haaser did not return to work immediately after her return, as she was still exhausted from her travels.

NO PETITION IN LAW COLLEGE TO END SCHOOL

The report on the campus yesterday that a petition to dismiss school for the remainder of the year was being circulated in the law college was false, according to authorities in the college.

"There is absolutely no truth in the report," said Prof. H. F. Goodwin, "if there were any petition it would never got very far. The law college is running as smoothly as any other college."
