As an excellent sport, representing every women’s organization in the University, are working night and day for the big event. SAYS CISTERN WATER IS UNCLEAN

State Chemist Given Pointers How To Keep Rain Water Pure

Much of the city water that is used in Iowa is not fit for use, according to C. J. Higgin, water analyst for the Bloomington water works, who has examined the city water and has shown that it is not fit for use. Much of the disease used for cleaning and purifying the water is not used, and the water becomes so through neglect. In some cases water is made worse by using chlorine in the water.

In order to keep city water pure, the citizens must all take their part. It is the first part of the water that is delivered and is to be used. After a dry spell the water should be allowed an extra thorough filtering, which will remove most of the dust and street dirt which otherwise must enter the citizens.

Two Context Words To Pronounce It

There are two current words, and one member of the English department, to pronounce the word cantonment, which until a year or so ago was practically unsaid by Jaycee hot dogs. The pronunciation is now present in the speech of almost every American household. In fact the introduction and widespread use of the word has so expanded that it is not as yet any agreement on its pronunciation.

It may be pronounced o-n-t-o-o-n plus o-n, with the accent on the second syllable; or it may be pronounced o-n-a-o-o-n plus o-n, with the accent on the t-o-o-n, which is being placed in the position. The French pronunciation in which the second and last syllables are given a small sound with the accent on the last syllable is not long, with the accent also on the second syllable seem to be without influence.

While there are two correct pronunciations of this word the English pronouncing committee has pronounced it as is the more commonly accepted in American English. It is easier and sounds more logical.

UNIVERSITY GETS TEACHERS PLACES

Many Persons Obtain Positions Through Committee of College of Education

Over two hundred and fifty teachers, superintendents, principals, and other persons engaged in school work have been placed in positions since the committee has been in operation. Many more would have been placed but home economics, manual training, agriculture, science, and athletics have been held in abeyance, until the committee, according to those in control, has found time to arrange suitable positions.

This does not include a large number of persons placed in the last two weeks. A number of new organizations have been explained by their presidents, gymnasium games will be played and refreshments served.

ACACIA SECOND AMONG LIBERAL ARTS FRATERNITIES

The University report as published in the Daily Iowan under date of September 14 contained an error in the average of the Acacia fraternity. The published report gave them an average of 75.34, which should have been 79.74, thus placing the Acacia seventh in the list of all fraternities and second in the list of liberal arts fraternities.

CALL FOR YOUR BOOK

"I wish the books would call for your 'no books,'" was the gist of a one minute interview with R. H. Maynard, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. restroom.

These little books are particularly helpful to first year men and are designed especially for the giving of little hints about the University.

BOOKS FOR SOLDIERS COMING IN SOON

University Librarian Sets Out Need for Supplying Army Men With Reading.

"Books for the new Soldiers Library are coming too slowly," was a statement made by Miss Jane Hobbs, the University Librarian in a recent interview. At the request from the United States Government, the American Library Association has undertaken to provide libraries for our soldiers. This will be made possible by a million dollar war fund which the association is attempting to raise.

It must be understood that a library is something more than a collection of books. Miss Hobbs states: 'The library system for our soldiers will consist not only of books, but of buildings and equipment, and every factor of modern library service—all under the organization is manifestly the best fitted for this work, the American Library association. The association was command ed by the U. S. Government to undertake this work.

The University library is assisting in handling these funds. Books are very acceptable, but just as present money is very necessary to carry on the work. Miss Hobbs is prepared to receive donations, and to see that the money is forwarded to the proper organization.
