Where we fall short

General "straighten up" is given by the adjutant general of the United States army as the most glaring fault noted in the service of the officers under modern conditions. He described this as being a mental and physical indifference.

"I have observed at camp many otherwise excellent men who have failed because in our school system the emphasis is not placed upon the avoidance of this mental and physical handicaps," Adj. Gen. H. H. Farmer declared in a recent letter to President Roosevelt. "Mental alertness, soundness of judgment, thinking and acting in connection with accuracy, speech and carriage have been too much biased upon at military camps throughout the country for two reasons: that money may be saved as nearly as human effort can extract the material and, secondly, that the qualities referred to don't come to the surface.

"A great number of men have fallen at camp because of inability to articulate in a legible manner, or because of their failure to carry on a conversation with the material and tone of speech at hand that and priceless human lives may not be cruelly unbalanced by the lack of these qualities referred to."

"I am not impressed with his command in clear distinct language, with sufficient volume of voice to be heard reasonably far; is not entitled to give commands upon which human life will depend. Many men disqualified by this handicap might have become officers under our country's flag had they been properly trained in school and college. It is to be hoped therefore that more emphasis will be placed upon the basic principles of education in the training of our youth. Even without general training in eloquence a great improvement could be secured by the instructors in our schools and colleges, regardless of the subject, instilling that all answers be given in a clear, crisp, well rounded voice; which, of course, necessitates the opening of the mouth and free movement of the lips. It is remarkable how many excellent men suffer from this handicap, and how almost impossible it is to correct this after the formative years of life."

"In addition to this physical dulness and slip shodness is what might be termed the meekness of mental articulation. Many men fail to come up to the requirements set out for our officers reserve because they have not been trained to appreciate the importance of accuracy in thinking. To many schools are assigned with an appropriate answer to a question. Little or no incentive is given increased mental effort to articulate ideas and present them clearly and unequivocally. Initiative upon decision is thought and expression must never be lost sight of. This requires

M. J. McNeil and Hume Neilson occupied their usual places at table, and Bender and Reed held down the end positions. Jenkins appeared on the field in a suit, but his injured shoulder kept him off of the scrimmage. Hamilton directed the team, Hamilton placed at full-back, as usual, with Capt. Davis and Lewis at half-back.

Freshmen Touchdown

Against this array of varsity material, the first year men, who received the kinks, could do little, but once the ball changed hands, the situation was found to be practically neutral. Neither side able to advance consistently, it looked like a draw with the odds slightly in favor of the varsity, when the slip came that decided the advantage. The freshman quarterback, in place of playing safe and kicking, attempted a forward pass on his own twenty yard line. It was intercepted and returned back to line of scrimmage.

Despite this sudden reverse, the freshman line held fast, but a forward pass failed first down. Once more the Baron's forward wall rallied back the varsity攻势, but with the ball "forth and free," the varsity Henderson passed and placed to Lathrop over the goal. That was the only touchdown.

Weaver Will Give Patriotic Speech at Iowa Program

Plans for Iowa Day celebration are progressing under Chair.

S. H. Morris.

JESSE TO PRESIDE AT MEETING

Purpose of Celebration Is To Install a Love For The State of Iowa.

Iowa day, October 5, is to be estab. lished at Iowa City and the University by a patriotic meeting. With the present arrangements formulated by Chairman F. S. Horacek, physician of political science, President Young will preside at the meeting and the Hon. J. B. Weaver of Des Moines will give the main address. A complete program will be published later.

Iowa week and Iowa day will be observed all over the state. The date of Iowa day was set by Albert M. Bever, superintendent of public instruction, upon the suggestions of the Greater Iowa association. The purpose of observing the day is to instill into the hearts of Iowans, a love for and a pride in their native state, and to emphasize the wonderful possibilities of the state.

It is hoped through the medium of the public school that Iowa's progress in agriculture, manufacturing, road building, and education may be expressed in terms of happiness and social betterment.

"Iowa day will be of special note this year because the present conditions are desirable to emphasize what Iowa has done in the matter of patriotic influence," says Professor Horacek.
