IOWA TAKES ANOTHER CONFERENCE GAME

MEN MAY MOVE TO NEW BARRACKS WITHIN TEN DAYS

State Has Authorized Diversion of Funds in Order to Make the Building Permanent

CONSTRUCTION IS RETARDED

Arched Roof Over Large Court Will Form Armory if Legislature Grants Needed Funds

About five hundred of the S. A. T. C. may be moved to the new University barracks on the West side within ten days if the weather and other conditions continue favorable, according to J. M. Fisk, superintendent of grounds and buildings.

Each division of the new structure is being built as a unit in order that men may be moved as rapidly as possible. The contract calls for the completion of the entire barracks by January 1, but difficulties in the matter of securing labor and materials have somewhat retarded work.

Wooden Barracks Uneconomical
Last year the legislature made a grant of $125,000 for the construction of an armory at the University, but owing to war conditions work on it was held up.

When housing the S. A. T. C. became a pressing problem something had to be done immediately. The government offered to furnish the money necessary for building wooden barracks, but the University authorities considered that it would be a waste of money to put up temporary quarters. The state executive council, pending the approval of the legislature, granted the right to divert money from other funds to add to the government appropriation and thus make possible a permanent building.

Built Around Large Court

At the present time barracks of stone-trimmed brick are being constructed around an inner rectangular court. This court is 200 feet wide by 400 feet long. The hope for the future is that the legislature will be kind enough to grant the amount of money necessary to roof the court over. When this is done it will form the armory. Plans are for an arched roof without central support. This would mean that the arch would have to be at least ninety feet high in the center, as high as the Johnson County Bank building.

The signing of peace terms will not lessen the value of this structure. When no longer needed for barracks it will be used for rifle practice and other University activities.

BAND MAY GO TO CAMP DODGE

The University band has secured permission to go to Camp Dodge Thanksgiving. Plans are still incomplete, but it is probable that the band will parade through town on the way to the train.

It has been the custom in the past for students of the University and citizens of Iowa City to contribute to band trips, and this scheme may be adopted to raise the necessary funds for the trip.

FIVE S. A. T. C. MEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Merle White, Who Was the Most Seriously Injured, Still in University Hospital

Five men of Co. O were struck by a car driven by Hary Dubraba, an employee in Brown's garage of Tiffin Thursday evening about 7 o'clock. The accident occurred at the intersection of Madison and Washington streets, as the men were on their way to mess.

The injured men were taken to the University hospital in the car. Merle White, who was the most seriously injured, is still at the hospital. The other four were but slightly bruised and have been returned to the company.

According to Lieut. Barmore who saw the accident, as he was on his way to the women's gymnasium, the car turned sharply into the group of men who were well to the north side of the street, and about thirty feet from the corner. The driver and witnesses drove at once to the mayor's office, where Lieut. Barmore preferred charges against the driver for carelessness. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

GIRLS OF UNIVERSITY HELP WAR ORPHANS

Alpha Theta, Pi Phi, and Kappa Kappa Gamma sororities are supporting war orphans. Odd little French letters have arrived from grateful relatives or from the happy youngsters themselves.

The girls of Currier hall have donated their magazine and party funds to the little French orphans for the last two years.

HUMANIST TO MEET

The Humanist society will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thayer, 512 North Van Buren street, Monday, Nov. 25, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Nellie S. Aurner, dean of women, will read the paper of the evening on "Hengest: A Study in Early English Hero Legend." Mrs. Aurner won her Ph. D. degree with her thesis in this special field.

Mrs. E. W. Rockwood, wife of Dr. Rockwood, is to be a member of one of the teams which is going to make speaking tours over Iowa next week for the benefit of the war savings stamp drive.

FRATERNITIES' FATE DEPENDS ON ACTION OF MEETING TODAY

Administration Favors Opening of Chapters Providing Men Regard Action Advisable

GOVERNMENT LIFTS ITS BAN

Local Organizations Are Eager to Resume Chapter Life—Houses Are Problem

University officials will approve the re-establishment of men's social fraternities in the University on an active basis, provided the fraternity men themselves deem such action advisable, Dean Rienow stated in an interview yesterday.

Representatives of the various fraternities will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the liberal arts auditorium to decide what action will be taken.

Active Basis Favored

Recent caucuses as to the sentiment of the fraternity men relative to an immediate resumption of activities indicate a strong desire on the part of the men to re-open local chapters. Unless, however, the government issues orders that the men in the S. A. T. C. will be removed from barracks it would be impractical to re-open the fraternity houses, fraternity men say.

The government has now placed its formal sanction upon the fraternity in college training camps.

Became Inactive

The fraternities voted to become inactive in the autumn before the United States had declared fraternity life incompatible with that of the S. A. T. C.

Rushing and pledging of members and fraternity parties would be the first activities resumed, should local chapters decide to become active before the opening of the University next year.

TO BEGIN ACADEMIC WORK

Men Transferred to Other Camps May Return to S. A. T. C.

Students formerly in the S. A. T. C. who have been transferred to officers' training camps will be allowed the privilege of returning to the University as members of the S. A. T. C., provided they return at once, according to a communication to the president's office from Washington.

The message further states that normal academic work will begin at the opening of the second term. In the colleges of law and engineering, students will be received as they normally are in September, and courses will be so arranged that they may do a full year's work in the remaining two terms and a summer school. In the college of liberal arts, there will be a large increase in the number of courses offered, and full quotas of courses will again be offered in all departments.

There will be a meeting of all fraternity men in the liberal arts auditorium this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LOUISE SWANSON DIES OF FLU IN DES MOINES

Louise Swanson, sophomore in the University last year and a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, died in Des Moines yesterday, a victim of Spanish influenza, followed by pneumonia.

Miss Swanson was at Drake University this year studying music and was in school when she contracted influenza. She was a member of the Erodelphian literary society, while at Iowa. Glenn Greenwood of the Varsity eleven is a cousin of Miss Swanson's. Her home is in Webster City.

UNIVERSITY GIVES $12,000 TO U. W. W.

Expect Student and Faculty Contributions to Reach That Figure

Although reports on the United War Work campaign are still incomplete, it is estimated that the University will have contributed $12,000 by the close of the drive. The exact amount will be announced later in the week.

Solicitation was conducted in separate groups, the University women, the men, the S. A. T. C., the faculty, and the nurses. For this reason it has been difficult to compile the final results of the campaign.

Different women's houses about the campus have contributed the following sums:

HAWKEYES WALLOP PURPLE ELEVEN IN CONFERENCE GAME

Iowa Scores in Second Period of Battle—Reed in Last Game Is Brilliant

IOWA STANDS NEAR TOP

Defeat of Northwestern Teams Puts Iowa in Second Place—Final Score is 23-7

The Iowa slogan "Wreck Northwestern" is no more a mere sign but a realization for the Hawkeyes hammered the Purple team to a pulp winning by the one-sided count of 23 to 7, in one of the most spectacular battles ever played on Iowa field. The defeat of the Purple wrecked all their hopes of second place in the conference and puts Iowa in a position to claim honors.

Murphy's team scored early in the first quarter when Peton recovered Kelley's fumble on the kickoff; Underhill passed to Edgren for 30 yards to the yard line, and Underhill scored on the next play by a fake. Cigrand booted the goal, giving Northwestern 7. For the rest of the quarter, the Iowa backs hit the Purple line for huge gains, only to lose a chance to score when a pass went wrong. The quarter ended with the ball on the 50-yard line.

Iowa Shows Up Late

Iowa opened the second period by smashing the Purple forward wall for long gains, Scott, Lohman, and Donnelly taking turns at the oval. The Hawks carried the ball 39 yards to the 4-yard line. Slater was called back but was shy a yard for the down, Northwestern taking the ball. Underhill kicked, and Iowa marched to the 15-yard line and lost the oval on downs. Kelley fumbled a punt but recovered. Lohman passed to Reed for 40 yards to the 7-yard line. Lohman hit the line for 6 yards and went over the next play. Kelley kicked goal. Iowa, 7; Northwestern, 7.

Iowa soon took the ball when Belding took a pass. Donnelly, Scott, and Lohman went to the Purple 4-yard line, having made 26 yards in the drive. Iowa fumbled on the 4-yard line, Northwestern took the ball and Underhill kicked out as the half ended.

Fourth Quarter Fast

The Hawkeyes scored in the third period when Kelley dropped back to his 20-yard line and sent the ball over for 3 points, Iowa, 10; Northwestern, 7.

The Iowa team outplayed their opponents consistently taking the ball for long gains on passes and smashes, Lohman, Donnelly, and Scott doing the artillery work. The quarter ended when Reed fumbled a pass after a hard run. It was Iowa's ball on her 35-yard line.

The last quarter was the one that spelled disaster for Murphy, for the Hawkeye team tore through the weak Purple line at will. Iowa took the ball to the 2-foot line on plunges by Scott, Lohman, and Donnelly. Lohman went over for the second marker. Kelley missed goal, Iowa, 16; Northwestern, 7.

Iowa scored the last touchdown when Reed hooked a long pass and (continued on page 4)

RECIPROCITY

Everybody who knows anything about newspaper publishing—and nowadays that means the majority of people—knows also that the principal element in holding down the subscription price is the advertising. In general the rate of subscription alone would no more than pay for the white paper, often not so much as that. Aside from its commercial value to the business man, and its educational value to the reader advertising is a mighty factor in dissemination of news, and so it has become a powerful influence in the advance of civilization. Think of what the newspaper has meant to us in the past four years and more of war.

Thanks to its advertisers, the subscription price of The Daily Iowan is maintained at a lower rate than that of any other university paper in our acquaintance. The benefit accrues to the students of Iowa. Happily this advantage is in general appreciated, and our subscription list this year is the largest in the recent history of the paper, if not in all its history.

But this is not what we started to say. The support given to the student paper by Iowa City business men imposes a corresponding obligation toward these merchants on the part of Iowa students. It is not too much to suggest that students form the habit of patronizing merchants who advertise in The Iowan. The result will be of mutual profit, for these are the live and dependable business men of the city. We believe, as do they, that The Iowan gives them value received through our advertising columns but this does not lessen the obligation of University students. A little pains to read the advertising and to remember the merchants who are loyal to student interests is both fair and advantageous. Let us have reciprocity.

A FORGOTTEN TREASURE

The librarian in Ranney library looked up startled. Someone had entered!

Six weeks the librarian had waited. Every day she had dusted and arranged her treasures in the hope that a visitor might wander over that lonely threshold. Her eyes sparkled now that the opportunity was at hand for her to display the beautiful books with hand painted illustrations, the "first editions," the vanities of generations ago, and the case of costly art treasures entrusted to her care. Even the old Swiss music box would play with new inspiration, she thought.

Then the stranger spoke. "I am an Iowan reporter," she said, "is there any news from Ranney?"

News? None except her own entrance. She left and a deep peace born of months of solitude fell again upon the old library.

In distant cities, our students would gaze upon such a collection with ready appreciation. Here, accessible to all attempts only moths.

B. I. F. F.

Well, folks, it seems kind of funny, doesn't it, to think that it's really over? Of course there's an awful lot to do yet before things across the creek are by any means settled, but I guess we're safe to say that the war's over, and don't need to apologise for all the racket we made that Monday. Anyhow, the Kaiser's gone on a visit, the dear old Vaterland is having an exciting little picnic all its own, and the boys have reached the Rhine, Nitchyvo, or whatever it is the Russan say, about all the rest of it. The war is really over, and we'll all say Hallaloo.

But isn't it funny the way there's always a lot of little drawbacks to everything good? The only thing that prevents us when we think of that, from going out and sticking our head in the mud, is the thought that for everything bad there is some kind of a recompense. Dear me there we go, off the subject again. You'd know our father was a preacher and our mother a teacher, wouldn't you, now? To return to the drawbacks, which can be found even in the peace for which we're so glad,—isn't it funny how sort of lost a fellow feels, with no big patriotic purpose to color the every day work with a kind of glory that not even all the horrors could quite take away? Why, here we had no more than got ourselves trained to the place where we could drink even cocoa without sugar, than the sugar supply was eased up. Our knitting had just reached a point of real speed and accuracy, and here there's nothing left to knit for. We look with tears of unrequited toil upon the piles of laborious socks in our bureau, waiting for real winter weather to be sent to our brother,—who will never have a chance now to wear them in Berlin.

We know a girl who has one of those brass bars that lieuts scatter around among their lady friends, and the poor thing is nearly crying her eyes out because now the fellow that gave it to her isn't going to get his commission after all. She says she used to say things about the Kaiser because he wouldn't get out, and now she feels madder than ever at him to think he didn't give some warning of what he was going to do. If she'd only known, she could have had a real lieutenant instead, but she passed him up because in civil life he was president of the Epworth League, whereas the other was a leading frat man and a swell dancer.

Another sad thing about the war ending so sudden-like is the embarrassing position it puts a lot of people in. There are all the students who were awfully worried about spending Dad's money when any campaigns came along, but had to use it for education to prepare themselves to help with the reconstruction. And now here the time for the reconstruction is all at once with us, and what are the earnest helpers going to do about it? Well in honesty they can't do anything but turn in and give their best whether it be in labor or even in some of that money of dad's that would otherwise go for nothing. When we run to the window at half past five and watch the flag come down for retreat while the band plays The going to look to us to take our turn little bit of thinking, and realize that there's plenty to do yet to keep that flag still waving, and that when the boys come home they are going to look to us to take our turn at the work they have begun.

THANKS-GIVING WEEK WAR SAVINGS STAMP DRIVE

THANKS-GIVING WEEK WAR SAVINGS STAMP DRIVE

"For the Honor of Iowa" is the slogan that has been adopted by the Iowa War Savings committee for the drive that will be put on Nov. 25 to 30 to sell the remaining $15,000,000 of Iowa's quota of War Savings Stamps. The week will be known as "Honor Cash Sales Week." The high mark of the campaign will be reached on Thanksgiving Day when every man, woman and child in the state will be expected to go to the nearest polling place and there buy for cash his or her fair share of the unsold remainder of the quota of the city or county in which he or she resides.

The very honor of the state and of its citizens is at stake. After the state's remarkable showing in the last two liberty loan campaigns and her record of leadership in all war work, surely the people of Iowa will go to the very limit to prevent the black mark of failure being set after the state's name in Treasury Department records in Washington.

The drive will be carried on on a cash basis. Because the War Savings campaign is so nearly ended, it will be impossible to accept pledges during the drive. Have your money ready!

All those who make purchases of stamps on Thanksgiving day or who have redeemed their War Savings pledges by that time will be entitled to wear "Honor" tags on their coats.

HAWKEYES WALLOP PURPLE ELEVEN

(continued from page 1) gained 15 yards. The ball was on the 45-yard line from where Kelley sent the backs through to the 3-yard line on plunges, Lohman hit the line for the touchdown. Kelley kicked goal. Iowa, 23; Northwestern, 7.

Iowa Has Many Stars The Iowa backs went through the line for gains almost every time they tried. Kelley played a star game, his kick putting Iowa ahead. Lohman scored all markers and made a total yardage of 105 yards.

Captain Reed played the best game of his career, his breaking of passes, was as good as ever was seen on the Iowa Field while he received several long ones for gains.

McLaughland, Cigrand and Edgren starred for Northwestern.

The Hawkeyes played a brand of football that they were coached. They stopped the Purple pass attack to perfection the first quarter, thus forcing Underhill to kick continually. The Iowa forward wall broke through the Northwestern line at will and more than once did Synle, Slater, and Hunselman spill plays. Playing in his last game on Iowa field, Captain Reed distinguished himself by his ability to intercept aerial heaves and to hook them from Lohman. Reed played a strong defensive game, tackling their backs for many losses.

The Iowa win assures Jones of second place in the conference.

TO NAME HAWKEYE BUSINESS MANAGER AND EDITOR SOON

Board of Trustees Will Select Heads of Junior Annual Early This Week.

NINE APPLICATIONS ARE IN

Seven Women and Two Men Seek Big Positions—Must Elect 1921 Trustees

The editor-in-chief and business manager of the Victory Hawkeye will be chosen by the Hawkeye board the first of this week. Saturday, the last day applications could be made, nine had been filed, two by men and seven by women in the University.

George Killinger and Fred A. Steiner, sophomores elected last year for the Hawkeye board, were appointed to fill the positions of editor-in-chief and business manager, but are not in school this year. The other two student members elected to the board were Eugene Murray and Miriam Brueckner.

Profits Are Divided Other members of the staff are chosen by the editor and business manager, subject to the approval of the board. Work will be started immediately and the prospects are good for a splendid Victory Hawkeye.

Since the incorporation of the Hawkeye it has been impossible for the staff to make any profits until all debts are paid. Any profits which remain after all debts and salaries have been paid are distributed, a certain percent to the surplus fund of the Hawkeye and a certain percent to the editor-in-chief and business manager who have earned such net profits. The articles of incorporation of The Hawkeye Incorporated will be found on the last pages of 1919 Hawkeye.

Board Vacancies Unfilled The sophomores in their election this year will choose four members for the Hawkeye board. These members must be students of the University "in good and regular standing" having at least thirty hours of credit.

BIRD OF PARADISE AT ENGLERT THEATRE WED.

Oliver Morosco's production of Richard Walton Tully's captivating story of the Hawaiian Islands, "The Bird of Paradise," will be seen at the Englert Theatre Wednesday night, Nov. 27. This will make the eighth season of "The Bird of Paradise," and it bids fair to last for many more years.

The charm of this pretty play lies not only in its originality, but it also has the one essential which makes a theatrical production a success, namely, "a heart punch." It tells the love story of the little Hawaiian princess, Luana, who marries a white man, only to realize like many before her, that the intermingling of the white and brown race should never be, and realizing this, she returns to her people and sacrifices herself, to save them from destruction. It also teaches the wonderful story of Christ, that no matter how low a man may have fallen, he can yet be brought back "to the light" through the pure influence of a good woman.
