HE DAILY IOWAN

H. C. L. AT COLLEGE

Remember the good old days when a nickel shoved across the counter brought a large dipperful of ice cream soup covered with syrup? Remember when meals for two movies only required the outlay of 10 cents? "Two hits" will no longer satisfy the asking ward of the student finishing a morning or afternoon round of classes. And finding a room for a dollar a week is an attempt at the impossible.

The majority of the students on the campus today will not be able to count these days of low prices as an enjoyable part of their college experience, for the situation today has created more need and earnest of the strain on pocketbooks. Holders of the pocketbooks may complain at the rise, but nevertheless at the same time they are consciously demanding more improved commodities on which to spend their money. Consider the case of the student's expenditures for luxuries. When Cips come in a nickel, they were minus whipped cream and nuts, and the movie of the same day produced by the flickering screen was short; but now he can spend $1.00 and go to the movies and for that, on right feet, he would accord to a gathering of friends elsewhere, yet many a student fails to observe it in college halls.
