CHRISTMAS TREES FOR PERKINS CHILDREN

Not hesitate of entering a military career, but the proposition of leaving Iowa, is deterring Lester Bedingfield's decision with regard to the recent appointment to the University of the Iowa basketball team, from a statement of the Hawkeye athletes last evening. Bedingfield's parents, of course, were delighted happy at Christmas time, so please and enclosed the enclose the

SYLVESTER IS DIRECTOR
Former Professor of Psychology Directs Des Moines Health Center

R. H. Sylvester, formerly an assistant professor of psychology in the university, is director of the Des Moines health center, a new organization just starting in that city for the psychological diagnosis of juvenile cases.

A psychological clinic, operated by experts, will be an important department of the health center. The service will deal with cases referred to the bureau by physicians, parents or guardians of unusually brilliant, or foolish, children, peculiar children and those of a serious or unstable temperament. Mr. Sylvester was in charge of the Child's Welfare department here last year, succeeding Prof. H. T. Baldwin.

The organization of the new Des Moines health center in which Professor Baldwin has taken such an active part, plans that for its

MAKE A FRIEND FOR HOSA
Today and tomorrow 4996 students will go to their homes over the state each carrying a message of the university. Before departing for home there are several questions which each student might ask himself: Am I in the right mixture of the university? Am I acquainted with all the curriculum? Do I know Iowa?

To talk about Iowa, interesting and as many occasions it does, but at least an explanation every Iowa could not only explain the rules of etiquette and speak the general name of Alma Mater where ever we may go.

Persons over the state are interested in the institution which they are helping to support and any good word of the progress of the university is interesting to them. What is news near to you may be fresh news to many. News columns carry the news but personal descriptions and observations have a great appeal to many hearers.

Every University student returning home can be a force for the good of his University. Personal advertising is the most successful way of bringing before the public a worthy institution. If 4996 students become boosters for Old Gold, relate of the progress of the university, and to all of athletics at Iowa, the State University will become foremost in the minds of many. A few words on the Memorial Union may bring the university to the alumni and make a stranger present in the Million Dollar fund. Be mindful of the three new buildings to be constructed as soon as the weather permits, the library, psychiatric hospital, and prison home. There are who will be interested in a description of the new Quadrangle and the Children's hospital. Tell the story of the growth of the University.

Anthropology of the campus body are always of interest to the folk at home. The birth of the Student Council and its present welfare will give evidence of how the students are coming into their own Iowa College. The campus publications, Frank, the Alumni, the University Bulletin, the Tour Book, and the Professor's Hand Book obtained by your friends will automatically create sympathy for Old Gold.

During your brief sojourn from the university make a friend for Iowa. Talk, write, and think in terms of Old Gold. Typify the spirit of the College Spread University propaganda. Make a friend for Iowa.
