The Iowa basketball squad went been out of the news on account of

Dempsey in Overalls

All Around but not a red to drive.

Our country has given us a fresh and powerful image of the picture appearing in a Chicago Printer recently,

Jack Dempsey, champion of the United States, is coming clean, but a non pro. Mr. Dempsey is depicted holding a paining hairnet in a Pennsylvania shipyard, ready to do eight hours of hard work as his bit in winning the war.

He brand new overall, fresh from the stock of some enterprising clothing factor, are not the brightest bit in the attic of this debonair young worker. However, he also wears patent leather dude's top shoes while he is driving trains. No doubt, he too, is used to in his automobile.

Many day laborers do.

No grocery spout, no diet, no brightest cause of his brains are in evidence.

He is as slick in his overalls and patent leather shoes as a tailor man at a formal party. His smile of self-satisfaction makes one feel that he has worn incorrect apparel for such an occasion. He should have been a fine ball player, we think.

Mr. Dempsey looks almost as much as a real ball player as a tailor man. Willard looked like a prize fighter last month of July. He should apply to a manufacturer asking for a job as a model now that his fighting days are closing in on him.

At an overcoat on an overall display and would attract crowds of admiring women to any tailor's window. Who knows, their, too, may buy overalls and go to the shipyard?

Our champion is a good looking boy, a pretty boy, but how unethical he is in overall's! This driver who predicts a revolution because of prohibition will have it in the pocket by revising his form.

The chairmen of the junior pro committee is guaranteed with nothing but his thoughts for combat.

Keller February with a cold, the flu, a sick season, a restless army, and a woody grove conditions.

While the officials and students of the Iowa State University, the dormitory sits back in peace.

A thought for Sunday—go to church.

Make the key words wise for democracy.

Your hair take a raisin and so will hair.

Iowa's Sportsmanship

The following editorial, written by Harry L. Becicot, sports editor of the Iowa State Student, Ames, appeared in the Student January 19, 1919:

IOWA CAPTAIN MAY PLAY
IN GOPHER GAME MONDAY
yesterday. "The Gophers have a team that must be respected by any fan in the conference and only the kind of playing that led Chicago will defeat the Minneapolis quintet."
More Scots Added
The game tomorrow is called for 7:45 o'clock. Two extra lines of scouts have been added to the side stands of the main floor and it has been estimated that approximately 300 persons will be accommodated
by this new arrangement. Iowa fans are requested by the athletic authority not to stand and limit at the opposing team, first because it is unsportsmanlike, but more especially because it works against the Old Gold team.

NOTICE
The Political science club will not meet Monday night as extended because of the prevailing sickness.
