Diane of the Iowa Memorial Union project and to students contributing classes to a story about George Washington's early misfortunes with the cherry tree published in a school reader of about 1850. The story quoted the lad's father as saying that rather than have his son tell a lie, he would gladly pay him his fines. Regarding a modern view of this, it has been noted that the atmosphere of humorous mock-heroism, and some rather cynical comments, have emerged that this change of popular sentiment is a certain tightening of the corruption of the present age. On the other hand it seems a rather curious sign of a modern development of frankness and candid recognition of human shortcomings.

We have even come to doubt the entire validity of the cherry tree episode. The great Father of America seems even greater as a regular boy than as the narrow-minded, accentuated century writers have pictured him, an almost mystical creation with a psychological inability to tell a lie.

Return of Washington's birthday, with its shadow of that rugged personality, invites an attempt of a general introspection, and the present tendency to call a spade a spade looks like a great advance after the day when it was said, "It cannot tell a lie."

Thomas Hardy says women will put up with a great deal of unconventionality in behavior, "when they want it in [his] book, when to offer". "when they want it, must be mastered", "this is sometimes"; when they want no remains, in which case he might have added, when they want a collection of sterility jewelry, which is always.

Henderson's "Statement" still holds his talk in his own defense proved him guilty; he will not be tried.

Kansas reports 1913 as the deepest depression the state had since 1907. The fear history repeats itself.

WDC PIPE

TRADE MARK

Nine cases out of ten, the man who once smokes a W D C Pipe becomes a life member of the W D C fraternity. A W D C is certainly a man's pipe smoke. It's as sweet and mellow as carefully selected French briar and expert seasoning can make it. Not only material of the first water, but craftsmanship of the highest order, and designs that are most pleasing— all combine to make the W D C Pipe a smoke of peace, contentment and satisfaction. A man's smoke. Any good dealer will confirm this.

Virtues and Objections to Honor System

From Day to Day the Iowa Will Carry a Series of Discussions, and Reports on the Merits of the Honor System at Other Institutions to Familiarize the Student Body with the Various Systems.

In a recent statement, former president Taft said that he approved of the Honor System proposed for Yale, provided that a gymnastic is imposed for violations. (He added, "In effect, it is a recent custom that the immediate responsibility for the student's fairness in the examinations be transferred from the faculty to the classes."

I have not the slightest objection to this, if the class as a whole takes the responsibility. This responsibility, however, should involve some sort of investigation by the class as a whole to secure the fairness which ought to be obtained.

"If, therefore, the class will stipulate, as the class does in the scientific school under its honor system, that uniform execution by any member of the class in the examination, known to the other members of the class, shall be the subject of investigation and tried by a class court, with a report of the facts and a recommendation of a penalty, if any is deemed necessary, to the dean for confirmation and action, I strongly approve the change proposed; otherwise I do not.

President Harry A. Garfield, William College, writes:

"I beg to say that I have observed the working of the Honor System both here and at Princeton, and I believe, in the system in principle, and can testify to the efficacy with which it works in both places.

Rector of P. E. Hall, of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, Md., writes:

"The authorities here have always taken on the ground that the only efficient way of securing honesty in examinations is through appeal to the honor of the students. They are driven to understand that we assume that they can be trusted."
