GALLOPING CURSES PLACED BY CHESS AS QUAD AMUSEMENT

"P O 16" will soon disappear forever as it is removed from the Quadangle, for "galloping cur- ses" will be a war role as far as students are concerned. The men's dormitory is center- ed for its play, for "go cards" are so popular among the freshmen in the college of applied education that many students and others will have an opportunity to join the new organization at a meeting in Room 417 at 7:45 today.

PLAY TO BE GIVEN TWICE

Hugh Rosson, manager, Leagues for Minneapolis Tomorrow to Arrange For Scenario Scene—Hope to Put On Most Dramatic Production in University's History

The senior play committee has selected "The Great Divide," by William Vaughan Moody, for the annual play of the University. The production is composed of John Jardiel, liberal arts, James Richardson, law, Fred Beal, liberal arts, and Harold T. Boyd, liberal arts.

The play will be given twice this week, once during the latter part of May and again at the opening night of commencement week. This policy has been adopted this year in order to give the play an opportunity to see the play before the close of the semester. The play has not been held in any other university because of circumstances not now be repeated.

Organization of the Dental Students

The Association of Dental Students of the University of Iowa has been formed. The association is the result of the feeling on the part of the entire student body in the college of dentistry that such an organization was necessary.

The dental students' association can do much for the college of dentistry. It can create a greater clime and a college unity and spirit, none of which make directly for a greater law school. It can make possible better and more harmonious dealings between faculty on the one hand and dental students on the other.

It can do for the college of dentistry what the college associations in the colleges of law and applied sciences do for those colleges.

When Roosevelt Threw Dough At His Father

ROOSEVELT'S father whipped him only once. The small boy had committed a slight indiscretion. His father had been stumped until proper punishment came to him as a flash of inspiration.

"Politeness," he shrugged, "is not worth being punished." And as he locked the boy up, he explained, "The boy had been punished for being polite." The story is told in "The Young of the Sawdust Pile" by Peter B. Wofford.

BOB HAYES, former University star, won the 100 yard dash close to 10.51. He is the last summer to remain in the University. The book is the last of a series of plays staged by the educational dramatics club. The last play of the season will be presented by the University Dramatic Society on the first Friday afternoon.

The plays presented are representative of the work that is being done in the educational dramatics club. The plays will be given in the future.

The second of these plays will be presented by "The Christmas Tree," by George M. Cohan, and "The Neighbors" by Sara T. Connell. These two plays will be given in the natural science auditorium Thursday evening April 16.
