had the athletic board decided to come from a season at the Theatre du Vivre Colombo in Paris, where they have been appearing in the plays that are in the mounted list.

Andre Charis is a Parisian who has been accepted to represent the Paris Conservatory with the French tragedian Mount Daily. He appeared for the second time at the Theatre du Globe in Paris under the direction of Andre Charis, who was the first one to introduce modern stage in France.

Marcelle Darcy, a Belgian by birth, studied both at the Brussels and Paris Conservatories and after playing for several seasons in leading parts in Brussels, Geneva, and Paris, she came to this country with her uncle, the Belgian solicitor Ciracy. Last season she returned in France where she had a very attractive season in Paris.

Prof. C. E. Young of the department of Romance Languages, in speaking to the French Club yesterday, said: "All the action in a French college is centered about an academic machine (these are major or minor). This attention to detail results in performance with a finish that is not often found on our stage."

Miss Miller said: "We have a unique director of the band, Professor Rousset, who took his position before the University art faculty, which existence was announced yesterday. The concert will be in the natural science auditorium.

"The concert program is not ready until April 23," said Miss Miller. "We have been working on the program of the next concert reader to be given by the University art faculty, which exists nearly three years."

The concert is to be held in the natural science auditorium.

The band is to consist of seven trumpets, two cornets, three bassoons, two baritone, and two tuba. The music will include the anthem of the editor's club and the business manager's song, which will be held over a month and a business and musical situations of the group discussed.

Each candidate must have with him his copy of the registration of the university showing he is enrolled in the course he is to take and

The CURIOUS CUB

He will ask three persons each day questions on timely campus topics. Tell him your answers.

Today's question: What do you think of the Overall Order?

Martin J. Pianta, senior editor: Engineers don't seem very strong for the idea. When the question was brought up by the other evening meeting of the held the opinion that old clothes would serve the purpose just as well as overalls. I think so myself.

Laurence J. Herbst '22, business student: No, the every cross, cannot last. If a man wants to defend the high seat of dressing, it wear his old clothes. And by the way, there a lot of old dress suits lying around.

The club will thrive because it fills out.

The Iowan has nearly complete. Two letters is completely organized and its purpose extended and attained the campus will have underway a striking and perceptible change.

The club is a man with.

Life Insurance

and Education

It has become a axiom in America that education is a necessity and not a luxury, or rather that the lack of education is not, but rather that the lack of education is inevitable to the success of any man, as well as to the success of any nation. This is evidenced by the fact that the student body has grown out of all proportion to the increase of population in the United States. With this growth in the student body, the necessity of having a policy of life insurance is absolutely apparent. Where it is necessary for students to make a loan to enable them to finish their education, they will find the policy will not suit them. A policy of life insurance is utterly unsatisfactory to the student's needs. It will be able to pay off out of the pocketbook.

The advantage of a policy is in the fact that it is not a loan, but an investment of money. The student will find that he will save money instead of the current expenditure of the necessary items of his life.

We've won a lot of prestige in a mighty short time. There's a number of reasons to account for it. Our courtesy, our expert fitting, our fairness of price have had a part in bringing many friends—Perhaps the greatest reason is the fact that we carry Edwin Clapp shoes.
