IOWA HAS SHOWN UP WELL

Ashmore's Men, Though Not Championship Material, Will Figure Strongly in Conference Races—Illinois May Have Chance

By M. F. Carpenter

The results of the basketball games played this season started Monday night when North Iowa defeated the Illinois defense. Iowa had a team rated at 12 to 20 in a poorly played game. The Cornells were not entertained with the best team, but their opponent was the best team, and while they were not the best team, they were not the best team.

This year's resolution has somewhat passed into the possession of the paragrapher and homely supplement editor, but it is still clinging to here and there as an excuse for personal and social moralizing. Affairs general are in rather awkward state, the country and the world over, and a reading about some numistic condition to life one upon another. On the subject of the country, the homely unvarnished suggestion of filling one's wallet with something helpful.

A few thousand students, dressed in the becoming attire of the last few days filled with a desire to get back to the "old place." Despite the fact that they were forced to hang from roof hooks, sit beneath seats, and squeeze out an uneasy existence between piles of luggage, all seemed to be happy.

For two weeks of study aimed to make up all the work which the average student takes for it to be neglected, four weeks of study, in which to make good for himself and be exempt from the difficulties of the coming year. Many students expressed the wish that they were going to take in a new semester's activity instead of making the same old work. There is something somnolent about those things in which we have grown as accustomed.

While congress is wrestling with the immigration problem and a thousand others, and Warren Harding is worrying over the difficulty of the United States in finding a permanent solution, the Column is worrying about the "stuff" it is going to have in tomorrow's paper, and while the "other" went to his column to fire the average student sufficiently aware of the needs of the country, will have an article on a permanent column.

Two hundred and twenty-six out-of-town bankers registered at the Extension division for the Iowa State Bankers Convention, which was held here December 21, 22, and 23. The program consisted of speeches from New York, Chicago, and Des Moines, was arranged by Carl B. Thwaites.

The New Year number of the Iowa Alumnus is now in the hands of the printer and the magazine is expected to appear on the campus about the middle of this month, according to an announcement made yesterday by Mrs. Grace Partners, editor.

yet to oelieve that this year’s team Cornell and Coe. There is no reason last year’s team did.

Bliss Schedule Staff

A brief glance at the chances of all the teams in the Conference gives the following results. Chicago stands out from the rest as the strongest team on paper. It is trying out a new machine system, and has a hard schedule. It is fortunate in playing Illinois and Wisconsin early in the season when these teams do not seem likely to be at full strength.

Illinois has started poorly but has possibilities of great reserve strength. It is unfortunate in having to play Chicago, Wisconsin, and Minnesota all before the end of January. It has a hard schedule. On present showing it can be given only an outside chance at the championship. But it may well be the best team in the Conference by the first of March.

Old Gold to Have Indiana Indiana has a harder schedule than last year. It is trying out a new coach and has beaten smaller teams badly. Its team seems to be playing a more open game than was the case last year. But its previous games have been too easy to show worthwhile defense. There is no reason as yet to regard Indiana as a championship possibility.

Iowa, like Indiana, is not a champtionship possibility. There is, however, power enough in the team to make it almost certain that it will have considerable influence on the championship race. This is paricularly true in the case of Iowa, which has never famed. It may mutter to win on the Iowa floor. A game dropped here at the end of January might play no small amount of importance with Chicago’s chances.

Gophers Have More Chances

Michigan has a better team than last year, when it finished with Minnesota and Northwestern among the heaviest teams of the Big Ten. But Michigan has not yet shown enough strength to warrant the beief that it can finish out of the second division.

Minnesota has two wonderful player in Armstrong and One, if they are in condition. But it has been so long since the latter was in condition that some people believe that he is never going to come back. The reports have come back that Dr. Cook was building his attack around these men.
If they are in shape the attack will be a hard one to stop, and Minnesota will continue to be the strongest in the Conference as it did its season. But it has been so long since the latter was in condition that some people believe that he is never

N. O. L. TO MEET AT IOWA MAY 6

Seven Universities in League—Iowa Has Won First Place in 3 Contests

The Northern Oratorical League, composed of the Universities of Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin and Northwestern will meet here on May 6. The league is the outgrowth of the interstate Oratorical League which was composed of some twenty colleges and universities of the middle west and southern states. Professor Trueblood of the University of Michigan was the founder of the old league and because of the difficulty in keeping it organized he committed its affairs to the University of Wisconsin, for a new organization. He called together representatives of the universities which now form the N. O. L. and the first contest was held in 1911.

Last year the University was rep¬resented in the contest by Carl W. Wells Ed of Sigourney. The contest was held at Madison, Wis. In 1919 Robert Aurner, now a graduate student here represented the University and won first place. In 1920 and 1921 the Iowa representatives were first place. In 1922 the Iowa contestant was second place.

The chief competitors for first place have been Michigan and North western, while Iowa ranks about fourth. A plan of rotation is used bonds are exempt from all taxes. A plan of rotation is used bonds are exempt from all taxes.
