Iowa Defeats Illinois Team; Score 30 to 12

White, Sweeney, and Hunter Give Decision for Iowa

Illinois Fails To Win Pull

Bob Smith, Smith, and Hurley each scored eight points for the Iowa team. Iowa's Captain was a veteran in the Illini team and proved himself to be the best man that has met the 135-pounder of the Iowa ranks. However, he was taken down by Jack Hurley. The Illini team did not rescore in the second, third, or fourth minutes. They scored 12 points by getting a fall over their opponent, a 135-pounder of the Illinois team. How- ever, they had a veteran on the committee of Vaudeville 'Illinois' first 6 points.

Zoea Drill, Gold Dust Twins, and the Social Features of Vaudeville

A. W. W. Musteville to be given at the Regent theater, Thursday, February 18th. "Zoea Drill" is the story of a little bit of history in a little bit of people. It is a musical satire on President Hansen of Hawkeye, presented by the members of the Zoote drill. It is a satire on his success, and the Gold Dust Twins, and the Social Features of Vaudeville are the social customs of England during the period of the French revolution. The Zoote drill is to be given in sin-

Commerce Club Directs Plan To Aid Students and Employers

"Commerce Employment Bureau" is the name of the employment bureau recently organized by the directors of the Commerce Club. The work of a labor bureau of this nature has been long overdue, but the part played by students in the school of commerce is too important to be left in the hands of W. W. Wasmund, of the department of commerce. The plan of the labor bureau was first discussed at a meeting of the directors of the school of commerce. The plan is the work of G. S. Parson, of the department of commerce. He will head the bureau, and the head man in the bureau, E. J. Hovenstetter, has been appointed assistant. W. A. A. members majored in commerce, and Albert Grip-

FRATERNITY HORSE PLAY

"It's time those fool frats' get a little common sense into their methods of selecting their candidates. Just as a warning, I will fix you up, and if you let your plans make the fraternity pay the fine." Thus spoke a Michiganian in Pittsburgh recently to a young man brought before him on a charge of disorderly conduct. The youth, a student in Carnegie Institute of Technology, had been arrested at a social function as he was copying names of persons listed in the cemetery from the tombstones. At the time he was wearing a pale blue suit, straw hat, brown shoes, and carrying a lantern. It has long been the custom of fraternity men to make their pledges go through various public places during pre-nationary week previous to their initiation into the first organization, and if it is doubtful if a fine such as was assessed against the student in Pittsburgh would change the tradition. The provost is kept up, it is said, in many cases, because the members who wear frock coats during the previous week want to get even for the difficulties they were forced to suffer when they were the victims. For most of the fraternity members at least. It can be said to their credit that they have acquired a good deal of common sense during the past few years. There remains evidence of horse play on the campus but it is not as slight in the majority of cases that it is scarcely noticed. Fraternity men, as a group, are pretty well headed and realize the ridiculousness of their own organizations, and when pledges are seen going through aloud insults on prominent college corners. Few people see the frock coat prank in a graveyard or at 1 a.m. in the morning, but even that form of "buckle" is being abandoned.

In the instance of the Pittsburgh student the judge, an irascible person, perhaps, was not entirely satisfied to arranging all college fraternity organizations as "fool frats." The judge was thinking, no doubt, of the customs of fraternity in his days and when he found one still realize in his pledges search for entertainment he became exasperated and told them all to get some common sense. They are getting against sense into their ordinary methods, but they will never eliminate horse play. That will continue to remain as there are freshmen from which pledges can be made.
