PRINCETON TAKES A STEP

Recent action of the university authorities of Princeton gives to the senator council, elected by the undergraduate of its constitution, the privilege of dealing with students who are said to have failed to live up to their standard.

This disciplinary function of the Princeton senator council is limited to investigation of cases and recommendation of punishment to the faculty committee without reference submitted. Appeal may be made from the decision of the council to the faculty committee, and a final appeal may be considered.

It is held, that this procedure characterizes the action as an important step in the direction of senator government. It is worth thinking about. For here is a system of self-government that may be reasonably remade. Certainly it would seem impracticable until an adequate educational body such as the student council, should enhance the entire respect of the student body.

It will be remembered that senator government of some sort has been in effect at Princeton since 1831. Our own student council is just beginning to get under way. We are near the self-government business. But how will it ever be in this time and what can be expected from such a body with the strength and prestige of time and experience, the Princeton example is worth thinking about.

BUSINESS PROGRESS

The advent of an employment bureau is to be witnessed in the near future by the students of the school of commerce. This bureau will be in the field of business and the department of the University. The knowledge of business is cooperation, and how better can a school cooperate with the business world than by bringing together prospective employer and employee?

The bureau was founded with the hope that business men from the different locations over the state who desire new men would make their wants known to the bureau, and in this way give the university-trained men a chance for a position and at the same time satisfy the employers by furnishing them with trained, efficient hands.

It has long been the expressed wish of employers in different fields that they could connect the university-trained graduate by reference to a list of the men wishing to enter their field of industry, select the men when they wished to interview them, without regard to exploiting them. It is the purpose and hope of the new bureau to give a real service to the business men of the state as well as to the University students.

Hays and Swisher to Take Solo Parts in Opera "The Crusadisation"

Prof. William C. Hays of the music department and the Rev. Inga Swisher, music director, are planning the tenor and bass roles in the opera, "The Crusadisation," which will be presented by the University choir on Easter Sunday. The opera was composed by John Skram, a distinguished Norwegian composer, who was born in the latter half of the eighteenth century, and died in 1810. The first of the tenor's songs will be the famous "In Memory of My Countrymen," and the second of the bass's songs will be the famous "In Memory of My Father." The theme of the opera deals with the story of the crusaders, and the rest of the work will be published soon.
